Los Angeles Turns Out Huge Crowd For Truman

Up to Million Line 5½-Mile Parade Route to Cheer President

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Los Angeles, Calif., June 14. President Truman got the biggest welcome of his cross-country swing in this California metropolis today. Assistant Police Chief Joseph Reed estimated that somewhere between 750,000 and one million turned out to cheer him along a 5½ mile parade route. Mr. Truman, talking before the Los Angeles Press Club in the Cocoanut Grove at the Ambassador Hotel, said the reception "topped them all."

He also taunted Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, a White House aspirant, who charged Friday night that the President had been visiting "whistle stops" misinforming the people. "Los Angeles is the biggest whistle stop," Mr. Truman said, grinning.

This afternoon Mr. Truman held a lengthy conference with James Roosevelt, eldest son of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt and Democratic State chairman for California. The Roosevelt scion, in a Jefferson Day speech in April, pointedly neglected to mention Mr. Truman's name.

Roosevelt Pledged to Him

Asked later whether he was for Mr. Truman for the 1948 Democratic nomination, "Jimmy" said:

"I can only say what I've said before. I am on a delegation pledged to him. I can truthfully say that we rode on his coattails on June 1 in our primary. And in the registration, the Democrats got a majority of 600,000 in Los Angeles County."

Young Roosevelt said, in response to another question, that he thought "very definitely" that Mr. Truman had been helping the Democratic Party on this tour.

"He is hitting the Republicans where it hurts," Roosevelt said.

Will Rogers, jr., who went in with the delegation headed by Roosevelt, told reporters that they had a "real pep meeting." He quoted Mr. Truman as saying that he was encouraged by the receptions he has been getting and that he thought the country was "Democratic-minded."

The Rev. Clayton Russell, a delegate to the Democratic National Convention, like Roosevelt and Rogers, said he asked Mr. Truman whether he stood by the civil rights program. He quoted the Chief Executive as saying:

"I never made a proposal and backed down on it."

In his speech before the Los Angeles Press Club, the President summed up all of his grievances against the Eightieth Congress and once again demanded that it stay

Flood Toll Up In Northwest; River Falling

40 Now Known Dead, 28 Missing; Columbia Equals June 1 Crest

Portland, Oreg., June 14 (AP).—The Pacific Northwest's flood toll rose to 40 known dead and at least 28 missing today, just as the Columbia River began nearing the end of its most costly rampage.

The Columbia, miles beyond its banks, still stood at 30.2 feet this morning at Vancouver, Wash.—the same peak it reached June 1 for the first time since 1894. But upstream it was falling, and the river forecaster predicted .4 of a foot drop at Vancouver by tomorrow.

It will take many days for the submerged houses, industries, and farms to be uncovered again. Army engineers warned the receding waters bring still a new danger: current suction which may pull the earth from still holding dikes.

An ingenious plug, to keep flood waters from the $43,000,000 Reynolds Metal Co. aluminum plant, was completed today. The engineers poured 29,000 cubic yards of gravel across the Columbia River slough, and checked the water's flow toward the plant.

The zero-hour dam halted a further rise in the water that is rolling over the Portland municipal airport, homes, farms, and industries in a 10-mile-long strip of land northeast of here. Beyond the strip, with only one cross-dike as barricade, lies the great aluminum plant.

Meanwhile, the list of those missing since the Memorial Day destruction of Vanport rose to 28.

Ten workmen, not previously listed as missing, have not reported to their jobs since Vanport was destroyed. Most lived in the same section of Vanport as the 18 persons reported missing earlier by husbands or close relatives. Five bodies have been recovered from Vanport.

With the rivers lowering, the Pasco-Kennewick bridge in eastern Washington was reopened. Wenatchee, Wash., where the city water system was flooded, got one pumping unit back in service and the whole system may be restored tomorrow.

Security Bill Veto Killed By Congress

Both Houses Act Soon After Old Age Insurance Blast From President

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

With votes to spare, Congress yesterday over-rode President Truman's veto of a social security bill only a few hours after the Chief Executive sharply upbraided the Congress for "piecemeal" attacks on the old-age insurance program.

The measure, which exempts some 750,000 salesmen and other employes paid on a commission basis from old-age insurance, and increases benefits for the aged needy, the blind and dependent children, now is law without the President's signature.

Far More Than Needed

The House voted, 297 to 75, to override. A short time later the Senate voted 65 to 12—also far more than the necessary two-thirds—to enact the measure the President denounced.

In his veto message, Mr. Truman said he was giving Congress "adequate time" to change its bill.

Representative Bertrand W. Gearhardt (R., Calif.), author of the vetoed measure, called upon the House to spurn the President's attempt to kill it.

Failure to enact the legislation, Gearhart said, would bring into the Social Security program some 750,000 persons who would collect benefits, although they never contributed to the program through the special taxes levied to finance old-age insurance. Most of those exempted would be salesmen working on commission. Others are insurance salesmen, pieceworkers, truck drivers, taxi drivers.

Earlier this year Congress over-rode the President's veto of a bill to exempt independent news vendors from coverage of Social Security laws.

Increases Benefits

The bill Mr. Truman vetoed increases benefits to an estimated 3,500,000 persons—dependent children, blind persons and the needy. It increases aid for dependent children by $3 a month and aid to the aged and blind by $5 a month. Federal-State payments thus become $50 a month for aged needy persons and the blind and $27 a month for dependent children.

In his message, Mr. Truman said he was tempted to sign the bill because of these provisions.

Among his objections, however, the President said the bill permits employers to decide what categories the workers sought to be covered are in, thus enabling them to escape Social Security taxes at will.

Meanwhile, with a thumping 237-to-2 vote, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to open the way for 3,500,000 additional persons to participate in old-age insurance.

Short of Truman Proposal

The measure, which now must find its way to an already clogged Senate calendar, is far short of what President Truman has proposed.

The President has capitalized on expansion of the present system as a major political issue on his cross-country political tour. In a special message he had asked Congress last May to bring 20 million more persons into the Social Security program, for a total coverage of 50 million persons.

In addition, Mr. Truman asked that benefits be increased by at least 50 per cent and that social

Jews Agree To Check on FoodConvoys

U. N. Demand Met; Holy Land Has First Peaceful Day In 6½ Months

(From Press Dispatches)

Jerusalem, Palestine, June 14.—The Jews bowed to a United Nations ultimatum tonight and agree to permit inspection of their food convoys to the Holy City.

Five minutes before the truce commission's ultimatum was to expire at 8 p. m. (local time) the Jews accepted the U. N. demand for establishment of a checkpoint at Bab El Wad, 12 miles west of Jerusalem on the lifeline road to Tel Aviv.

Meanwhile all of Palestine's scattered fronts were quiet today as the Holy Land experienced its first peaceful day in 6½ months.

The Israeli government earlier announced it was complying with the immigration terms of the four-week armistice.

Arabs Reject First Agreement

The Jews had agreed yesterday to the establishment of a checkpoint at the Jerusalem city limits, but not at Bab El Wad.

The Arabs rejected this on the grounds that the Jews would be able to store supplies in nearby towns for eventual movement into the city and that they could move arms over the road in violation of the truce terms.

Brig. Gen. Norman Lash, Arab Legion commander in the Jerusalem area, threatened to resume firing unless the Jews agreed to inspection farther from the city.

The Jews, meanwhile, had refused to hold up convoys, reportedly saying any decision must be made by Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok. They moved a quantity of food over their mountain route last night.

Under the truce agreement supplies are to be brought into Jerusalem under the international Red Cross but must be limited so that supplies at the end of the truce will equal those at the start.

Bernadotte at Rhodes

Bernadotte himself was at Rhodes setting up headquarters for negotiations designed to turn the present armistice into lasting peace.

He was scheduled to fly to Cairo tomorrow for talks with Arab leaders and to go to Tel Aviv, the capital of Israel, on Thursday.

One of the first things Bernadotte will have to determine is whether Arab and Jewish leaders will agree to go to Rhodes for negotiations through him. It is not expected that an attempt will be made to have a roundtable meeting of representatives of both sides.

Neither the Arabs nor the Jews have shown any sign of changing their positions on the basic issues in dispute—the continued exist-

Measure Comes Up Today After Being Cleared By Vote of 6 to 4

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Leadership pressure brought the long bottled-up draft bill out of the House Rules Committee yesterday for an expected barefisted floor fight.

Cleared finally by a 6 to 4 vote, the controversial measure comes up in the House today. Proponents predict House approval by Wednesday night, and final enactment by the weekend.

The Rules Committee acted as Army chiefs urged restoration of nearly a half billion dollars cut earlier from 1949 military appropriations by the House.

Army Secretary Kenneth Royall and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Chief of Staff, told the Senate Appropriations Committee that the reduction will slash deeply into funds for new type weapons and equipment for the expanded ground forces planned under the draft bill.

"The net effect of the House reduction, as best our experts can predict," said Royall, "will be that two divisions would not be ready to fight if O-day should arrive.

"We cannot support the modern type of Army the defense of the United States demands merely by putting men into uniforms."

Naval Funds Boosted

The Senate group will not act on the Army request until today, but showed its temper on defense funds by voting more money for the Navy yesterday.

It brought the 1949 naval appropriations bill to the Senate floor boosted $125,437,000 above the total approved by the House. The increase is largely to restore cuts made by the lower body in warship and aviation maintenance.

Construction of a giant aircraft carrier of 65,000 tons or more was approved by the committee, along with other projects of a new prototype shipbuilding program. Five million were added for pay of Navy Department civil employes, which had been cut out by the House.

If approved, it will forestall the discharge of some 1000 civilians here and permit some additions.

Action Follows Hearing

House Rules Committee clearance of the draft bill came after a final hearing yesterday. The measure goes to the floor under an "open rule" which permits unlimited amendment and one motion to recommit—a maneuver which, if adopted, would kill the bill.

Three hours general debate is allowed, plus another hour on the rule fixing floor procedure on the bill. Members have prepared more than two-score amendments, making night sessions this evening and Wednesday likely.

While approval of the bill by a substantial margin is expected, opponents plan a delaying action. Representative Adam Powell (D., N. Y.) says he has 31 amendments to offer which would end racial discrimination and segregation in the armed forces.

The House draft bill is largely

GOP Agrees to Bill Hiking Pay Of U. S., D. C. Workers July 1

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

House and Senate Republican leaders yesterday agreed to a bill to raise the salaries of 1,300,000 Federal and District workers on July 1.

Under heavy pressure, the House Civil Service Committee late yesterday junked its bill for more liberal increases and gave its approval, under strong protests, to a new leadership bill that provides:

1. That the 475,000 postal employes be given a permanent pay raise of $450 each;

2. That the 825,000 Federal and District workers whose salaries are fixed by the Classification Act be given a "temporary" increase of $360 each, and,

3. That postal rates on air mail, parcel post, money orders, and other postal services be raised to bring in about 120 million dollars a year in additional revenue.

Meantime, the Senate GOP leaders were working on a similar bill to raise Federal salaries by identical amounts.

The House Rules Committee will meet this afternoon at 1:30 to consider the new pay raise bill. Chairman Leo Allen predicted it would be given prompt approval and that the bill would be taken up Thursday on the House floor under a "closed" rule which would prevent it from being amended. In other words, the bill, as outlined above, would have to be approved or rejected as written. Approval, however, is a foregone conclusion with GOP leaders supporting it.

Previous to yesterday's rapid-fire developments, the House Civil Service Committee had stood firm on its bill to give postal workers a flat $585 increase, and a boost of $468 to classified employes. Also, up to yesterday, House GOP leaders had approved a pay bill for postal employes only.

But members of the House Committee—Republicans and Democrats alike—protested vigorously over the pressure and coercion of the GOP leaders in reversing themselves.

Most Democratic members of the committee showed their displeasure, it was learned, by voting

House Ups Veterans' Aid To Disabled

Benefit Payments Also Increased for Widows, Dependents

By The Associated Press

Two bills estimated to boost by 161 million dollars annually the benefit payments to disabled veterans and to widows and dependents of deceased veterans were passed yesterday by the House.

Both skimmed through without a dissenting vote and went to the Senate, which has passed similar bills calling for a lesser annual expenditure. Unless the Senate accepts the House changes, the bills will go to a Senate-House conference committee for a compromise.

A 360-to-0 rollcall count approved a bill the Veterans' Administration said would add about 100 million dollars to the annual cost of pensions for widows and dependents of World War I and II men whose death resulted from theirwar service. This estimate covers the first year's cost only and will fluctuate thereafter.

The bill would boost from $60 to $75 monthly the payments to a widow without children. A widow with one child would receive $115 instead of $78, with $20 extra for each additional child. The present allowance for children averages $15.60 per month for each child in excess of one.

The monthly pension to children alone would be boosted from $30 to $50 for the first child, with $20 for each additional child. The present monthly rate for additional children, when there is no widow, averages $12.

Dependent mothers or fathers would be boosted from $54 to $75 a month if only one parent survives. If both survive, the combined payment would be raised from $60 to $80.

For the first time, the bill sets up a dependency standard for dependents. A single parent whose annual income does not exceed $1800, and two parents with combined income not over $3000, with

Trade Accord Is Approved By Senate

President's Power Limited in One-Year Compromise Bill

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The Senate late yesterday approved a compromise one-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements, with procedural limitations on the President's tariff-making powers.

The vote was 70 to 18. Passage followed narrow margin failure of separate Democratic efforts to extend the act without restraints for one, two or three years.

The Senate divided almost party-wise after Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) indorsed the compromise "without any fear that it injures the reciprocal trade agreements principle in the slightest degree."

But Senate Administration Leader Alben W. Barkley (Ky.) said it "sounds the death knell" of the program, and there was talk of a veto in the Democratic cloakroom.

Bill Goes Back to House

The bill goes back to the House, which is expected to accept the Senate changes. The House had voted to permit Congress to "veto" any trade agreement that goes beyond Tariff Commission recommendations.

The Senate compromise eliminates the veto provision, but requires the President to wait for Tariff Commission recommendations before negotiating a new agreement. If he fails to follow the commission's "advice" he must send a message to Congress explaining why.

Just before the final showdown, the Senate accepted an amendment by Senator Irving M. Ives (R., N. Y.) requiring the commission to make its report to the President on any proposed agreement within four months.

The amendment, supported by Vandenberg and Finance Chairman Eugene D. Millikin (R., Colo.), was designed to meet Democratic charges that delays on the part of

Virtually All Curbs Removed; Program Back on 12-Month Basis

Post Reporter

The Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday restored most of the cuts and removed virtually all of the restrictions imposed by the House last week on foreign aid programs,

All but 408 million dollars of the 12-month cuts made by the House were back in the bill when the Senate committee finished work on it.

The European Recovery Program was back on a 12-month basis, instead of 15 months as the House had decreed. Most other relief and recovery programs were back on a basis approximating what Congress had authorized last April.

Slashed to 20 Million

The chief exception was a 60-million-dollar contribution to the International Emergency Children's Fund of the United Nations, which the House had approved in full. The Senate committee unexpectedly slashed this to 20 million, partly, according to Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), on the ground that the fund was being used to feed children "behind the Iron Curtain."

Bridges told reporters there had been "great difference of opinion" over this item, with some committee members voting to wipe it out, and others, including Senator Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.), voting to cut it to 10 million dollars.

For 12 months' spending on all foreign aid programs:

The Administration asked $6,533,700,000; the House had voted $5,100,700,000; the Senate committee voted $6,125,700,000.

In the coming Senate-House conference there will be further haggling and compromising over the Senate's figures.

But most of the conditions and restrictions written into the House bill were regarded last night as dead. The Senate committee was determined that the appropriation bill should leave as much discretion as possible to Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul Hoffman and his staff.

While it is usual for a Senate-House appropriations conference to bargain on figures—and the coming bargain may cut the Senate's figures somewhat—it is unusual for the House to have its way on legislative conditions which the Senate has knocked out.

Conditions Eliminated

The Senate committee eliminated these conditions among others:

1 That no money be provided for the International Refugee Organization until there had been an agreement bringing down the diet of displaced persons to the level of the people living around them.

2. That military aid to China be administered in the same manner as military aid to Greece and Turkey.

3. That not less than 10 per cent of the local currency funds, to be set aside by each European nation getting free grants, be ear-

District Budget Measure Is Sent To White House

The Senate late yesterday approved the compromise $99,729,843 District budget bill and sent it to the White House.

Final action came with acceptance of a conference report on the recommendation of Senator Henry C. Dworshak (R., Idaho), chairman of the Senate District Appropriations subcommittee.

The budget, which covers the year starting July 1, is the biggest in Washington's history. It compares with a $95,936,229 city budget for the current fiscal year.

Child's Auto Accident Suit Against Mother Is Thrown Out

A child may not sue his parents for personal injury negligently inflicted even though the parents are covered by insurance, the United States Court of Appeals ruled yesterday.

The court made clear that its ruling, outgrowth of an auto collision in Maryland, applied only to that State.

The child, 9-year-old Armand Villaret, had suffered a concussion and a broken nose when an auto operated by his mother, Mrs. Abigail H. Villaret, Wardman Park Hotel, collided with another vehicle on Baltimore blvd. December 20, 1946.

Suit was brought in Armand's behalf in District Court asking $10,000 damages from his mother, who was covered by insurance.

In yesterday's decision the Appeals Court cited authority holding that such suits are against public policy in that they tend to create domestic disharmony.

In other decisions the court ruled: 1. That an employe injured during lunch hour is not always eligible for workmen's compensation. Each case must be decided on its individual merits, the court said, in affirming a lower court decision against Miss Emily Wetzel, Wayne, Pa., former French Republic employe injured by an auto on her way to lunch.

2. That the full value of an insurance policy be paid to parents of an American flier believed shot down in a raid over Germany in 1944. The insurance company had contended that payment should be limited to premiums paid, citing a clause in the policy providing such a limitation if death were "due to operating or riding in any kind of aircraft."

The appellate court, reversing a District Court decision, held that death was due to gunfire and not to riding in a plane.

Beneficiaries of the policy were Edward H. Boye and Lucy Boye, Buffalo, N. Y., parents of the flier.

Appeals Court Upholds Conviction of Eisler

The United States Court of Appeals upheld yesterday by a 2 to 1 vote the conviction of Gerhart Eisler on charges of contempt of Congress.

Supreme Court Splits Vote On Six Civil Rights Cases

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

The sharp division of the Supreme Court over civil rights showed up in split votes on six cases yesterday.

Three times the asserted right was upheld, twice it was denied and once it was left in doubt. One ruling somewhat trimmed down the great power to look for evidence without search warrants, which the court last year gave the police.

This power grew out of the "Harris Doctrine," by which a bare majority of the justices upheld an FBI squad which arrested a man on a warrant for one crime, then spent five hours going through his home and found evidence on which he was jailed for another.

Another 5 to 4 majority yesterday denounced seizure of a still and other evidence by agents who raided a gang of New Jersey moonshiners without a warrant.

Two years ago, the gang hired part of a Monmouth County, N. J., farm for $300 a month. The farmer was very helpful; he and "a dumb farm hand" turned to and helped put up the still house.

The farmer was helpful to the Government, too, for he told the Internal Revenue Bureau's alcohol tax unit what was going on. The farm hand was an agent planted on the place to keep an eye on things. After the agent went to work for the gang, at $100 a week, he filed his reports right from the

Ablest Citizens Urged to Give Some Years to Public Service

Charlottesville, Va., June 14 (AP).—David E. Lilienthal proposed today "a citizens' universal public service" to insure the manning of Government posts by the country's ablest citizens.

He urged that within the next three decades "every educated person who is qualified to do so, plan definitely to set aside a number of years" for public service.

Lilienthal, chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, spoke before the graduating class at the University of Virginia.

He said the service could be in the legislative or executive branches of local, Federal or State government, but emphasized that it should be on a full-time basis.

"I am proposing a widespread rotation of the not-too-pleasant duties of public service," Lilienthal declared.

"And I do not mean merely part-time or 'dollar-a-year' service alone. Nor in my opinion will it meet the situation to put this public service off until you are of retirement age."

He urged university graduates to "be an active, living part of your times." Their era, he said, would be "dominated by physics and politics, or more accurately science and government."

The country must depend chiefly upon the well-informed lay citizen, rather than the scientists themselves, in determining "the use to which science is put," he said. These citizens, he added, must act to resolve "the many public policy questions that scientific discoveries constantly force upon us."

Romney Denied Review in House 'Bank' Shortage

By The Associated Press

Kenneth Romney, former sergeant-at-arms of the House, yesterday was denied a Supreme Court review of his conviction on a charge of concealing a shortage in his accounts.

Chief Justice Vinson took no part in consideration of the appeal.

The shortage, in funds of the House "bank," was estimated at about $121,000. Romney was convicted in U. S. District Court here, and given a sentence of one to three years. The U. S. Court of Appeals here upheld the conviction.

In asking a review, Romney contended the grand jury that indicted him was illegally constituted. He said it was made up of volunteers and was not "fairly drawn from a cross-section of the community."

PEOPLE In The NEWS

David A. Morse, of 1230 16th st. nw., a hard-working attorney who became United States Labor Undersecretary has said he wants to work for peace—and he's going to get the chance.

Beginning July 1, Morse, a man who's done many things and done them well, will head the International Labor Organization—sole surviving unit of the old League of Nations and now an agency of the United Nations.

How he feels about the tripartite agency, representing Government, employers and labor was made plain recently when the former NLRB general counsel called it the greatest living governmental vehicle for world peace" and pledged himself to "take advantage of the great opportunity that has come my way to work to that end."

Friends say a deep interest in international affairs prompted him to accept the $20,000-a-year post as director general of the ILO. They say he preferred it it the Labor secretaryship, for which he certainly would have been considered.

Morse, who was named three times as United States delegate to the ILO, was elected to the top ILO post Saturday in a preconvention session of the governing body in San Francisco. He succeeds Edward Phelan of Ireland, and is the second American to get the job. The first was the late Gov. James G. Winant.

A tall, husky, former football star, with a quiet, serious manner, Morse engaged in many activities before becoming one of the Labor Department's big boys in 1946.

With Rutgers and Harvard Law School behind him, he took his first taste of Government in the dark days of 1932—as a member of the Justice Department's legal staff. Subsequently he became special assistant to the Attorney General.

Later he served as regional attorney in New York City—his birthplace—for the National Labor Relations Board and impartial chairman for the big city's powerful silk industry.

Shortly after Pearl Harbor he gave up a lucrative practive to get into the Air Forces, taking over wartime jobs which will stand him in good stead in his ILO post. He was chief of the labor division of the Allied Military Government in North Africa, Sicily and Italy for a time, subsequently becoming head of the labor section, United States Group Control Council for Germany.

As such, he helped draft the policy and program which unions were to me reconstituted on a democratic basis.

Emerging with the rank of lieutenant colonel, and later capturing a Legion of Merit, Morse marked his return to a civil status by becoming general counsel for the National Labor Relations Board. Less than a year later he was appointed by President Truman to be assistant Secretary of Labor.

Intimates say he combines strength with gentleness and manages to be extraordinarily frank without hurting anyone's feelings. A devoted husband, he is married to the granddaughter of the late Oscar Straus, Secretary of Commerce and Labor in 1906.

By Court Orders

Maritime Strikes Are Banned

New York, June 14 (AP).—The Federal Government obtained injunctions on the East and West Coasts today in an effort to prevent a threatened Nation-wide maritime strike.

The injunctions, issued under the Taft-Hartley law, are designed to delay strike action at least 80 days.

In San Francisco, Federal Judge George B. Harris issued a similar order involving West Coast shipping.

Third Injunction Sought

Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed granted a third injunction at Cleveland covering the Great Lakes.

Union officials here bickered over whether they would obey the injunction. But Joseph Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime Union, gave a strong hint they would. He said yesterday the NMU would not defy the law.

A spokesman for the 54 East and Gulf Coast shipping operators named in Judge Clancy's order said they would follow the mandate of the court.

The injunctions were applied for on order of President Truman, who acted after receiving a report of his Fact Finding Board which investigated the dispute.

Judge Clancy's order said a maritime strike would "imperil the national health and safety." It directed both sides to maintain the status quo for a period of 10 days, with a further hearing set for June 18.

However, United States Attorney John F. McGohey said the 80-day cooling-off period fixed by the Taft-Hartley law began today with the signing of the temporary injunction. This section of the act never has been specifically interpreted by the courts.

Seven unions with more than 100,000 members had threatened to strike some time after their contracts expire tomorrow night.

Core of the dispute is maintenance of the union hiring halls where seamen now are signed on for voyages. The unions assign all workers to ships.

The operators maintain these halls violate the Taft-Hartley provisions against the closed shop.

The unions insist that the halls be kept in operation until "competent judicial authority" rules them out.

A hearing on the issue of whether the halls violate the law was held today in Chicago before Howard Myers, of Washington, trial examiner for the National labor relations board.

Herman de Koven, of Chicago, counsel for the NLRB, said the union immediately asked for a continuance and walked out of the hearing when it was denied. The remainder of the hearing, De Koven said, was taken up with presentation of testimony by the NLRB, which charges the NMU engaged in unfair labor practices under the Taft-Hartley Act in insisting on having the hiring halls and in calling a strike to enforce its "illegal demands." Union sources were unavailable for comment on why they walked out. The hearing will resume tomorrow.

The unions also are seeking improved working conditions and higher wages.

Curran, right-wing leader in the NMU, largest of the unions threatening to strike, disputed hotly with another NMU official over the course to be followed after issuance of the injunction by Judge Clancy.

Paul Palazzi, NMU New York port agent and a left-winger leader in the union, sent telegrams to all ships in port here advising the seamen to prepare for a strike at midnight tomorrow and adding:

"The only thing that will stop us is an acceptable contract."

Curran retorted: "That's a lie. Palazzi had no authority to make such a statement. The executive officers of the union are responsible in deciding such things."

Later NMU officials sent out instructions to all members directing that the injunctions be obeyed.

The three unions named in Judge Clancy's order are the NMU, the CIO Marine Engineers Beneficial Association and the CIO American Radio Association.

Other unions involved in the dispute are the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, the CIO Marine Cooks and Stewards, and the Firemen and Oilers, an independent group. These four operate on the West Coast, as does MEBA.

NUM and MEBA negotiators met with representatives of the shipowners at bargaining sessions here today.

'No Progress' Reported in Coal Parley

By the United Press

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for soft coal operators, said yesterday that no progress has been made on a new wage contract since negotiations with the United Mine Workers began a week ago.

He made the statement after union and company negotiators met for two hours in an effort to reach an agreement that would avert a possible strike on June 30.

If no progress is made this week, Federal Mediator Cyrus S. Ching may be forced to report to President Truman the threat of another coal walkout.

Taft-Hartley Machinery

Mr. Truman then could set in motion the machinery of the Taft-Hartley Law to obtain another injunction against the miners. It probably would call upon them to return to their jobs at the end of their annual vacation on July 6.

Union President John L. Lewis said after yesterday's meeting that nothing happened. He said the conferees "went over the same old ground."

O'Neill went further, saying he did not think "this conference has made any progress since it assembled."

Turned Down, Lewis Says

Lewis said he asked the operators again to agree to start paying benefits from the 1947 welfare and retirement fund, and that the operators once more turned him down.

O'Neill said Lewis has refused to talk new contract terms until the operators agree to the pension fund demand.

He indicated the operators will not start payments until the courts rule on their suit calling for a definition of miners eligible for benefits.

The operators have refused to make payments to miners working for companies that do not contribute to the fund.

Printer Strike Authorized

Albany, N. Y., June 14 (AP).—Union printers at 10 upstate newspapers, including 7 in the Gannett group, have authorized strikes, union officials said today.

Members of the International Typographical Union (AFL) voted during the weekend at Albany, Elmira, Binghamton, and Utica. No strike dates were set.

The ITU is reported to have demanded a closed shop provision and wage increases. The publishers claim the Taft-Hartley Act prohibits closed shop contracts.

A vote will be taken next Sunday by ITU members on Rochester's two newspapers—both Gannett. There was no comment from Gannett officials.

Newspapers involved:

Albany—The Evening Knickerbocker News (Gannett) and the morning Times-Union (Hearst); Binghamton—The Evening Press (Gannett) and the independently owned Morning Sun; Elmira—the Morning Advertiser, the Evening Star-Gazette and the Sunday Telegram, all Gannett papers; Utica—the Morning Daily Press and the Evening Observer Dispatch, both Gannett papers.

Democratic Platform Unit Is Appointed

A 17-member preliminary drafting committee last night was appointed by Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath to start work on the Democratic platform.

Senator Francis D. Myers (D., Pa.) was named chairman. Myers said his group will open hearings in Philadelphia July 7, five days before the Democratic National Convention meets. It will start hammering out planks after two days of testimony.

Unlike the Republican resolutions committee, which will divide into eight subcommittees when it meets in Philadelphia Thursday, Myers said the same Democratic unit will hold hearings and draft a preliminary platform. This will later be submitted to the full 48-State committee.

Civil Rights a Problem

The Pennsylvanian told reporters the biggest Democratic platform hurdle is the delicate civil rights issue and Southern Democratic demands for a strong States rights plank.

"I think we are pretty much together on everything else," he said.

Four Southern and border State men and one Midwestern critic of the President's tour were among the 17 named to the drafting group. The Southern and border men were former Gov. Chauncey Sparks of Alabama; former Gov. Dan Moody of Texas; Senator Clyde R. Hoey of North Carolina, and George D. Key, former Democratic State chairman of Oklahoma.

Ritchie Is Surprise Member

But the surprise on the list was William Ritchie, Democratic State chairman of Nebraska, who recently blasted Truman tour arrangements in Omaha.

Dewey Collides With Opposition

New Castle, N. H., June 14 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey ran into stiff opposition today from forces representing his principal rivals for the Republican presidential nomination.

The New Yorker's prediction of victory at Philadelphia next week, which he made upon his arrival at the National Governors' Conference here, touched off a series of reactions.

Gov. Kim Sigler of Michigan, who predicts Senator Arthur Vandenberg would win the nomination after a deadlock, told reporters:

Race Held Wide Open

Gov. Luther Youngdahl, plugging for his fellow Minnesotan, Harold E. Stassen, said, "The race is still wide open."

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert said his fellow Ohioan, Senator Robert A. Taft, "definitely" would win the nomination.

Gov. Earl Warren of California, an avowed candidate, who huddled with Dewey last night, told a reporter this afternoon: "I have made no deals and I don't intend to make any deals."

Political Talk Barred as Governors Meet in New Hampshire

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Portsmouth, N. H., June 14.—The National Governors' Conference has a rule that politics must be forgotten at its annual sessions. Only Governors attend, not Democrats or Republicans.

So the Governors here this week aren't paying any more attention to politics than President Truman.

This morning Gov. Charles Milby Dale of New Hampshire, host to the convention, welcomed the visiting Governors. He reiterated this nonpolitics rule. Two hours later he went on a national radio hook-up to tell the world why he favors Governor Dewey for President. He pledged his support and that of the New Hampshire delegation to the New Yorker.

Driscoll States Position

While he was broadcasting Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll was holding forth to the press in the hotel bar—the official news conference room.

Driscoll, New Jersey's favorite son at next week's GOP dogfight, isn't taking his candidacy seriously. He shouted a definite "no" to a question as to his ambitions for second place on the ticket. He declared that the Jersey delegation felt that the platform was as important as the nominee. A strong stand to keep the Nation's word as to economic cooperation appropriations is necessary for ultimate Republican victory in the fall, he declared.

"Some names have been mentioned that would make it very difficult for the party to win," he said. He wouldn't mention names, but said that Dewey, Vandenberg, Taft, and others had taken the "honorable" stand toward ECA funds. To a direct question about Joe Martin, he replied: "His record is still to be made."

Showdown Urged

At a long session devoted to discussion of problems involving differences between State governments and Federal bureaus, the conference was almost unanimous in urging a showdown on some issues.

Particularly are the Governors interested in insisting upon the Federal Government withdrawing from the gasoline tax field. The present Federal gasoline taxes were adopted as an emergency measure, several, including Caldwell of Florida and Maw of Utah pointed out. They felt the emergency is passed. But particularly they don't approve of the National Government collecting three times as much gasoline taxes as they return to the State for road construction. Most States have laws providing that all funds from automobile fees and gasoline taxes must be expended on roads.

The Governors were almost unanimous in opposing present Federal grants in aid. They felt it gives the central government too much power over the States, by requiring the States to match Federal appropriations and then spending the funds as Washington directs. Instead they were agreed that Federal grants should be made in one allotment, with the State Legislature determining how it is to be spent.

Problems Held Similar

Wyoming's Governor Hunt pointed out, however, that the "public lands" States in the West have much the same problem as the District of Columbia in the matter of taxes. In these States the Government owns 36 per cent of the land. This limits the area on which the State can collect taxes. The same States, because of limited populations and vast areas, are confronted with a serious problem in meeting road expenses, school and public health programs. These States, he urged, should be given special consideration in determining Federal grants.

California's Warren pointed out that various States face varying problems. He urged that a "specific statutory formula" for distribution of Federal grants be worked out by Congress. He complained of the present system by which Federal contributions to the States are "determined day by day by Federal bureaus in Washington."

One incident emphasized the split that exists in the Pennsylvania delegation to the Republican convention. At the close of the morning session, the convention secretary announced that Senator Edward Martin, Pensylvania's native son, had extended an invitation to any Governors going from here to Philadelphia to have luncheon with him at the Union League Club next Monday, while Mrs. Martin would entertain their wives. Gov. James H. Duff of the same State showed evident surprise at the announcement. But it provided an opportunity for horseplay by some visitors of Democratic faith. One inquired pointedly "What club did you say?" While another asked if "that invitation holds good in July."

Democratic Primary Blocked by Court

A court order blocked yesterday's scheduled District Democratic primary election in the dispute over selection of delegates to the Democratic national convention.

District Court Justice T. Alan Goldsborough yesterday agreed to hear the case of the Americans for Democratic Action vs. the District Democratic central committee. The committee ruled ADA-endorsed candidates ineligible in the primary.

Justice Goldsborough set 10 a. m. Friday for a hearing in the case, and continued in force two restraining orders to prevent the primary.

The central committee convention convention delegates are pledged to support President Truman, while ADA seeks the nomination of "liberals" like Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower or Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Other Developments

The court action also brought these developments:

1. Melvin D. Hildreth, Democratic Central Committee chairman, issued orders to cancel the primary—set for 4 p. m. to 8 p. m. yesterday—and pack away the ballots and ballot boxes pending a court decision.

2. Hildreth declared: We are completely bewildered by this. The convention is on July 12. It is quite possible that the District of Columbia for the first time in history will have no delegation at the convention."

3. ADA announced: "The next move is up to Mr. Hildreth as to whether he is going to permit a contest in the District."

4. Leaders of a "rump" Republican faction, who elected their own slate of three Republican Convention delegates and last month lost a court battle in a somewhat similar dispute here, moved to have that case reopend.

Two Suits Combined

If the primary had been held yesterday, Democratic voters would have elected 12 delegates to the Democratic National Convention to cast the District's six votes there. Twenty-two members of the Democratic Central Committee would also have been elected as well as a national committeeman and committeewoman from the District.

In District Court yesterday, ADA combined its two suits in the case, involving the absence from the primary ballot of the names of convention delegate candidates, and names of six candidates for the Democratic Central Committee.

Four ADA candidates for delegates were denied a place on the ballot, but only three are parties to the delegate suit. The four are also among the six persons indorsed by ADA for the central committee.

Wallace M. Cohen, ADA attorney, also presented an affidavit from Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) Democratic National Committee chairman, in which McGrath stated:

"Neither membership nor activity in or for Americans for Democrats Action or the CIO Political Action Committee has any relationship whatsoever to the qualifications of persons to represent the Democratic Party" at the convention.

Separate Action

In a separate action yesterday, the Veterans For Eisenhower Club of the District of Columbia, headed by Maynard B. DeWitt, sought its own injunction to prevent the primary yesterday, on grounds it did not permit enough time view of the dispute.

This was dismissed when Justice Goldsborough set the other hearing for Friday, but the group won its point in that the primary was postponed. Irving R. M. Panzer, attorney for this group, admitted under questioning that Eisenhower had denied he was a candidate, and DeWitt said later, "This gives us more time to work up a write-in campaign to draft Eisenhower."

In questioning Panzer, Justice Goldsborough declared, in apparent puzzlement, "All this fuss in the District where nobody votes is enough to drive a man nuts!"

Democratic Central Committee Chairman Hildreth said that group will meet in emergency session tonight to decide "what to do next—go on, dissolve, or what."

Truman Gets Greatest Welcome of Trip

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

IN LOS ANGELES—President Truman waves to cheering throngs in Los Angeles from his car. Nearly a million greeted him. The car, by the way, is a Lincoln on the job until it has done something about high prices, housing and other problems. However, he listed the counts in his indictment in what he said was the "most kindly frame of mind." He was not being sarcastic either, for the harshness appeared to have gone out of his voice.

Huge Crowds Greet Truman In Ride Through Los Angeles

"I know the majority of the Congressmen," he said. "As individuals they are fine people. I have some of the best friends in the world in Congress, but when I speak of the Eightieth Congress and its accomplishments in the last year and a half, I say that Congress has not done very much for the benefit of the people.

"They have passed a rich man's tax law. They have passed a lot of legislation that helps special classes. I am against class legislation and I have tried to show that in numerous vetoes. And I made this trip so that I could lay before you personally my views on this subject.

Presented Mounted 8-Ball

"If I am wrong you will have a chance to attend to me later on, but if I am right you ought to attend to somebody else."

At the conclusion of his speech, the Los Angeles Press Club gave Mr. Truman a mounted 8-ball, the emblem of the club. He said that since the President was "behind the 8-ball most of the time," he was glad to have it and would put it on his White House desk.

Only the receptions at Rio de Janeiro and Mexica City were greater than the one Mr. Truman received in the City of the Angeles today.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron, a Republican, thought the turnout here probably was nearer a million than 750,000. He added that he had never seen anything like it.

Confetti and ticker tape poured down on Mr. Truman as he moved along Grand avenue and Broadway. A flier, using smoke, flew overhead tracing "Welcome, President Truman" in the skies. It turned out that he was hired by "Honest John," a character who sells used cars.

Nearby Hollywood sent three of its stars to the Press Club luncheon to entertain the chief executive. They were Red Skelton, the comic; Dinah Shore, the singer, and Kathryn Grayson, who probably would be called a heart throb.

Old Story on Congress

What Mr. Truman had to say about Congress in his summing up he had said many times before on this barnstorming trip.

He started out on high prices, recalling how the Seventy-ninth Congress made him sign a revised OPA bill that was worse than none at all.

He said then that Congress had refused to give him the controls he began asking for at the special session that began last November.

The attitude of the Eightieth Congress has been, he said, that "prices would adjust themselves."

"Well," he said, "prices have adjusted themselves. They have almost gone off the graph adjusting themselves, in favor of the man who controls the goods and the consumer pays through the nose."

He next took up housing, which has passed the Senate but has yet to clear the House, he accused Representative Jesse P. Wolcott (R., Mich.) chairman of the Banking Committee, of trying to "sit" on the bill, and told how 11 Democrats and three Republicans finally voted it out of committee.

GOP "Sins" Listed

It was now necessary, he said, for the House Rules Committee headed by Representative Leo A. Allen (R., Ill.) to clear the way for the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill so that it can be passed. He added:

"The chairman of the Rules Committee is a little bit tougher than the chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee, so I doubt very much whether we will get action."

Next came criticism of Congress for nearly "choking to death" the Labor Department by giving it inadequate appropriations. He was especially critical of its treatment of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

He accused the Republicans of violating another 1944 platform promise by trying to wreck Social Security.

"You know how the Congress had broadened the base of Social Security?" he asked. "They have just taken 750,000 people off Social Security, and sent me a bill to that effect and tied a rider to it, increasing old-age assistance, hoping that I would take the bait and let them get away with wrecking Social Security.

"I didn't do it. I vetoed that bill this morning."

Veto Overriden

[Both houses later in the day overrode the veto.—Editor's Note.]

He next scored Congress for failing to act on a National Health program. He said that only two classes of people can get the proper medical care nowadays, the indigent and the very rich. Something ought to be done, he said, for "the ordinary fellow who gets from $2400 to $5000 a year. And something ought to be done, too, he said, for those who get disabled in industry.

The next eight counts of his indictment had to do with Congress' failure to act on his recommendation that the Federal Government make contribution to the support of the schools, and thus end a "disgraceful" situation.

He said the Senate had passed the education bill but the House was "roosting on it."

A price-support program for the farmers and development of the West's water resources came next, and then Mr. Truman wound up with the suggestion that the voters "attend to him if he was wrong and to somebody else if he was right."

Mr. Truman left here at 10 p. m., (EDT) on the trip Eastward.

Rear-Platform Talk

On the way Southward this morning, the President made one rear-platform talk at Santa Barbara. It was then 7:15 a. m., and Mr. Truman thanked those in the crowd for getting up so early to greet him, and went on to say:

"It is a little too early in the morning to make a real political talk, or a nonpolitical talk, because this is supposed to be a nonpolitical trip.

"That all depends on your viewpoint. If you are on my side, it's point. If you are on my side, it's a low-down political tirck, to come out and tell the people what they ought to hear.

"That's all I am trying to do. I am trying to give you the picture as I see it. And then if you like it, that will be wonderful for me. If you don't like it, then you will do what you think is best for the country.

"And I think that is the reason our country is great. You can look at me here and then make up your own mind, and there won't be anybody standing behind you with a club when you go out to vote."

Taft Is Host To Maryland Delegation

By The Associated Press

Robert A. Taft gave a supper Sunday night for Maryland's unpledged delegation to the Republican national convention, and was told by Jacob France, State national committeeman, that "we hope you succeed in your quest."

Most of the delegation attended the buffet supper at the Georgetown home of the Ohio Senator and presidential aspirant. Some of them said afterward they would stick to their support of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York or former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

France praised Taft for his "courage and patriotism." "We're not going to forget your qualifications and splendid attributes in Philadelphia next week," he said. "We wish you all the luck in the world."

Nevertheless, a prediction in the Taft camp conceded seven of Maryland's 16 convention votes to Dewey on the first ballot, claiming six for the Ohioan and allowing Stassen three.

After Stassen met the delegation in Baltimore last week George Cochran Doub, his Maryland political adviser, said Stassen and Dewey would take seven votes each, leaving one each for Taft and House Speaker Joseph Martin. Other forecasts gave Dewey as many as 10.

Taft said that if nominated he will urge Republican organizations to make a serious effort to carry Southern States.

There is a "real opportunity for the Republicans to carry North Carolina and Texas," he said, where the Democrats are divided not only by the third party of Henry A. Wallace but by a "fourth party in the South."

Record Flood Control, Harbor Bill Approved

By the Associated Press

The Senate yesterday approved a record 573 million dollar money bill for flood control and navigation projects, sending the measure to the White House.

The bill covers several hundred construction projects in about 40 States. The projects include for flood control construction:

Maryland and West Virginia—Cumberland, Md., and Ridgely, W. Va., $500,000.

North Carolina and Virginia—Buggs Island reservoir, nine million.

Maryland—Savage River Dam, $400,000.

Virginia—Philpott Reservoir, two million.

West Virginia—Bluestone Reservoir, $5,713,800; Parkersburg, $2,450,000; Point Pleasant, $800,000.

For rivers and harbors construction:

Maryland—Baltimore Harbor and Channels, $871,400; Black Walnut Harbor, $28,000; Duck Point Cove, $26,000; Lower Thoroughfare, at or near Wenona, Deals Island, $28,600; Pocomoke River, $6000; Town Creek, $32,500.

Virginia—Broad Creek, $32,700; Crane's Creek, $7500; Hoskins Creek, $25,000; Norfolk Harbor, $108,000.

W. & L. U. Celebration Commission Created

President Truman signed yesterday a Senate joint resolution providing for observance of the 200th anniversary of the founding of Washington and Lee University next year.

The resolution creates a United States Washington and Lee University Bi-centennial Commission of 15 members. The president is designated honorary chairman.

GOP Group Rejects Clair As Candidate

The candidacy of Republican Francis J. Clair for Arlington County Board was rejected last night by the Arlington County Republican Committee.

Clair, free lance writer, filed June 4 for what he said was a scheduled August 3 Republican primary. Last night, however, the Republican Committee said it had never designated the primary this year to pick its County Board candidate.

Clair has charged his candidacy is being rejected because the Republican Committee is making a "deal" to back an independent candidate. He has threatened to take his case to the courts unless the Republican Committee makes him the GOP County Board candidate.

After the meeting last night Chairman Edgar Pumphrey said the question of a GOP nominee for the post is still "wide open." He said the committee now can either indorse or nominate a candidate, hold a convention to pick him, or refrain from selecting one.

Senate Passes Fund Bill With Straus Bar

The Senate last night quickly passed a record $442,179,098 Interior Department Appropriations bill containing a provision to bar Reclamation Commissioner Michael Straus from his post after next January 31.

The measure now goes to a conference with the House which passed a more drastic amendment barring Straus from his post immediately. Both the Senate and House versions would also bar Regional Reclamation Director Richard L. Boke of Sacramento, Calif.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) protested the inclusion of the rider as unconstitutional.

The rider requires that after January 31, 1949, the chief of the Reclamation Bureau, the assistant commissioner, and all regional directors be engineers with five years of experience. Neither Straus nor Boke would qualify.

Senator Sheridan C. Downey (D., Calif.), who has vigorously opposed handling of the Central Valley project by Straus and Boke, insisted the rider was constitutional because it described job qualifications and did not mention either by name.

The Senate version carries $254,442,855 for western reclamation projects, most of it earmarked for the Missouri River Basin, Columbia Basin Central Valley and Colorado Big Thompson projects.

The measure carried $46,486,507 more than the House voted. It is approximately 10 per cent less than President Truman originally asked. He sought $474,773,835.

Housing Bill Faces House Rules Group

The Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill comes up to another hurdle today when it goes before the House Rules Committee.

Chairman Leo E. Allen (R., Ill.) announced today that his group will begin hearings on the measure then but said they might take more than one day.

He noted that the House Banking Committee was split 14 to 13 in approving the measure, which contains a contested public housing and slum clearance provision. But he added that "people have got to have housing, you know."

That was the closest he came to indicating his attitude toward the bill. The Rules Committee must give it clearance before the House can vote on it. House leaders have indicated their opposition to the public housing and slum clearance features.

The Senate has passed the bill, which is aimed at increasing home construction to 1,500,000 units a year for the next 10 years. It would provide for 500,000 Federally financed low-rent housing units during the next five years.

Treasury-Postal Bill to Truman, 'Red' Rider Out

The House yesterday agreed to drop a so-called "Red" rider from a Treasury-Postoffice appropriation bill, and sent the $248,414,255 measure to President Truman.

The rider, added by the House when it passed the bill several weeks ago, was knocked out by the Senate. It would have prohibited use of Treasury-Postoffice money to pay the salaries of anyone belonging to a union whose officers have not complied with the non-Communist provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The bill, which supplies additional funds for the 1949 fiscal year starting July 1, carries $190,538,755 for Treasury, and $57,875,500 for the Postoffice Department, a total of $106,791,120 below what President Truman requested.

security taxes be boosted. These provisions are not in the bill.

Two-Thirds Vote Required

The new House bill, backed by Republican Congressional leadership, was presented under a late session procedure requiring a two-thirds vote.

The measure deals only with Social Security Old Age and Survivors benefits.

Representative Daniel Reed (R., N. Y.), author of the legislation, told the House it would permit employes of state and local governing bodies to join in the insurance program, if local governments give their approval.

Employes of non-profit organizations could also participate if their organizations agreed.

These are the two largest groups affected under the new measure. Some smaller groups would receive compulsory coverage under the act. These are domestic employes of college fraternal organizations, certain employes of TVA; employes in certain agricultural and horticulural organizations; employes of American owned international air carriers; workers for farm loan and farm credit institutions; off-the-farm employes in processing and handling of fruits and vegetables and civilian employes in military exchanges.

Three Large Groups Still Out

The measure does not include the three large groups of workers now excluded—the self-employed, farm workers and household workers.

There is no general increase in benefits under the program and no increase in social security taxes. The present taxes are scheduled to increase in 1950 from 1 per cent to 1.5 per cent each on employers' payrolls and employes' pay. Mr. Truman had asked for this increase to be effective January 1, 1949.

'Gag' Charges Aired

The standing vote came after charges of "gag" had been aired by Democrats who objected to the rule which prevents them from offering amendments for a broader expansion of social security, as proposed by the President.

Dingell shouted that the Republicans "don't dare put to a test" on the floor the Chief Executive's proposals.

Representative Herman P. Eberharter (D., Pa.) said the House was being denied the opportunity for vote for "a real constructive social security measure." Eberharter and Representative Frederick C. Smith (R., Ohio) voted against the bill.

White House Gets Bill to Increase Workers' Benefits

A bill increasing workmen's compensation scales in the District cleared Congress yesterday and went to the White House.

Both houses approved a compromise bill which revises the Longshoremens and Harbor Workers Compensation Act, which is the basic workmen's compensation law for the District.

Under the bill, minimum weekly payments are increased from $8 to $12 and maximum weekly payments from $25 to $35. According to Board of Trade figures, the bill would increase by 35 per cent the annual $3,500,000 which District employers pay each year for compensation programs.

Trappist Priest Toll Increases in China

Shanghai, June 14 (U.P.).—A Catholic news service dispatch from Peiping reported today that six more Trappist priests and brothers had been executed or died in prison at the hands of Chinese Communists in southern Chahar province.

The report said the latest victims brought to 30 the number of Trappists killed in the province.

Senate Votes Trade Accord

the commission could block any new trade agreements for more than a year.

Another amendment, suggested by Senator Ralph E. Flanders (R., Vt.), Vandenberg said would prevent narrow application of Tariff Commission findings to the needs of marginal producers.

The Michigan Republican, at odds with the State Department on a related foreign policy issue for the first time in months, said the Ives and Flanders amendments made the compromise "bomb proof."

Pleading with the Senate to make no changes in the 14-year-old law, Senator Barkley, backed by Senator Walter F. George (D., Ga.), told the Senate the compromise if enacted will turn back the clock to "tariff log-rolling" and "Smoot-Hawleyism."

Barkley quoted two GOP presidential candidates, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Harold E. Stassen, in support of a straight extension.

Barkley first moved to extend the act, unamended, for three years. This was rejected, 41 to 48, with party lines holding their tightest. Only one Republican Senator, Charles W. Tobey (N. H.), supported the move. One Democrat, W. Lee O'Daniel (Tex.), voted with the Republicans.

Barkley then asked a straight two-year extension, and was defeated, 42 to 47. A second Republican, Senator John Sherman Cooper (Ky.), joined Tobey in voting with the Democrats.

Finally, Barkley moved to extend the act only one year, without any limitation, and failed by the closest vote, 43 to 46. This time a third Republican, Senator George A. Wilson (Iowa), switched to vote with the Democrats.

Daring Raids Are Made by Chinese Reds

Shanghai, June 14 (AP).—Communists made daring raids today within a few miles of uneasy Shanghai and Nanking.

Pro-government Chinese reports said Communists seized two villages near Kiangtu, only 35 miles northeast of Nanking, and that fighting was in progress beside the Grand Canal, which joins the Yangtze River near there.

The scene is across the river from Nanking, the government capital.

Another pro-government dispatch said 100 junks loaded with Communist troops attempted to land on the Chekiang Province coast 100 miles south of Shanghai. The report, which could not be confirmed, did not say whether the landing succeeded.

Along with these ominous gestures near two of the government's greatest cities, the Communists pushed offensive operations, small and large, all the way from Manchuria to the plains of Honan Province in central China.

The two most serious drives were reported from Shantung and Honan provinces.

Shanghai, China, June 14 (U.P.).—The American dollar brought 2,060,000 Chinese dollars in Peiping today for a record high in China's inflation.

In Shanghai the dollar brought 1,820,000 buying and 1,870,000 selling. The price of soap and cigaretts jumped 30 per cent.

The spectacular rise in Peiping was believed due to the worsened military situation in North China which has caused panic among property owners.

Gottwald Assumes Czech Presidency

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 14 (U.P.).—Communist Klement Gottwald succeeded Dr. Eduard Benes as President of Czechoslovakia today and in his inaugural speech declared this nation had never had democracy until the Communists took power.

"Never before was there so much democracy here as there is today," President Gottwald told the thousands who were packed in the presidenial court yard. The crowd had marched in formation for miles from all parts of the city, according to a prearranged plan, to hail the new President.

Gottwald told them he would work to strengthen Czechoslovakia's alliances with the Soviet Union and the eastern European states, "Our sole reliable guarantee against a repetition of Munich."

Czechoslovakia, Gottwald said, had never had democracy before World War II.

"People were not masters of their destiny . . . the workers were slaves," Gottwald said. "This kind of democracy we do not have any longer. We have a much better kind of our own peoples democracy . . . and we should not exchange it for any mess of pottage no matter how rich."

Gottwald concluded his brief speech with, "God bless the people of Czechoslovakia. God bless all the peoples of democratic states and all the democratic people in the world who are longing for peace."

House Gets Draft Bill

similar to the measure which passed the Senate last week by a 78 to 10 vote. Under both bills, men aged 19 through 25 years old would be liable to two years military service. Most veterans would be exempt and men with dependents would be deferred.

Representative Dewey Short (R., Mo.), ranking GOP member of the House Armed Services Committee, went before the Rules Committee yesterday to plead that the draft bill be pigeon-holed. The chairman of the Armed Services group—Representative Walter G. Andrews (R., N. Y.)—urged its approval.

Then the Rules Committee voted, 7 to 3, against tabling the bill, and 6 to 4 to clear it for floor action. While the vote was not announced, one member said the lineup was as follows:

To approve the bill Representa tives James W. Wadsworth (R., N. Y.), Forest A. Harness (R., Ind.), Ross Rizley (R., Okla.), Christian A. Herter (R., Mass.), Eugene E. Cox (D., Ga.), and Howard W. Smith (D., Va.).

Against clearing the bill: Chairman Leo E. Allen (R., Ill.) and Representatives J. Edgar Chenoweth (R., Colo.), Robert F. Rich (R., Pa.), and Adolph J. Sabath (D., Ill.). Representatives Clarence J. Brown (R., Ohio) and J. Bayard Clark (D., N. C.), the two other of the group, were absent but paired for and against the bill, respectively.

Harness indicated that, while voting to let the House consider the bill, he might speak and vote against the measure.

As approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee, the 1949 naval spending bill carries a total of $3,812,170,250. Even with the increases made by the group, it is still $124,568,450 under President Truman's Navy budget estimates. The total, however, is $630,447,150 above 1948 funds.

Previously, 903 millions in cash and contract authority was voted for naval warplane orders in '48. Another 116.5 millions for Navy public works is still pending in the House.

Major additions made by the Senate committee yesterday include 20 million dollars for maintenance of ships, 38 millions for ordnance, 30 millions for overhaul and maintenance of naval planes, 18 millions for Bureau of Supplies and Accounts maintenance, $6,495,000 for the Marine Corps, mostly for new tanks, reserve training and women marines, 9 millions for exploration of the Navy's Elk Hills, Calif., oil reserves.

Royall and Bradley asked the Senate committee to restore 492 millions of the $647,903,000 cut from Army Air Force budget estimates in the House.

Both stressed the danger of not providing modern weapons for the men to be called up under the draft. Plans call for having 18 divisions "organized, manned, equipped and trained" next year—12 in the Regular Army and six in the National Guard, Royall said.

The House cuts, said the Army chiefs, will have the following effects on this plan:

(1) "Immobilize a large part" of the planned "Mobile Striking Force" because of curtailment of funds to rehabiliate 5000 combat vehicles and 26,000 other vehicals now in storage.

2. Bar the purchase of 142 new tanks and 133 new armored personnel carriers, 120,000 rounds of ammunition for the new 57 and 75 millimeter recoilless guns, and 40,000 rockets for the Air Force.

3. Reduce the maintenance of 33 stand-by war plants "below minimum acceptable standards."

4. Cripple the reserve training program.

5. Harm Army morale by making "home conditions in the Army . . . worse than they already are." (Sixty-four millions were cut from housing funds.)

Most of House Cuts in Foreign Recovery Funds Restored

marked for buying strategic materials for the United States.

Certain other conditions in the House bill were retained, others were liberalized, and still others were stricken from the bill but were put into the Senate committee's report, where they will not have the binding force of law.

The Senate committee agreed with the House, for example, that wool sent to Europe by the Economic Cooperation Administration, must come from the stocks of the Commodity Credit Corporation—stocks which are unsalable at home and unuseable abroad because of their poor grade.

Another Senate committee restriction was that ECA could buy only twice as much nitrogeneous fertilizer for Europe as the Army was willing to sell it from Army production. Finally, the Senate committee agreed with the House in putting a 10-million-dollar limit on the guarantees enabling American newspaper and magazine publishers to convert their European earnings into dollars.

As to the money cuts made by the House, the Senate committee restored the biggest of them last Saturday by voting that ECA could use four billion dollars in 12 months instead of in 15, as the House had proposed. This House provision alone, branded by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg as the use of "the meat-ax technique," had lopped almost 25 per cent from the requested RCA funds for the first 12 months.

Yesterday the Senate committee also voted to appropriate the following:

1. It agreed with the House that 20 million dollars for Trieste must come out of general ECA funds. The Administration had asked for this as a separate item.

2. It voted 125 million dollars, as a separate item, for economic rehabilitation in Japan, Korea and the Ryukyu Islands. The Army had requested 150 millions for this purpose; the House had voted that all of this must come out of ECA funds.

3. It voted $1,200,000,000 for government and relief in occupied areas. The Army had requested $1,250,000,000 for this, in addition to the 150 millions for economic rehabilitation.

4. It voted 460 million dollars for China for 12 months, of which 125 million were specifically earmarked for military aid. The Administration had asked for 463 million, leaving the purchase of military supplies optional. The House had voted 400 million for a 15-month period, equivalent to only 320 million on a 12-month basis.

5. It voted 250 million dollars for military aid to Greece and Turkey for 12 months. The Administration had asked 275 million for 12 months, but the House had voted only 200 million for 15 months.

6. Finally, the Senate committee approved $70,700,700 as the American contribution to the International Refugee Organization, but without the House condition that would have brought displaced persons in Germany down to the meager rations of Germans themselves.

Chairman Bridges said his bill probably would come before the Senate today, with a report explaining its provisions. There is unlikely to be much opposition from the Senate floor, especially since Robert A. Taft and other advocates of reduced amounts have indicated they would "go along with the committee."

In conference, however, and on the House floor a bitter struggle is expected before the appropriation can become law. Chairman John Taber (R., N. Y.) of the House Appropriations Committee has promised a last-ditch fight to keep the House cuts.

Representative Francis D. Case (R., S. Dak.), a member of the House committee who fought the original authorization, yesterday suggested keeping the 15-month period, wtih a provision entitling the ECA to spend all its money in 12 months and come before the next Congress for more money.

Hungary Catholics Fight School Action

Budapest, Hungary, June 14 (U.P.).—Police reported today 100 persons were arrested last night during a demonstration by thousands of Catholic worshipers, most of them defiant women, against nationalization of church schools.

All of those arrested were released with the exception of 14 "known fascists," authorities said.

Eyewitnesses said the police were armed with machine guns when they broke up the hymn-singing crowd.

Starts at Shrine

The demonstration began when Catholics streamed from their churches to Gellert Hill shrine where Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, Catholic primate of Hungary, usually preaches on the thirteenth day of each month. Yesterday, however, he was in Baja in southern Hungary.

The throng, mostly women, overflowed the hillside shrine into Gellert Square and pushed across Freedom Bridge almost to the other side of the Danube River.

Police, who had been watching the demonstration, began to break it up after the women became defiant, eyewitnesses said.

"Wait for September. Then they will see what we mean. The schools will stay shut. Our children will be taught at home," the women shouted.

An official communique said, "unreliable elements tried to incite their followers against authorities, but were unsuccessful . . . An investigation is underway . . ."

Yesterday Cardinal Mindszenty's pastoral letter ordered special masses and the tolling of church bells through Hungary next Friday to protest the parliamentary nationalization of schools which is to take effect that day.

Earlier in the week the Cardinal flatly asked the government to cancel nationalization of schools or bear responsibility for results.

British See Russian Shift In Strategy

London, June 14 (U.P.).—Whitehall experts on Russia said today the Soviet Union may be preparing a complete change in political strategy intended to lull western nations into a false sense of security and slow up their cooperation against Communist expansion.

They suspect Russia wants to stop western cooperation at all cost and gain time in which to catch up with United States military preparedness. They warned any sign of appeasement by the western nations wuold be a mistake.

It was predicted Russian appeasement moves of the last few weeks would be followed by further attempts to reduce tension in Europe in order to take the steam out of the western drive for joint security.

Once this is accomplished, Russia was expected to intensify its own military preparations, complete development of atomic weapons, consolidate its grip on eastern Europe, reorganize Communist strongholds and outposts in the west and try to strengthen its grip in the Far East.

French Objections Cited

These sources expressed fear that French objections to the six-power agreement on western Germany might already have given nourishment to Russian plans to sabotage western cooperation.

The Times today listed the following "appeasement" moves by Russia as indicating strategy had started to change:

1. Acceptance of American "proposals" for discussion of outstanding problems.
2. Unexpectedly light terms in the Russian-Finnish treaty of mutual aid.
3. Reduction of reparations debts of Finland, Hungary and Romania to Russia.
4. Certain concessions in the interest of an eventual Austrian treaty.
5. Truce overtures by the Greek Communist rebels.
6. Reported advice to Communists in European countries to soften their propaganda attacks on western countries.
7. Inspired reports that Russia would make no military move unless western countries started rearming Germany and reorganizing the German army.

Whitehall quarters view these moves as purely propagandist in purpose, though it was said they might reflect Russian uneasiness after the unexpected pace of western cooperation and above all over America's determination to rearm.

France Lone Holdout on Germany

London, June 14 (AP).—Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg endorsed today the plan to create a separate western German state.

This leaves France as the lone holdout among the six countries which just a week ago completed an accord to shape Germany's political and economic future.

France's course remains uncertain. In diplomatic quarters here, however, there was guarded optimism that French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault would win approval for the accord by a slim majority.

[The United Press reported from Paris the French Assembly will probably approve the six-power agreement on western Germany tomorrow night.]

The London accord calls for creation of a separate federal government in western Germany, control over the German Ruhr Valley's steel, coke and iron ore, and a long-range system to prevent Germany's industrial machine from becoming again a menace to world pecae.

Qualified confidence here that the French Assembly will approve the accord rests upon three major factors:

1. Belief that attacks upon the plan by extreme left (Communists) and right wing elements would encourage middle-of-the-road French groups to pull together behind Bidault.
2. An opinion that France, if forced to a showdown, would accept a plan with features to which it objects rather than risk an independent course involving exclusion from any voice in managing the Ruhr and possible isolation between the East and the West.
3. Formal approval of the Benelux countries which—although not required for the plan's operation—may serve to sway some French votes in view of their close relation and mutual problems of self-protection.

The United States and Britain are taking no chances on the possibility of French rejection. Responsible Whitehall officials reported the U. S. and Britin may proceed independently to organize western Germany even if the French refuse to participate.

They said such a move would be taken reluctantly and discounted the likelihood of British-American agreement to any French request for reopening talks on Germany.

Seek Invite To Russia

London, June 14, (AP).—Seven labor members of Parliament want Britain to invite Russia to a Big Four conference for a general settlement of the German question.

They proposed this tonight in a resolution introduced in the House of Commons. The seven members said the recent six-power draft agreement on Germany was all right but did not go far enough.

The resolution was sponsored by Leftists William Warbey and Sydney Silvermann and Dr. B. Stross, A. J. Champion, Charles Roylen, Harold Davies and Anthony Greenwood.

Greeks Bomb Rebel Chief's Headquarters

Athens, Greece, June 14 (U.P.).—Eight Greek Spitfires have carried out a surprise bomb and rocket raid on the village of Lykorrahi, reported to be headquarters of guerilla General Markos Viafiades in the Grammos Mountains, press dispatches said today.

Report of the raid in the heart of rebel country followed unconfirmed statements that the Greek army has opened a clean-up offensive against the rebels.

An official staff communique, meanwhile, announced eight Bulgarian and one Yugoslav soldier surrendered during army-guerilla clashes south of the Greek-Yugoslav border.

Meanwhile, special courts martial trying 81 alleged members of a Communist "trigger and terror organization opened here today. The defendants, 39 of whom are being tried in absentia, are charged with the executions of more than 100 anti-Communists.

The first test of immigration control under the armistice came last night when 420 Jews from Marseille arrived at Tel Aviv aboard the liner Kedmah.

The Israeli government said 128 men of military age in the group were taken to a detainment camp near Hadera. Thirty-seven women and children who did not want their families separated accompanied the men. The rest of the passengers were free to go wherever they pleased.

Truce terms provide that Jewish men of military age must be kept out of training or army service during the period of the cease-fire.

British Deny Report On Oil Flow Diversion

A British Embassy spokesman yesterday denied a report from Lake Success, N. Y., that "British oil interests" in the Middle East were preparing to cut off the flow of crude oil into Israel and divert it to the Arab kingdom of Trans-Jordan.

The spokesman explained that crude oil from the British-dominated Iraq Petroleum Co. wells had to be piped to Haifa, on the Mediterranean coast of Palestine, to be refined. The Haifa refinery is the only one in the Middle East except for a smaller one at Abadan, on the Persian Gulf, which handles oil from Iran.

The Haifa refinery has been idle since it fell into Israeli hands, largely because 80 per cent of its workers were Arabs. However, the embassy spokesman said, Israel's needs were being met out of stocks of oil previously refined at Haifa.

Check Is Possible On Embarkation Ports

Lake Success, N. Y., June 14 (U.P.).—United Nations Palestine Mediator Count Folke Bernadotte indicated tonight he wanted to dispatch truce observers to American and European ports from which Jewish immigrants have been sailing to the Holy Land.

The Swedish diplomat cabled U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie asking him to circulate to the 58 U. N. members the clause of the Arab-Israeli truce agreement in which Bernadotte is authorized to check on immigration beginning at ports of embarkation.

Israel Capitalizing On Truce in All Ways

Tel Aviv, Israel, June 14 (NYHT).—The four-week truce obtained by the United Nations in Palestine is giving the infant state of Israel a breathing spell which it intends to capitalize on to the fullest extent, politically and militarily.

Before the cease-fire period ends, the Jews quite frankly say they intend to consolidate their military forces ,to complete the training program of their army, to make heavy purchases abroad and to erect new settlements at strategic points in the partition state.

Curfew Ends Arab-Jewish Tripoli Riots

Tripoli, June 14 (U.P.).—The old city of Tripoli was quiet under a rigid curfew today after two days of Arab-Jewish rioting, in which police said 13 Jews and three Arabs were killed and 90 persons injured.

The curfew was ordered again yesterday after a series of incidents, including an attack on a police car by Jews throwing hand grenades. Buildings were looted and several shops were set afire.

The British arranged a meeting today between Jewish and Arab leaders, who made a joint announcement aimed at ending the fighting. The British also ordered all Tunisian volunteers, seeking to fight in Palestine, to return to their homes.

The official list of injured showed 38 Jews, 51 Arabs and one Italian.

Menuhin Draws 10,000

London, June 13 (AP).—Yehudi Menuhin, the American violinist, drew a crowd of over 10,000 to the Harringay sports area tonight for a concert. The audience was believed to be the largest ever to attend a musical event in Britain.

Reversal of Meyers' Conviction Is Hinted

Justice E. Barrett Prettyman of the United States Court of Appeals here indicated yesterday that "prejudicial error" may cause reversal of the recent conviction of former Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers.

The Appeals Court took under advisement the case of Meyers, former Air Forces procurement officer now serving 20 months to five years prison for subornation of perjury. It was charged that Meyers induced Bleriot H. Lamarre, his wartime business associate, to lie to a Senate investigating body.

Justice Prettyman indicated error in commenting on argument by United States Attorney George Morris Fay for the prosecution.

The jurist questioned the use of oral testimony to show Lamar's statements before the Senate body. He said that use of the official transcript instead of the "second-hand" method would have been preferable.

The Government had charged that Meyers was a secret owner of the Aviation Electric Co., set up Lamarre as president and himself milked profts of the company.

There were significant differences between the oral testimony and the written transcript as to these facts, Justice Prettyman indicated.

Conviction of Gerhart Eisler Upheld by Appeals Court

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

Conviction of Gerhart Eisler on contempt of Congress charges yesterday was upheld by the United States Court of Appeals in a 2-1 decision, Associate Justice E. Barrett Prettyman dissenting.

The majority opinion, written by Associate Justice Bennett Champ Clark and concurred in by Associate Justice James E. Proctor, dismissed charges of prejudice filed against the trial judge as "an effort to becloud the real issue in the case."

Eisler was convicted before Associate Justice Alexander Holtzoff in District Court last June and sentenced to one year in prison and fined $1000, maximum for the offense, for refusing to be sworn to testify before the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Defense attorneys had demanded Holtzoff disqualify himself on the grounds that the jurist, when a special assistant to the attorney general had aided in investigation and prosecution of Communists. Holtzoff refused to remove himself.

The appellate court held yesterday that the charges against Holtzoff were filed too late. Trial date had been set for May 26, 1047, arfter several days of argument on motions. Later two continuances had been granted and the trial started last June 4. The charges against Holtzoff were not filed until May 29, 1947.

In upholding Holtzoff's refusal to disqualify himself, the appellate court cited the statute on prejudice as saying affidavits must be filed "not less than 10 days before the beginning of the term of court . . . or good cause shall be shown for failuure . . ."

The majority opinion went on to declare that Holtzoff's former connections with the Justice Department did not "establish bias and prejudice in the personal sense."

Answering a defense contention that Eisler, described as No. 1 Communist agent in this country, did not refuse to be sworn but had wanted time first to make a statement, the court said:

"His refusal to be sworn as a witness effectively constituted a refusal to give testimony except upon conditions which he was not entitled to interpose . . ."

The court declared Eisler should have submitted to questioning and later have taken legal action if the questions had exceeded constitutional limits.

In dissenting, Prettyman declared: ". . . the simple question here is whether the fact that the trial judge had been the active legal adviser to the investigator in the very investigation which gave rise to the indictment . . . is legally sufficient as a basis for a belief of personal bias. I think it clearly is."

Prettyman further said:

1. The statute which says prejudice affidavits must be filed 10 days before the term of court was designed for District Courts that have periodic terms. (District Court here is in operation continuously except for the summer.)

2. The lower court erred in not allowing Eisler to prove what he intended to say in his statement to the committee since Eisler may have wanted only to state legal objections as allowed under committee procedure before being sworn.

3. That the Government failed to prove Eisler had been summoned to testify upon a matter under inquiry before the committee, as required by statute.

In the meantime, Eisler remains free on bond pending a motion for a rehearing and petition for a writ to certify the case before the Supreme Court.

Deportation proceedings against him in New York have been temporarily halted by court order on the grounds of irregularity in examination, Defense Attorney David Rein said.

Italian Police Uncover Hidden Munitions Stores

Rome, June 14 (AP).—Hidden munitions were found by police today in two northern Italian zones.

At Porretta Terme, in Bologna Province—a Communist stronghold—police uncovered in a cave 30 automatic rifles, 30 machine guns, 100 new American rifles, quantities of hand grenades, and thousands of cartridges in a cave.

In nothern Novara, said a dispatch to Rome's Giornale Della Sera, police found 70,000 rifle cartridges and 10,000 for machine guns.

British Ask Romania About Missing Oilman

London, June 14 (AP).—The British Foreign Office disclosed today it is seeking an explanation from Romania for the disappearance of Alexander Evans, British oil expert.

Reports have reached the foreign office that Evans was arrested by Romanian police on a Budapest-bound train near the Hungarian border.

He was in Romania to represent the interests of English and French holders of shares in the Steaua Romania Oil Co.

High Court Backs Excess Profits Law

The Supreme Court yesterday upheld the law by which the Government has taken back hundreds of millions of dollars in excess war profits.

Justice Burton, in the court's 58-page opinion, rested the ruling on the broad reach of the power of the Congress to wage war, and to make laws toward that end.

The contract renegotiation law on excess profits, he said, was clearly such a law.

The ruling came on appeals by: Jacob Lichter and Jennie L. Lichter, doing business as the Southern Fireproofing Co. of Cincinnati. They contested a Government suit to recover $27,019.

A. V. Pownall, Grace M. Pownall and Henes-Morgan Machinery Co., doing business in San Francisco as the General Products Co. The firm disputed a $113,709 Government claim.

The Alexander Wool Combing Co., of Boston. The company fought a claim for a $15,882 refund.

Justice Jackson noted that he disagreed with the ruling as applied in the cases of Lichter and Pownall. He did not explain why he disagreed.

Justice Douglas said the facts of the Lichter case entitled that company to a hearing in other courts, without going through the United States Tax Court.

The majority opinion upheld a Justice Department contention that each company was required by law to first take its case to the tax court.

None of the justices dissented on the issue of constitutionality.

The Supreme Court unanimously reversed a decision which would have required the Veterans Administration to pay up to five times the face value of some national service life insurance policies.

The United States Circuit Court in Chicago had upheld a claim by Mrs. Tillie Zazove, beneficiary of a $5000 policy taken out by Pfc. Adolph B. Schwartz, who died in a Japanese military prison camp in 1943.

The Veterans Administration, under a rule applying to beneficiaries over 30 years old, sought to pay Mrs. Zazove $29.50 monthly for a guaranteed total of 120 months, plus $29.50 monthly as long as she lives. On this schedule, the Government might pay only $3540 on a $5000 policy.

Mrs. Zazove contended the full $5000 face value, plus 3 per cent interest, should be paid in 120 guaranteed monthly installments of $48.08 each. She also argued she was entitled to such $48.08 monthly payments as long as she lived beyond the 120 months.

The Zazove case—on its face—seemed to involve many billions of dollars, and possibly to threaten to break the Veterans Administration reserve fund. However, it was always in the power of Congress to head off such a result, by a further change in the law.

VA has held up paying dividends on veterans insurance, until the Zazove case was cleared up. AMVET and American Legion spokesmen yesterday called on VA to start paying off.

Other Supreme Court rulings yesterday:

Held New York's 2 per cent tax on bus fares cannot be applied on trips into other States but must be limited to the mileage within New York State.

Refused to review contempt of Congress convictions against 11 members of the joint anti-Fascist refugee committee, including Novelist Howard Fast and Dr. Edward Barsky, chairman, who refused to produce records for the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Refused a request by Kentucky for a ruling on constitutionality of the State's law which permits qualified voters to take paid time off from work to visit the polls.

stated exemptions, would be considered dependent.

There would be no income restrictions for widows and orphans.

The second bill, passed by a 156-to-0 vote, would increase by an estimated $61,829,000 the first year the compensation for dependents of veterans with service-connected disabilities of 60 per cent or more. It affects veterans of both World Wars and the Spanish-American War.

In terms of money, the bill would provide $30 extra each month for a totally disabled veteran with a wife but no child; $50 for a wife and one child; $65 for a wife and two children; $80 for a wife and three children and $15 for each additional child beyond three; $20 for one child, but no wife; $35 for two children, but no wife; $50 for three or more children, but no wife; and an extra $25, in addition to the above amounts, for each dependent parent.

Veterans partially disabled would receive proportionate increases, provided their disability is at least 60 per cent.

The additional payments would supplement existing flat compensation of $138 a month for totally disabled veterans, with higher rates for certain specific disabilities ranging to a top of $360 a month.

A third veterans' bill sent to the Senate by the House would make veterans with at least six months of military service eligible for service-connected disability payments if they contract tropical diseases.

Potato Bug Captured On Norwegian Ship

Liverpool, England, June 14 (U.P.). Police charged aboard the Norwegian steamship Aragon today and took into custody one potato bug, captured by the crew.

Unloading of the ship, which arrived from Spain with 6000 cases of onions and 5000 cases of eggs, was halted pending examination.

Britain is fighting the worst potato bug, or Colorado beetle threat, in years. The beetles, invading Britain from the continent, are ruining potato crops from Denmark to Normandy.

Essay Winner Off to Get New Sedan

Forty-two-year-old Leonard M. Skinner, a man who listens when his better half speaks, is on his way to Detroit today to pick up a new Kaiser sedan—for free—because he heeded her words.

Skinner

After some urging on her part, Skinner who lives at 2801 Pennsylvania ave. se., decided to enter Drew Pearson's essay contest on "How to Make Democracy Live."

Skinner, a teacher of social studies at Hine Junior High School, whipped out a 249-word theme in 90 minutes flat and mailed it in. His effort was judged fourth best in the Nation-wide contest.

Six other residents of Greater Washington won cash prizes ranging from $100 to $10 in the contest. They are: William G. Carr, 2400 16th st. nw., Edgar E. Poulton, 34 Farragut pl. nw., Clarinda Dunn, 1705 Kenyon st. nw., Mrs. Dorothy Jeane Mock, No. 13 7th st. se., Robert F. Price, 5610 31st ave., Hyattsville, and John A. Overholt, 4219 Curtis rd., Chevy Chase.

Top prize, $5000 went to Russell Micheltree, 61, of Scarsdale, N. Y., a retired advertising man and school teacher.

Make This Salad the Year 'Round!

TUNA SALAD MOLDS

1 tablespoon gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup milk
2 egg yolks lightly beaten
1/2 tablespoon melted butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 can Star-Kist Tuna (7 oz.)

Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Combine seasonings, egg yolks and milk in top of double boiler. Cook over hot water for 7 minutes until it thickens, stirring constantly with rotary egg beater. Add butter, lemon juice, and gelatin and beat until gelatin is dissolved. Fold in tuna which has been flaked. Pour into molds and chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with your favorite dressing. Serves 6.

Anti-Lynching Bill Cleared to Senate

One of the measures in President Truman's civil rights program—an antilynching bill—was cleared yesterday for a possible Senate vote but imminent adjournment made chances of passage slim.

Southern Democrats have vowed they will attempt to talk to death any such legislation.

The Judiciary Committee toned down the bill it finally approved, but Senator Eastland, (D., Miss.) left no doubt it is still objectionable to him.

"I am going to fight it till hell freezes over," he said.

Languishing for Months

Eastland is a member of the committee, which voted 10 to 3 to send the measure on to the Senate calendar. It will join other civil rights bills—antipoll tax and fair employment measures — which have been languishing there for months.

The Republican policy committee has tabbed the antilynching bill as the easiest of the three to pass, and has kept it on its list of "desirable" legislation. But no time for debate has ever been allocated.

Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.), principal author of the bill, declined to predict whether the Senate will act. He noted only that the GOP leadership has kept the measure on its priority list.

Would Be Federal Felons

The bill would make conspiracy between members of a lynch mob and officials of Federal, State or local governments "to commit, instigate, incite, organize, aid or abet" a lynching a Federal felony.

Conviction would carry a punishment of up to $10,000 fine and up to 20 years in prison, or both.

In addition, the bill would authorize civil suits for unlimited damages by persons injured in a lynching or attempted lynching and by the next of kin of anyone killed.

Ferguson told reporters the bill is the strongest that could be approved by the committee, although "I am not satisfied with it."

Supreme Court Splits Vote On Six Civil Rights Cases

farm, by two-way radio. The $100 a week, by the way, was turned in to the Treasury.

Three Federal agents raided the place in June, 1946, nabbed one of the gang and seized all the mash, stills and the like. The rest of the gang were soon picked up.

Justice Murphy held for the majority that the first arrest was valid; the man was committing a felony in the presence of the officers.

But—without openly overruling the Harris Doctrine, Murphy said the seizure could not stand, and that the evidence must be suppressed.

Fourth Amendment Cited

"The Fourth Amendment was designed to protect both the innocent and the guilty from unreasonable intrusions . . ." said Murphy. "Sad e xperience has taught (the people) that the right to search and seize should not be left to the mere discretion of the police, but should as a matter of principle be subjected to the requirements of previous judicial sanction wherever possible. The effective operation of government, however, could hardly be embarrassed by the requirement that arresting officers who have three months within which to secure the authorization of judicial authority for making search and seizure should secure such authority."

The majority yesterday was made up of the four dissenters from the Harris Doctrine—Murphy, Frankfurter, Jackson and Rutledge—and of Justice Douglas, who joined in declaring it.

Vinson Upholds Raid

Chief Justice Vinson, who wrote the Harris opinion, upheld the raid on the moonshiners yesterday, handing down the first dissent he has written since he took his place on the bench. Mr. Vinson said the raid was lawful, the arrest was lawful, so the seizure of the contraband was lawful, too.

He declared:

"To insist upon a search warrant in situations where (one) can contribute nothing to the preservation of the rights which the Fourth Amendment was intended to protect, serves only to open an avenue of escape for those guilty of crime . . ."

With the Chief Justice in dissent were the other three of the Harris majority, Reed, Black and Burton.

Other Decisions

The justices, in the other civil rights cases yesterday:

Set aside—by a 5 to 4 vote—a 5-year term given Donald Wade for burglary. Wade, 18 years old when he was tried, asked for a lawyer but the judge did not give him one.

Set aside, by a 6 to 3 vote, two 10 to 20 year terms given Frank Townsend, 29, for burglary and robbery in Pennsylvania. Townsend, without a lawyer, pleaded guilty. Justice Jackson scolded the trial judge for asking the prisoner, when he sent him to jail, whether he stole a saxaphone because he hoped to play in the prison band.

Refused, by a 5 to 4 vote, to help Francis J. Gryger, 37, who was in jail nearly 14 years between 1927 and 1943 and now is doing life as a habitual criminal.

Refused, by a 7 to 2 vote, to free Chester Hedgebeth, 25, said to be an illiterate, mentally defective Negro who went only to the third grade. Tried without a lawyer, he got 9 to 10 years in prison in North Carolina for robbery. The majority turned him down for technical reasons, saying he could try again.

By a 7 to 2 vote, called for more data on the Illinois law in the case of Donald Loftus, in prison since 1932 on four sentences of one year to life for bank robbery.

Second Quarterly Tax Instalment Due by Tonight

All persons whose 1948 income tax is not covered by withholding taxes, must pay the second quarterly instalment on their 1948 Federal income tax by midnight tonight.

Revised declarations of estimated income for 1948—under the new income tax law Congress passed last May 1—are also due by midnight tonight.

Income tax installments should be mailed to the Collector of Internal Revenue, Baltimore, Md., and postmarked by midnight tonight. Payment can also be made in person to the branch office of the Internal Revenue Department, at 12th st. and Constitution ave. nw.

Schools And Recreation

The issue now before the Board of Education, whether to require the Recreation Department to abandon its policy of racial segregation in the use of school facilities during the summer recess, entails human values transcending the legal niceties which have been raised. It is admittedly anomalous for the school board, which operates a dual school system, to require the Recreation Department to use school grounds and buildings on an interracial basis—especially in view of the rigid segregation the Recreation Department normally maintains in regard to its own facilities. Nevertheless, it is an anomaly that would strike out in a right and decent and generous direction. We hope, therefore, that the Board of Education, instead of seeking excuses to avoid a break with tradition, will focus its attention upon the feasibility of initiating a change which, it is generally acknowledged, is desirable and must eventually take place.

"I look upon segregation with abhorrence as fair-minded people must," Harry S. Wender, chairman of the Recreation Department, told the Board of Education. But integration, he then added, must come about in "an orderly and noncompulsory manner." Well, of course, nothing could be more orderly than a decision by the Board of Education to try integrated use of school facilities over the summer and a decision by the Recreation Department to cooperate in this trial. And obviously there would be nothing compulsory about it. Use of the school playgrounds is altogether optional in the summer; use of the buildings on an interracial basis for meetings, plays or other cultural activities occurs only when members of both races desire to mingle.

What the Board of Education must decide essentially is whether such joint use is feasible and consonant with the public welfare. The answer is to be found in the community's experience with Federally controlled recreation facilities. The two races have long mingled there and without serious friction of any sort. They have mingled voluntarily and in orderly fashion also in private places of recreation—Griffith Stadium, Uline Arena, Constitution Hall among others. Mr. Wender suggested making Negro schools alone available for meetings of the two races. But this would be merely underscoring discrimination while recognizing that integration is in order.

The crux of the issue is to be seen in the opposing statements of Clifford H. Newell, former president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and the Rev. O. G. Robinson, testifying for the Washington Federation of Churches. "Until the attitude of people changes," said Mr. Newell, "it is not a good thing to do away with segregation in the District." But this quite begs the question. The attitude of the people can change only as they have a chance to see how nonsegregation works. The Rev. Mr. Robinson urged the school board to "take the leadership" in ending segregation. This is at once good Christian counsel and good common sense. All social progress is the product of such leadership.

Congressional Recess

Even if Congress completes action on several of the must issues before it by the Saturday adjournment date, there is not a prayer of a chance that it will find time to take up many of the items related intimately to the national welfare. Among the legislation in the "iffy" category is farm support, aid to education, marginal sea oil, Atomic Energy Commission nominations, housing, removal of the margarine tax and civil rights—and the present creeping progress threatens to add to the list even more vital items. Accordingly congressional leaders ought to be giving the most serious consideration to proposals for prolonging the session.

Such a suggestion was made by Senator Taft himself before pique over President Truman's blasts at Congress apparently caused him to retreat. If the matters yet unacted upon were important enough to evoke such a suggestion from Mr. Taft, then nothing the President has said has made them any less important. It is foolish for leaders to contend that either house will be ready for adjournment, unless such readiness implies an evasion of questions that ought to be decided. Moreover, a determination to stick to the June 19 date puts a premium on the kind of obstructionism that has been witnessed all too frequently in committees, where a small group often is able to keep controversial measures from coming to a vote.

It is questionable whether Senator Taft's original suggestion for a two-week session between the Republican and Democratic conventions is feasible. Such a session inevitably would be charged with a political atmosphere that would militate against constructive work. A better suggestion was that broached tentatively by Speaker Martin for an extra session after the conventions. Admittedly, the prospect of an August in Washington is not pleasing to many legislators. Admittedly, too, platform pledges made at Philadelphia might create some embarrassment for those members whose prime purpose seems to be to spite the Administration. But even though it would not be possible for Congress to act on all important bills even in an extended session, at least some of the items which now must weigh on congressional consciences could be disposed of. The first duty of Congress is to the national welfare, and especially in a political year the operations of present-day government are simply too complex to permit members to quit with their job half done.

Political Gravy

Congress has made it as difficult as possible for the President to veto the Gearhart resolution. It has covered a capsule which would gnaw at the vitals of the Social Security program with a sugarcoating that would hand out approximately 200 million dollars in additional payments to the needy aged and blind next year. Nevertheless, politically embarrassing as it may be, a presidential veto is imperative in the national interest. And the political fortitude Mr. Truman has exhibited in preventing enactment of other deceptively alluring measures affords promise that he will step into the breach once more. He sent back to the Hill without his signature an earlier Gearhart resolution which removed news vendors from Social Security coverage; in that instance, unhappily, Congress overrode his opposition. We hope that he will use his veto power again and that in this instance it will prevail.

The present Gearhart bill would redefine the term "employe" in such a way as to exclude from the protection of the Social Security Act anyone not employed in the old-fashioned master-servant relationship. It would, in short, markedly narrow the act's protection, in spite of the fact that the Republican Party responsible for this sabotage pledged itself in its 1944 platform to "extension of the existing old-age insurance and unemployment insurance systems to all employes not already covered." Great numbers of workers who are "employes" by any rational or pragmatic interpretation of the term, who urgently need protection against the vicissitudes of old age and unemployment and who, under prevailing court interpretations of the term, receive that protection now, would be summarily excluded.

The Gearhart resolution, moreover, would aggravate a trend already dangerous and undesirable. It was the theory of the Social Security Act that in time the Nation would enable all its workers to provide, through their own contributions supplemented by those of their employers, a fund to care for themselves in retirement or misfortune. And it was hoped that Americans would get away from the humiliating and demoralizing influences of the dole. The Gearhart sugarcoating is, of course, an expansion of the dole. In 1937, the United States expended about 400 million dollars for assistance payments to the needy. If the Gearhart resolution becomes law, the expenditure for outright assistance next year will be about a billion dollars. This is not Social Security. It is not sound economics. And it is not good Americanism.

Destitute Virgins

The economy of the Virgin Islands is approaching a standstill. The reason is the failure of Congress so far to appropriate funds necessary to maintain essential governmental services in the islands and to recharter the Virgin Islands Co., which is the principal support of the population on the island of St. Croix. The failure seems to be more one of chance than design; vital bills have been shunted aside in consideration of larger matters. But whether the omission is accidental or deliberate, the result is the same. Unless Congress acts before adjournment, 30,000 American citizens in these West Indian dependencies will face destitution. There has even been serious talk of requesting the Red Cross to step in to meet the emergency.

Two measures are necessary to forestall this entirely preventable disaster. The first is to increase the 1949 Interior Department appropriation by the $400,000 necessary to bridge the gap between local revenues of approximately one million dollars and the amount considered essential to carry on elementary services with respect to welfare, roads and airports. Even this sum, if granted, will be $400,000 under the total recommended as necessary for proper maintenance and adequate local government in a study made by the Public Administration Service under direction of the Senate and House Appropriations Committees. The study recommended that local revenues be augmented by permitting the islands to use the internal revenue taxes collected on local products as Puerto Rico does. The present snarl arises from the decision of the House Ways and Means Committee to table such authorization after the companion piece had passed the Senate. Monday the Senate Appropriations Committee initiated a move to relieve the deficiency, but the House has still to act.

The rechartering of the Virgin Islands Co. is a simpler matter requiring only the passage and reconciling of bills already introduced. This Government-owned corporation manufactures the islands' principal product, rum, from sugar cane produced on Government land and purchased from small farmers. A House bill now before the Rules Committee would renew the company's authority after the June 30 deadline and permit it to engage in corollary conservation, industrial and tourist development. Another bill on the Senate consent calendar would extend the company's operations for one year and authorize it to borrow $950,000 from the Federal Treasury.

When the United States purchased the Virgin Islands from Denmark in 1917, it assumed responsibility for the inhabitants—responsibility subsequently recognized in the granting of American citizenship, universal suffrage and local autonomy. Some of the reasons why Congress cannot afford to fail now are contained in the annual report of Gov. William H. Hastie for the fiscal year 1947:

> Small though the Virgin Islands are, their status as an outlying possession of the United States and their location among dependencies and colonies of other nations in the Caribbean area give them special importance. What the United States does or fails to do in the government of this possession and in the improvement of standards of living here will be widely noted and regarded as a meaningful demonstration of national policy and competency in dealing with people and problems of dependent areas.

Supersonic

All the furor over the disclosure by a magazine several months ago that an American experimental plane had flown faster than the speed of sound has been rendered meaningless by the Air Force announcement confirming the fact. The XS-1, a rocket-powered parasite launched from a B-29 in flight, has pierced the sonic barrier not once but many times. The precise speed attained by the XS-1 remains what Secretary Symington terms "an interesting figure," though it must be in excess of the 662-mile-an-hour speed of sound in the subzero stratosphere. What the Air Force announcement now makes clear is that it is possible for human beings to fly at such speeds and emerge alive.

The disclosure, of course, does not mean that all problems posed by the sonic barrier have been mastered or that supersonic flight is even a practicable military maneuver. The XS-1 is at best a plane capable of extremely short flight and specifically designed for experimentation. But at least some of the difficulties usually predicted, such as vibration and the draining of blood from the pilot's head, have been overcome. Indeed, the effect of supersonic speeds on personnel and the measures taken to counteract these effects are perhaps the most significant part of the story—and these remain secret.

Even these details, however, may not be so secret as we suppose. If, as has been reported, the Russians have a jet fighter which has flown 745 miles an hour, then they too must know how to protect their flight personnel. Moreover, since the XS-1 is admittedly merely an improved copy of a German wartime fighter, it is not impossible that the Germans also knew a thing or two about supersonic flight.

The principal effect of the premature disclosure last December of the achievement by the XS-1 was to indicate the direction of our research. Conceivably this could have aided potential enemies, though even this is problematical in light of the Russian report and the fact that the Germans had been working along the same line. In any event, the attempt to prosecute the offending magazine was ill-advised. For the achievement of the XS-1 apparently was known by many persons even before the magazine story appeared. There can be no question about the need to preserve secrecy about details of military research and design. But the whole fiasco over the supersonic plane serves not so much to show irresponsibility on the part of the publication concerned as to demonstrate the need for plugging the leaks in the military's own house.

Whodunit

With unerring hindsight, our Kremlin friends have unearthed another instance in which the West has been claiming credit for a glorious Russian discovery. The newest find threatens to shake the very roots of western society, for it concerns none other than our own Benjamin Franklin. The Moscow trade organ Trud reports that a Russian scientist named Lomonosov discovered the electrical nature of lightning a year before Franklin flew his famous kite. Presumably Trud would not say so if this were not the fact, because Trud in English means "truth." Indeed, it seems that the mechanical and scientific aptitude of the Russians has been slighted in all the standard textbooks. Recently the world has been informed that it was really the Russians who invented such devices as the airplane and the internal combustion engine, and it would not be overly surprising to be told soon that the Soviet has had the atomic bomb all the time.

The fact is, of course, that most great inventions and discoveries are the product of many minds working contemporaneously in many places. The assignment of credit is often arbitrary or accidental and sometimes later is proved wrong. No one can say with finality who was the most instrumental in most great researches, though sometimes efforts to steal credit or muscle into the act are pretty transparent. In any case, if the Russians want to compensate for what is patently an inferiority complex by proving that the alphabet was really the product of an early-day Communist, or that some Paleolithic Muscovite discovered fire, who is around to dispute them?

"The Baltimore Plan"

I wish to commend you for an excellent editorial of June 8, entitled "The Baltimore Plan." It should do much to clear up some of the confusion which has been created about the very effective housing law enforcement program which is being carried on in Baltimore.

Although your editorial implies that there has been some hostility toward the so-called "Baltimore Plan" by some advocates of public housing, I am sure that there could be no hostility by any advocate of public housing if he could visit Baltimore and obtain first-hand information on just how the housing law-enforcement program is carried out. The Baltimore Housing Authority works closely with the health department and with Judge Kruger, the housing magistrate, in carrying out this program and giving it every possible support.

We do everything we can to accommodate in our projects those families who are required to vacate structures which are condemned by the health department as unfit for habitation. Like other housing authorities, however, our concern has been about the misrepresentations made throughout other parts of the country as to the possibilities of such a program.

In order to clear up any implication in your editorial that the public-housing officials of Baltimore are either hostile to, or are lacking in, cooperation with the housing law-enforcement program in this city, I refer you to a statement issued to housing authorities throughout the country by our chairman, Dr. Don Frank Fenn. We had received so many inquiries about the so-called "Baltimore Plan" from housing authorities throughout the country—inquiries inspired by some of the extravagant claims circulated through publications of the National Association of Home Builders—that we felt it necessary to clear up, as far as possible, some of these misunderstandings.

Incidentally, I attended the meeting of the Washington Housing Association at which the "Baltimore Plan" was discussed, and I think the action of the association which resulted from the discussions was most intelligent and sound. I hope that the efforts of the association to establish a similar housing law-enforcement program in the District of Columbia will be successful. OLIVER C. WINSTON.

15-Mile Speed Limits

I was interested to note in your June 7 article on the Virginia Boundary Channel bridge that the speed limit across this bridge is 15 miles per hour. I cross this bridge every morning, and I had never seen a 15-mile speed-limit sign. I have observed carefully since reading your article, and still see no such sign.

This is typical of the careless job that has been done in the matter of traffic sign placement all over Washington and vicinity, and particularly along the river edge of Arlington County, with the vicinity of the Pentagon coming in for special mention.

I may say, also, that I have never seen anyone crossing this bridge at a speed of under 20 miles per hour. If I were to promise to eat anyone whom I have seen crossing the bridge at a speed under 25 miles per hour I should not, I am confident, be overgorged with protein nourishment in the immediate future.

My point is that no modern car can be expected to slow to 15 miles per hour in high gear. Why do not the responsible officials abandon the entire idea of 15-miles-per-hour-limit signs unless they mean to enforce them?

More Parking Space

The present hearings on car parking in the District ought to seek practical solutions. Here might be a pointer, exemplified by the triangular park north of Pennsylvania ave. between 18th and 19th sts. nw. H st. there could be opened to angular parking, instead of the present curb parking. Running along the north side of the park, even during rush hours, it carries scant traffic that merges into Pennsylvania ave. at 19th through a wide funnel without lane lines. Angular parking would reduce the superfluous road width to two lanes, ample for the traffic and of great advantage in channeling merging traffic into Pennsylvania ave. on two lanes more safely than on the present multiple lanes. Angular parking would provide at least double the present parking space.

Washington, famous for its diagonal avenues, has scores of such triangular intersections with parks or sliced-off triangular blocks, with one of the three roads forming the triangle barely used for through traffic. I am sure that in many instances traffic diversion in favor of enlarging parking areas would eliminate confusion.

Transit Fare Increase

Although we shall certainly not welcome it, we are willing to accept an increase in D. C. transit fares if it is absolutely necessary. However, we are strongly opposed to the company's abolishing the weekly pass, since this action will cause a great loss in speed, efficiency and transit business. The passes should, we believe, be retained at a price equivalent to that of 15 rides.

Sainted King

Who slipped here, the usually infallible Folliard, or Hoof-in-mouth Harry? I find The Washington Post reporting from Fort Wayne that President Truman referred to the contemporaries of "Mad Anthony" Wayne as possessors of "a St. James version of the Bible."

I know of a King James version of the Bible—a translation authorized in the seventeenth century by James I of England, but where does Saint James enter the picture?

Housing Compromise

The Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill has been blocked largely because of controversy over one of its nine parts. Some people object to that part which authorizes construction of 500,000 apartments in subsidized low-rent public housing projects during the next five years. Others insist on that provision.

Let's split the difference. Those who want 500,000 units and those who want none at all should meet half way and compromise on 250,000 units.

Crossing Carelessness

The Arlington Circuit Court jury certainly played into the hands of the young man who was struck by a train after pulling past a halted automobile at the Washington & Old Dominion Railroad crossing in Falls Church. He received a $3750 award for his disinterest in life.

If he cannot see a train "until it was 10 feet away," what is he doing with a driver's license? This must be the day when a motorist need no longer heed the usual warnings at a railroad crossing, confident in the knowledge that he or his survivors may extort exorbitant damages through a sympathetic jury wise to the ways of the big, lush corporation.

"The Edge Of The Abyss"

Mr. Stewart Alsop's column of June 9, "The Edge of the Abyss," simply fascinated me. It is seldom that one can read such a perfect tale from the Arabian Nights in a contemporary political column. Though Iraq is ancient Mesopotamia and its capital, Baghdad, is the same old Baghdad of the Thousand and One Nights, I still think that reputable journalists should be expected to stick to the geopolitical realities of the problems they discuss rather than to fairy tales, even if those are of Whitehall inspiration.

According to the British Foreign Office spokesman whom Mr. Alsop quotes, the shameful appeasement of the Arab states by the United Nations, which amounted to condoning their aggression against Israel, was simply a God-sent salvation for the democratic world. For—so the story goes—had the Security Council adopted the American-Soviet resolution on economic sanctions against the Arab aggressors, the Middle East would have been forced into the Soviet sphere of influence.

A violent political explosion in Iraq would have been inevitable. This is exactly what the Soviet was waiting for. Russia would grant Iraq a loan in gold (why in gold, and what would Iraq do with the gold?). The pro-Soviet political group in Iraq (suddenly very powerful according to Alsop) would seize power, and the Kremlin would take over the whole Middle East.

Reading this rigmarole, one cannot help arriving at the conclusion that the fabricators and promoters of this type of story must have a very low estimate indeed of the intelligence of the American reader. A sober analysis of Middle East political, strategic and economic realities, which should not be completely unknown to Mr. Alsop, would establish beyond doubt that it would take much more than a gold loan or a dozen gold loans for Russia to grab the Middle East. In fact, nothing short of a new world war could bring about the transfer of the Middle East from the sphere of western to that of Soviet power and influence.

And even the most superficial analysis—the ability, let us say, of Mr. Alsop to read his own article—would make it unbelievable that after Soviet Russia had joined in applying sanctions against Iraq, the latter country—out of gratitude?—would apply to Russia for a loan, or that Russia, by giving such a loan, would openly defy the U. N. sanctions she herself had sponsored.

In conclusion, allow me to point out that this is not merely a theoretical discussion of the "abyss" miraculously avoided by us. The war in and over Palestine is not yet finished. Should the main thesis of the Foreign Office-Alsop story be accepted, then the Arab chieftains may feel absolutely free to proceed with their aggression in the future, fearing no reaction from the western powers and from the United Nations which the latter control. We shall always be afraid to approach that legendary "Edge of the Abyss."

"Chestnut Grove"

In re your editorial "Chestnut Grove" of June 8, may I ask with whom it is you "agree that the insinuation that any Southerner ever says, or ever has said, 'you all' to designate an individual person is just another piece of malicious and mendacious Yankee propaganda"?

As a Southerner I want to assure you that no Southerner ever has any such harsh idea about the Yankees who think we use "you all" incorrectly. Having had the advantage of being reared in the cradle of American culture (Agar) we can accept with tolerant pity their Yankee ignorance. Mr. David Rankin Barbee's intelligent letter of June 8 is most satisfying.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Dewey's Star

OF THE three candidates likely to deadlock at the Philadelphia convention, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey would seem at this writing to have the greatest chance of ultimate victory.

He has never drawn down on himself the active hostility of GOP potentates as Harold Stassen has. In popular favor, he has always shown a far better rating than Senator Robert A. Taft.

His greatest asset is the efficiency with which he has organized and directed the government of the richest and most populous State in the Union. Many thoughtful persons, observing the confusion and conflict in Washington, have come to feel that a man of Dewey's cold-blooded, hard-boiled efficiency is essential to restore order and get teamwork in government.

Applying the adjective cold-blooded, you immediately tag Dewey with his greatest handicap. He lacks the warmth of personality which is a traditional property in the knapsack of the ambitious American politician. One result has been a host of wisecracks invented by those who dislike the precise, efficient Governor.

The primary lack, the doubters feel, is any deep or sure conviction. They regard Dewey as a weathervane, inclined to turn with whatever wind is blowing. Certainly he is a shrewd politician with a careful sense of timing.

DEWEY would have preferred to have directed his primary campaign from Albany, impressing the voters by his attention to duty. But Stassen's phenomenal success in Wisconsin, where Dewey failed to win a single delegate, and the threat of a similar victory in Oregon forced a change in strategy. Dewey conducted a remarkable three-week campaign in which he got his hair mussed up and his hands dirty and came out with a decisive win over Stassen.

Dewey's astute campaign manager, Herbert Brownell, declared in a recent interview that his man now had sufficient second and third ballot votes to win. This claim comes from all the candidates. In Dewey's case it is likely to have more realism behind it.

On foreign policy the New York Governor has until recently had little to say, and that in broad generalization. This was in accord with the fiction that he was not a candidate for the Presidency.

In general, however, he has supported the need for the United States to take a role in the world consistent with America's vast economic and industrial power. He is one of the candidates damned by the extreme isolationists in the Chicago Tribune wing of the party.

With Dewey in the White House, the Secretary of State would be John Foster Dulles, the New York corporation lawyer who has taken an active part during the past two years in helping shape the bipartisan foreign policy. Extremely able, Dulles is a controversial figure, the target of charges from the left that he seeks to restore Europe's cartels for the benefit of his corporation clients.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg is also close to Dulles. It is quite possible that if Vandenberg were the compromise nominee and elected in November, he would likewise name Dulles as Secretary of State.

ON DOMESTIC issues Dewey's record is spotty. On the question of power, which President Truman has stressed so heavily in his tour of the Pacific Northwest, Dewey in Oregon first declared himself in favor of regional development of river basins, then repudiated the authority concept as represented by TVA.

He has tended to point with pride to the record in New York State, and with some justification. A State fair employment law has helped to break down racial barriers. It is a pioneer effort that has won Dewey the suspicion of Southern Republicans.

The New York Governor points with pride to veterans' housing built with State aid. On aid to education, Dewey compelled the Legislature to pass the burden of higher salaries, new schools and so on to the counties, and this caused an angry outcry.

In my opinion, Dewey would be an able, efficient President. He would undoubtedly bring to Washington many of the capable administrators now on the Dewey team in Albany. As to direction and objectives, a great deal would depend on the state of public opinion.

When all is said and done, no man can be measured until he is in the office. The late Heywood Broun predicted before Franklin Roosevelt took office that he would follow such a neutral course as to leave little imprint on his time. The American voter must take a great deal on faith in the presidential sweepstakes.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Bernadotte And Lie

On three successive days last week three men were heard from who understand the United Nations and are determined to make it work.

LIPPMANN

On Wednesday Count Folke Bernadotte, without any military force at his disposal but with diplomatic support from the great powers, succeeded in mediating a truce in Palestine.

On Thursday the Secretary-General, Mr. Trygve Lie, speaking at Harvard, brought forward a proposal of the secretariat to raise "a small guard force, as distinct from a striking force," to be at the disposal of the United Nations.

On Friday, Senator Vandenberg obtained a decisive vote (64 to 4) for his resolution, which is in substance a vote of confidence that the present Charter need not be scrapped because it can be improved and used more effectively.

THE INITIAL success of Count Bernadotte has shown that the basic conception of the United Nations is sound: that is to say that when the great powers are able to agree that they prefer peace to war, then small wars (which could become big wars) can be localized, the fighting regulated and reduced, and the opportunity to mediate the issues created. That is not everything. But it is a very great deal, and no one who understands the Charter or the realities of world politics would expect more. He will not expect the U. N. to resolve the great conflict between East and West. He will know that that can be done only by diplomacy or by war.

But he has a right to expect that the secondary conflict, of which Palestine is a conspicuous example, can be dealt with through the U. N.—and without the intervention of large forces.

THE ROOT of the American vacillation on Palestine was the belief, based on misinformation and misunderstanding, that the partition recommended by the General Assembly could be carried out only by the intervention of a large international army. Last winter it was the general view—shared by many supporters of Zionism—that an army at least as large as the British, upward of 70,000 men, would be needed to "enforce" partition. Quite rightly, if that was true, Mr. Marshall and Mr. Forrestal refused to send American troops to fight Arabs and Jews in the Holy Land, or to permit the Soviet government to send a division of the Red Army into the Middle East.

But in fact, as events have shown, no international army was needed to enforce partition. What was needed was diplomatic action to induce the acceptance de jure of the partition which existed de facto. The truce, which Count Bernadotte has arranged, became possible when diplomatic action had been taken in Washington, London, Tel Aviv, Amman and Cairo which made it plain that the great powers would not support a war in defiance of the United Nations. No international army was needed for that. All that was needed was agreement by the great powers to withhold the armed force which only they could supply. A serious war cannot be fought in Palestine by the local armies. Therefore, once the great powers refrained from supporting the war, a truce was possible.

MR. LIE is now asking for permission to recruit "a comparatively small guard force" by voluntary individual enlistment after careful screening, and presumably from among the middle and smaller powers. The purpose of this guard force would not be to coerce armies—Abdullah's Legion, the Haganah, King Farouk's troops. Its purpose in Palestine or elsewhere would not be to wage war on behalf of U. N. against an aggressor. The U. N. guard would be much too small for that.

Its purpose would be to make visible to the excited and angry people at the scene of the dispute the authority of the United Nations when, as is now the case in Palestine, as has been the case in Indonesia, as may be the case in Kashmir, the U. N. has agreed to mediate.

THE CANADIAN delegate to the U. N., General McNaughton, has raised the one objection to this proposal which needs to be met, saying that "it is unwise to mix moral and military force . . . we must think many times before we swing over to military force and compulsion." But that precisely is the point of Mr. Lie's proposal: he has thought many times before swinging over to military force and compulsion.

The U. N. guard would not be a military force and it would be quite incapable of exerting compulsion. It would consist of a few hundred men, without artillery, tanks, airplanes, battleships, but wearing a distinctive uniform and carrying token weapons. They would not be an army, probably not even a constabulary, scarcely a police force. They would be more nearly like the Swiss guards which the Popes maintain in Vatican City—not a military force at all against actual armies but a reminder to individuals, who might forget themselves, to respect the order and dignity of the Papal See. The power of the U. N. guards would consist solely in the fact that, like Count Bernadotte, Mr. Bunche, and a handful of military observers today, they were the outward and visible sign that the United Nations were present.

To the local forces and the inhabitants who cannot be expected to understand the Charter, even if they could read it, these U. N. guardsmen in their uniforms and with their insigne would be the symbol of the universal organization which all the powers of the earth have created in order to preserve the peace.

MR. LIE'S proposal should not be confused with the attempt to create a powerful international army under Article 43 of the Charter. That project has been argued back and forth for a long time, and no agreement is in sight. I venture to think that the project is basically misconceived, as impossible to consummate as it is to square the circle, and that there will be no agreement. For if Russia, America, and Britain were able to agree on an international army powerful enough to coerce Russia, Britain, or America, they would be in such a state of perfect harmony that no army would be needed to keep the peace among them.

A glance at the proposals which have been discussed would show that the generals and admirals have been talking about an international force of about 15 divisions, a navy of three battleships, six aircraft carriers, 10 cruisers, 12 to 30 submarines, and an air force of approximately 500 heavy bombers. Is it not evident that the great powers will never agree to create such an international force, that they can never agree as to where it should be stationed, how financed, how commanded, how supplied?

Nor is there any value in their trying to agree. For this large force would still be much too small to defeat a great power: in a war of the great powers the force would be divided against itself. And for a little war, as in Palestine, where no great power is directly involved, such an international force would be absurdly too large.

MR. LIE'S proposal is on a wholly different plane. It lies within the field of what is possible now, desirable now, and necessary, if the U. N.—within its competence—is to make progress.

World Bank Is Seen Assuming Wider Role If ERP Succeeds

Success of the Marshall Plan may increase the lending role the World Bank should play in reconstruction and development of Western Europe, declared one of the bank's officials last night.

E. Fleetwood Dunstan, director of marketing for the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, made the observation in a speech prepared for delivery last night at Murray Bay, Quebec, before members of the Investment Dealers Association of Canada.

He also gave a late accounting of operations of the international lending agency. These included, he said, six loans to five countries totaling 514 million dollars.

Loans in Two Years

Dunstan listed the loans made in the bank's first two years of operations as: France 250 million dollars; The Uetherlands, 195 million dollars; Denmark, 40 million dollars; Luxembourg, 12 million dollars, and two loans to Chile totaling 16 million dollars.

"Up to May 31," declared Dunstan, "there had been disbursed on these loans a total of roughly 442 million dollars."

The program, he said, already is showing benefits to the cooperating countries which make the money available. In Canada, alone, he said, more than 12 million dollars of the funds loaned was returned for expenditures of the borrowing nations, in financings traced up to February 1.

Fifteen Seek Money

The International Bank presently has under consideration loans requests from more than 15 nations, Dunstan said.

Commenting on possible effects of the European recovery plan (Marshall Plan) on the International Bank's future activities in Western Europe, Dunstan stated:

"Our role in Europe in the future, as in the past, will be to make productive loans with reasonable prospects of repayment largely in the equipment and capital goods fields.

"The International Bank should be able to play an important role in the provision of additional investment funds for western Europe if a broad case is given to the re-establishment of a sound economy there by the recovery program now under way."

At present, Dunstan said, the International Bank is not seeking more funds. It now has, he said, approximately 475 million dollars available for lending or investing, or "more than we currently need or have any desire to hold in the cash drawer."

Western Germany

By Sumner Welles

Invitation For A Playoff

THE PLAN for western Germany proves again how catastrophic was the failure of the four great powers to agree before the victory upon a long-range policy designed to create a regenerated Germany.

The best that can be said for this plan is that almost any change would be better than the chaos existing in western Germany since the end of 1945.

It has these immediate benefits:

By establishing the economic internationalization of the Ruhr, the plan gives the western powers control over the major source of Germany's military potential. It can increase Germany's productivity. It can prepare the ground for the gradual integration of the economy of western Germany with that of the rest of western Europe. It can facilitate the success of the European Recovery Program. These combined factors can raise German living standards at the same time that they speed up European reconstruction.

The American commitment to retain troops in Germany "until the peace of Europe is secured" should strengthen confidence in western Europe, and particularly in France.

These aspects appeal to those in the executive and legislative branches of our Government who are thinking primarily of the political advantages to be gained by "getting our foreign policy off the backs of the taxpayers."

THE UNDERLYING dangers of the plan, which involve the world of tomorrow, are relegated to the background in this election year of 1948.

The United States and Great Britain have failed to reeducate the Germans. In a secret poll conducted recently in western Germany, 64 per cent expressed the belief that the Hitler regime had committed no crimes against humanity and indicated their approval of the Nazi government.

Are such conditions conducive to the successful inauguration of self-government? The public reaction of even the more moderate of western Germany's political leaders to the six-power plan shows that German nationalism is again rampant. The objectives that the pan-Germans and the militarists have preached for 70 years are more than ever the ideal of a majority of the Germans.

During recent months British policy has been directed to rebuilding a strong Germany as a buffer state against Russia. Britain's chief authorities in Germany, Sir Brian Robertson and Lord Pakenham, have been currying favor with the Germans by proclaiming the need "to forgive and forget." American policy is now apparently the same. The fatal delusions that governed the policy of Britain and the United States toward Germany in the 1920s are once more dominant. We are losing sight of our future security.

ONCE the German leaders regain even a limited measure of authority they will revert to the practice they so successfully pursued after the First World War of playing off one ally against the other as a means of breaking down all controls imposed upon them. The breach between the Soviet Union and the West seems made to order for their purposes.

The six-power plan will be used by the Soviet Union as a propaganda weapon to convince the German masses that the western democracies are bent upon Germany's obliteration.

The announcement of the plan affords the Kremlin a valid pretext for establishing within eastern Germany a government for a united Germany. Should the present plan for western Germany be placed in operation, the English-speaking powers will be increasingly tempted to outbid the Russians for German support by agreeing to the reconstitution of a united Germany under a highly centralized government.

What our policymakers have apparently overlooked is that the historic motives for Russo-German cooperation were not ended merely because of the aberrations of Wilhelm II and of Hitler. Bismarck's policy was founded on his reinsurance treaty with Russia. The German people are not forgetting that when Germany and Russia were allied, the German Reich became Europe's greatest power, and that Germany was defeated in two world wars when Russia joined Germany's enemies.

THERE IS one card in the Politburo's hands that the western powers cannot match. The common interest of Russia and of Germany in dividing Poland between them was one of the strongest motives for the Russo-German alliances of the past. As Bismarck's successor, Von Bulow, phrased it, "I always believed that it was in our own interests to avoid a war with Russia . . . I believed above all that no greater disaster could happen to us than the reestablishment of an independent Polish state."

Russia cannot dominate Europe unless she can count on German cooperation. That has become the Kremlin's primary ambition. Moscow will not hesitate to offer Germany her former provinces now occupied by Poland if in return it can win the support of the German people and control Germany's future government.

The six-power plan increases the probability that the Germans will see in an alignment with the Soviet bloc means by which the "master race" can eventually secure its long-awaited triumph.

Petain at 92 Suffers Irregular Heart Beat

Ile D'Yeu, France, June 14 (U.P.). Wartime Premier Marshal Henri-Philippe Petain, 92, is suffering from an "irregular heart beat," it was reported today.

Petain, who was exiled to La Pierre Levee Prison, has been receiving digitalis "for some days now," it was reported.

House Votes $200 Teacher Pay Increase; Passes School Wage, Two Parking Bills

The House yesterday passed and sent to the Senate a tentative $200 one-year pay increase bill for Washington public school teachers.

The bill is slated for action by the Senate District committee at 10 a. m. today, but its future is linked to the still uncertain issue of a general Federal pay increase bill covering District classified employes.

Also approved by the House in a quick District day, managed by House District Chairman Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) were bills to:

1. Equalize the salary treatment given to public school teachers with a master's degree compared with that for master's degree teachers being hired.

2. Speed up the District off-street parking program by letting the District rent land for 50-year periods to permit construction of parking garages by private enterprise.

3. Make the District Commissioners survey comparative parking rates and services in Washington and other cities, and report their findings to Congress early next year.

The off-street parking bill went to the White House, the other measures went to the Senate.

The House also approved and sent to the White House a bill to authorize $65,000 for reconstructing the Francis Scott Key Mansion on M st. nw. just east of Key Bridge. The original house, just west of the bridge, was demolished to makeway for the elevated highway project there.

Meanwhile, Senators received a new appeal from the Washington Committee for Consumers' Protection to fight a sales tax for the District. Senate sales tax action has been blocked twice by Senator Olin D. Johnson (D., S. C.).

A delegation of mothers with their children, representing the Washington committee circulated a written protest against the sales tax to Senate offices. The group was led by Mrs. Edith Schubert, of 487 Orange st. se.

In the House, chances for passage of the proposed District liquor price fixing bill apparently disappeared. Representative Fred L. Crawford (R., Mich.) objected to its consideration in District Day, and Representative Dirksen, author of the measure, withdrew it.

Business Heads Take No. 1 Spot

Despite the attention-getting pay increases won by millions of workers last year, business owners and managers apparently scored the greatest gain in earnings.

The Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday that a survey it made recently showed that the owner-manager group moved ahead of the professional group in 1947 to clinch the number one earnings spot.

The median income of executives making up the owner-manager group rose to $4500, an increase of $800. Median income means middle income—that is, half of the executives made more than $4500 and half less.

The doctors, lawyers, dentists and so on making up the professional group dropped into second place. Their middle income was $4000 last year, exactly the same as the year before.

Skilled and semiskilled workers, taken together, and clerical and salespeople both advanced $300 in earnings last year.

That lifted the middle income for skilled and semiskilled workers to $3000 and that of clerks and sales people to $2900.

The middle income for the 42 million United States families as a whole was $2920 last year, up $320 from 1946.

Unskilled workers scored a gain of only $150 last year and wound up with a middle income of $1750.

Farmers made a greater increase, $200, but were lowest of all in middle income figured on a cash basis. For them, the figure was $1500.

Judge Locks Courthouse On Tenants

Alexandria City Manager Nicholas A. Colasanto and Domestic Relations Judge Marion B. West clashed yesterday over who controls the city's new juvenile and domestic relations court building.

Last Friday Manager Colasanto told Francis Drischler, city tax assessor, and James Clark, State drivers' permit officer, they could move their offices to the new building's first floor.

But yesterday, when the two started to move in, Judge West locked the front door and refused them entrance.

The judge said the City Council had authorized the court to use the whole $50,000 building, and additional offices would disturb the privacy of his court. He added he wouldn't permit any offices in the building until the City Council so ordered.

The tax assessor previously had offices in the city hall, and the drivers' permit officer had maintained a bureau in a private building for which the city pays $90 a month rent.

Clay to Comply With Red Detour

Frankfurt, Germany, June 24 (AP).—Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today the Americans would comply with a Russian detour to Berlin after the Soviets close the Elbe River Bridge tomorrow "for repairs."

"Even if they have to drive 300 more miles?" a reporter asked Clay.

"Yes," the American military governor replied. "I cannot demand the United States going to war just because somebody has to drive 300 more miles."

The Russian press in Berlin announced Sunday the bridge would be closed. It said detours would be provided, but did not say where and how long they would be.

Do YOU Own A "Scratching" Dog?

If you own and are fond of a dog that is continually scratching, digging, rubbing, and biting himself until his skin is raw and sore, don't just feel sorry for him. The dog can't help himself. But you may. He may be clean and flea free and just suffering from an intense itching irritation that has centered in the nerve endings of his skin. Do as thousands of pleased dog owners are doing.

At any good drug store, pet or sport shop, get a 30c package of Rex Hunters Dog Powders, and give them once a week. Note the quick improvement. One owner writes: "My female setter on Sept. 20th did not have a handful of hair on her body—all scratched and bitten off. I gave her the powders as directed. By Nov. 10th she was all haired out." Learn what they will do for your dog. Make a 50c test. (Economy size box for only $1.00).

Important. Keep your dog clean and flea free with Rex Hunters Medicated Dog Soap and Pine Oil Disinfectant.

T-H Act Casts Management In Role of Union Policeman

By J. A. Livingston

THE SIMPLEST FORMULA for successful drama, as I learned in Professor Campbell's class at the University of Michigan, is this: The hero says, "I will." The villain says, "No, you won't marry the girl." And back and forth they struggle through three acts to a happy ending.

So it has been in the dispute between the CIO maritime unions and the shipowners. But with this difference: No happy ending and the villain in the case is offstage and inanimate, namely, the Taft-Hartley Act.

Livingston

The CIO unions say, "We must have the hiring hall and preferential shop." By that they mean that all assignments of seamen to ships must be done by union agents and hence will be confined exclusively to CIO members. The shipowners say, "No, you won't. It's against the anti-closed-shop provision of the law." Result: Another attempt by the Federal Government to settle a strike by injunction.

A five-man Emergency Fact-Finding Board reported to President Truman that the unions wouldn't consider bargaining unless the employers agreed to the hiring hall and the employers wouldn't bargain on other issues until the unions agreed to eliminate the hiring hall. Both sides, said the board, had failed to show imagination or ingenuity in dealing with the problem.

THE PROBLEM isn't new. It has bobbed up recurrently in the printing trades. But some publishers and the International Typographical Union have dodged it by agreeing verbally to continue going practices. In shipping, some operators of tankers have done the same. But not in this case, which raises a basic issue in labor-management relations.

The Taft-Hartley law now says that an employer may not go to a union leader and say: "Look, Jim, I've known you for years. We've always had good relations. I don't want another labor leader muscling in on you, causing trouble, and upsetting my schedule of operations. So I'll make you exclusive bargaining and hiring agent for me."

In the shipping industry jurisdictional problems are many. AFL unions exist side by side of CIO unions. Both want to get bigger at the other's expense. And shipowners fear that they may be subject to suits for damages under the Taft-Hartley Act if they make an exclusive contract with the CIO. For then AFL members might argue in court that they were turned down at CIO hiring halls for the sole reason that they were not members of the "right" union.

The law as it now stands raises practical and philosophical problems. No one would question the right of a businessman to make an exclusive contract with a steel manufacturer, say, for his steel requirements, or to make an exclusive agreement for a painter to paint his factory building. The mutual benefits of such exclusive contracts would be accepted as socially and economically desirable.

WHEN EXCLUSIVE contracts, however, are used by unions to prevent the employment of apprentices and thus to raise wage rates, or when they are used jointly by management and labor to raise the price of a product (as is frequently charged in the building trades), then society is gouged and government ought to step in. But should government step in through the Taft-Hartley Act, which, in effect, makes management the enforcement agency? Or should the prevention of monopoly and restraint of trade be incorporated in the antitrust laws and be prosecuted by the Department of Justice?

The closed shop, per se, isn't bad. It depends on the manner in which the union uses it. If the union doesn't restrict membership, monopoly doesn't result. And if a closed shop yields harmony in labor-management relations, it has its point. Certainly, it's debatable whether the Federal Government, by law, should force management into a dispute with the union over hiring methods, when management, in its own long-run interest, wants to keep on good terms with that union.

This is something the platform makers might do some thinking about at both Republican and Democratic conventions. For the issue is sure to come up when the Taft-Hartley law is reviewed and amended by Congress.

Refrigerator Sales Spurt In D. C. Area

By S. Oliver Goodman

Sales of electric refrigerators in the Washington area soared to 2265 in April, more than doubling the 1024 in the same 1947 month.

For the first four months this year 6977 refrigerators were sold against 4012 in the same 1947 period, according to figures released yesterday by William Hills, managing director of the Electric Institute of Washington, "the figures cover retail sales in Washington and the two nearby Maryland counties of Prince Georges and Montgomery.

Television was another outstanding sales performer in April, with 1061 receiving sets sold against 669 in the same 1947 month. Regular radio set sales totaled 2779 and combination sets numbered 812, both off appreciably.

A good-sized gain was registered in April sales of vacuum cleaners, while sales of washers, roasters, oil burners and ironers were down for the month.

NEW IDEA: If stockholders won't go to the meetings, then the meetings will go to the stockholders. That's the idea of General Electric Co. in arranging a regional meeting this afternoon at the Statler Hotel and inviting its 4000 shareholders in the Washington area. The program will include a motion picture dramatizing parts of the G. E. annual report and a discussion by W. H. Milton, jr., commercial vice president. The meeting, to start at 3:30 p. m. today, is one of 10 similar sessions to be held in major cities throughout the country.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Dr. Courtney C. Brown, who served during the war in various executive capacities with Government agencies has been appointed assistant head of the Coordination and Economics Department of the Standard Oil Co. (N. J.). He joined Jersey Standard in 1946 and shortly afterward was recalled to Washington on a temporary assignment as vice chairman of President Truman's Famine Emergency Committee . . . A. F. McIntyre has been promoted to chief of Pennsylvania Railroad freight transportation, succeeding J. C. Hill, who resigned to become president of Friuy Growers Express Co. in Washington . . . V. Lewis Bassie, assistant to the Secretary of Commerce, has been named director of the University of Illinois bureau of economic and business research.

CREDIT MANUAL: The Consumers Credit Committee of the American Bankers Association has compiled a new operating manual entitled "Streamlining Your Instalment Credit Department." The booklet, available to member banks on request, assists in formulating standards of practice and uniform accounting systems.

DEBTS: Farmers' fiscal judgment drew praise yesterday from Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of Chase National Bank. "Farmers made judicious use of their increased war earnings to reduce debt," Aldrich told the annual convention of New York State Bankers Association. But city and suburban dwellers have been going increasingly in debt for homes, he added. He assailed the Taft-Eliender-Wagner housing bill as tending to aggravate inflation. (Aside to local bankers: Suggest you write Chase National Bank for copy of complete speech; worth reading.)

IT'S HERE! The Second installment of that thrilling Serial "From $20 A Day to $2,000,000 A Year"

Chapter Two—"We Didn't Know Our Own Strength"

Chapter One told of our beginning in a tiny corner of a drug store—this installment opens in the late '30s.

CUSTOMERS are like cooking, individually that is; some salty, some peppery and some vinegary. But—you put them altogether—and it works out fine! Since we transacted business with a few of them daily, it was a happy discovery to find we really liked people.

In dusting off the assets and liabilities of our baby business, we found service our greatest strength. This struck us one day as we held a customer's dog while he selected a half-pint with all the concentration of a connoisseur. Where else but Plain Old Pearson's could that happen! So Service became our middle name.

We bought a second-hand bicycle, hired a boy to ride it. We began to deliver anything anywhere, so long as it rang the cash register. Got so the phone would ring, a voice say, "Do me a favor and send up a bottle of so-and-so . . . and since he's coming anyway, have your boy pick up a 10-pound cake of ice, potato chips, pickles and crackers." And we did it!

We learned the names aand preferences of our customers. Finally we could greet Joe Doaks with a smile, say "Good afternoon, Mr. Doaks" and reach for his favorite before he could ask! Mr. Doaks liked that, and came back.

We really owe a lot to all the Mr. Doaks, for they taught us what to buy. We know anyone opening a new business should have a wide knowledge of their products. But, after all, until Repeal our products had been illegal, so how could we know much about them?

One kind was as good as another to us, so we mixed 'em on the shelves with gay abandon. We even thought the oldest wines were best. Once we turned down a good price on some vintage 1926 wine, because we knew where we could get vintage 1920 cheaper. It not only cost less, it was six years older!

It was the customers, bless them, who taught us about vintage years, and why they preferred one particular liquor to another. While they told us their likes and dislikes (which they loved to do) we learned the liquor business in the best possible way!

Washington, even in those days, had its humorous side. Our more famous customers taught us a new trick—camouflage. We'd take an oversize bag, crumple it, then cover the bottles with crumpled paper. Out they would go with great dignity, carrying an innocent looking bag of "groceries."

We carried service too far, once. A distinguished gentleman exchanged a $10 check for a $4.50 purchase, plus cash. It bounced. We phoned. He ranted that the blamed bank made a mistake. We apologized. He tore up the check, gave us a $25 one that he said was good as gold. So he pocketed the $15 difference, and disappeared. Yep, it bounced. Never again!

Service helped us grow, but not fast enough. We had ants. So we changed tactics, and quickly became Plain Old Pearson's, the Original Price-Cutters.

In those days liquor circulars were legal. We bombarded the town with them. Competitors said we'd go broke, called us stark, raving mad. But we'd decided to make 10c each on 10,000 sales, rather than 50c each on 500! And we did it.

Quickly our corner became too small and we crowded the drug business. Somebody had to move, and again we were elected. So down the street three doors, for our last move!

There we grew and grew, while the cash register played its unrivaled music. And the more we sold, the lower we cut our mark-up. The more we lowered prices, the more we sold. It was wonderful. Then came the war.

Beautiful Piano Playing Marks Helen Brainard's Recital

By Paul Hume

Helen Brainard included some beautiful piano playing in her recital last night in Phillips Gallery.

A Bach Partita, the Schumann Fantasy, a Bartok suite, Chopin's F minor Ballade, and Morceau of Debussy and Liszt comprised her program. It was a familiar menu, except for the ingenious facility of Bartok's four-movement suite.

Miss Brainard is a most attractive young lady and plays like one. Unfortunately that does not mean she always makes what she does exciting. Excitement is in its turn a quality we do not need or desire at all times in music. Thus to Miss Brainard goes sound approval for her quiet moments. The meditative passages of the Schumann were poetically expounded. Pedaling in the section following the bravura opening of the work was exemplary; phrasing in the same section, often a stumbling block in this favorite cheval de bataille, was similarly tender in motivation and execution.

Color came in Debussy's Reflections in the Water in a way that had eluded the performer up to that time. And her work in the Bartok was deft and clear. It might have had more bite, but it was convincing even in its tendency toward understatement.

But to return to the problem of playing the larger works of the piano: Miss Brainard is too polite about music. There was a caution to all that she did, which, while it did not save her from error in taxing moments, served to rob her of her work of a spontaneity that would have made it far more enticing to the ear.

The solution lies, we believe, in two directions. First, Miss Brainard must enlarge her fine technique, and then make sure of her newly acquired strength. After that, she should search out less familiar repertoire, the works of Haydn, the early French writers, and the moderns whom she seems well able to handle. She should not try to follow overrun trails of nineteenth century works which take an enormous virtuosity and are hardly worth the trouble to those of lesser endowments. Her musicality is unusual and she must capitalize on it.

New York Cotton

New York, June 14 (AP).—Cotton futures closed 20 to 45 cents a bale higher today. Trading was moderately active, with the market drawing support on Washington commodity developments which were interpreted on the favorable side.

Gains at one time extended to more than $2 a bale on trade buying and short covering, but a late flurry of liquidation in the nearby July delivery and New Orleans selling erased a good part of the advance. Favorable news included restoration by the Senate Appropriations Committee of most of the House cuts in foreign aid funds and predictions that the 150-million-dollar revolving fund for commodity purchase would be passed by the House. Additional credits for cotton purchases announced by the ECA over the weekend stimulated some buying.

Late Selling Erases Early Stock Gains

New York, June 14 (AP).—A rising stock market stumbled in late trading today and closed lower, on the average, for the first time in a week.

Many issues had moved up to highest prices of the year or longer. The buying lacked punch, though, and persistent selling kept hacking away at the price level.

Demand centered on the oil and steel groups, which were among the favorites in last week's advance. Nonferrous metals also did fairly well but all sections of the market joined in the retreat.

Volume tended to contract as prices dipped, but expanded earlier as prices rose. Total for the day was 1,750,000 shares, which compared with 1,520,000 Friday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .2 of 1 point to 71.5.

On the losing side were Bethlehem Steel 37½, General Motors 64⅛, Montgomery Ward 61⅞, Caterpillar Tractor 61½, Schenley 31½, American Telephone 155⅞, Westinghouse 32⅝, General Electric 41½, Johns-Manville 41⅜, Southern Pacific 58½, Atlantic Coast Line 57½, Gulf Oil 78⅝ and Twentieth Century Fox 21⅝.

Managing to hold small gains were U. S. Steel, Studebaker, Glenn Martin, Kennecott Copper, Radio Corp., Standard Oil (N. J.) and Pacific Western.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, June 14 (AP).—A rally in the closing minutes lifted feed grains out of the doldrums today. Until the late upturn, the market had moved within a very narrow price range with no definite trend apparent. The late strength in corn and oats was not duplicated in wheat.

Technical factors more than anything else accounted for the late advance. Part of the trading fraternity had gone short on oats and corn at the start, responding to good moisture over the weekend in most of the Midwest. But prices did not dip much and late in the sessions these short lines were covered.

Wheat closed ½ lower to ⅝ higher, July 2.27½; corn was 1½ to 1¾ higher, July 2.17¾@2.18; oats were ½ to 1⅛ higher, July 94⅝@94½, and July soybeans was unchanged at 4.15.

Burned Sea Scout Still Critically Ill

Fifteen-year-old Roy A. Lindgren, jr., was still in critical condition last night from burns he suffered in climbing near a 25,000-volt wire over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks Sunday.

The young Sea Scout, it turned out yesterday, is one of scores of other boys and older persons who cross the tracks frequently at the Sousa Bridge to reach the boatyards in that vicinity.

William Rohrer, skipper of the youth's troop, No. 97, said about 75 to 100 Sea Scouts, using about a half dozen ships anchored in the Anacostia River, cross the tracks whenever they report for activities. The only alternative, he said, is to walk about a mile to the vessels from 11th and M sts. se.

Rohrer added that he frequently saw other persons skirting the District approaches to the bridge, walking down on either side and crossing the tracks.

Less than a year ago, Rohrer said, the Sea Scout vessels were ordered from the Coast Guard pier on Maine ave. along Washington Channel by the District government. Today, he said, there are no facilities elsewhere in Washington. The Sea Scouts, he said, are planning a base for all of the 12 active troops here, but its completion is not expected for at least 10 years.

Young Lindgren, an Anacostia High School student who lives at 2020 Ridge pl. se., caught the electrical jolt when he climbed to the top of a freight car blocking the tracks. Fellow Sea Scouts who were with him got across by climbing over a coupling between cars and said later that Lindgren clambered aloft against their advice. He is in Casualty Hospital, two thirds of his body surface burned.

Need New Cables

4 Gallinger Lifts Closed As Unsafe

The Commissioners yesterday ordered four of Gallinger Hospital's 14 elevators closed as "dangerous to life and limb."

They removed from service, pending installation of new hoist cables, two passenger and one freight elevator in the medical building and one passenger elevator in the tuberculosis building.

The action was taken after Building Inspector Robert H. Davis reported he could not "assume any further responsibility for extension of time" on the repairs, originally ordered last February.

Commissioner Guy Mason authorized an "emergency" purchase of cable on the open market. Gallinger Superintendent Alvin R. Sweeney said the cable will be delivered "the first thing" today and the elevators will be repaired, "one a day," within four days.

Tucker Auto Orders Taken On New Plan

Preston Tucker, beset on many sides in his fight to produce his new rear-engine Tucker automobile, revealed these new developments here yesterday:

1. He has asked the War Assets Administration to reconsider its rejection of his bid for a Government-owned blast furnace at Cleveland, Ohio.

2. The Tucker Corporation is under subpena from the Securities and Exchange Commission to turn over company records, a move which may close down his Chicago plant.

3. Tucker dealers are now accepting orders under a new system by which purchasers buy accessory sets first and then get priority certificates for delivery of the cars as soon as possible.

Releases Open Letter

In a press conference at the Statler Hotel, the 45-year-old manufacturer of the revolutionary automobile released an "open letter" to WAA chief Jess Larson pointing out that if disposal of the iron plant is delayed to October, it would go "by default" to Republic Steel, which operates it now under an agreement with the Government.

Only Tucker and Republic submitted bids on the plant last January, Tucker said, and the Tucker bid was higher. Despite "heavy expense" by the car builder to meet certain WAA requirements, Tucker added, both bids were rejected as "inadequate" five months later.

Asserting that "a series of well-timed public attacks on the Tucker Corp. . . . were engineered by interests seeking to discredit the Tucker project," Tucker wrote to Larson:

"This series of delaying actions, whether by design or otherwise, resulted in inequitable advantages to Republic Steel Corp. and automobile manufacturing interests opposed to the Tucker enterprise."

To Step Up Production

Baring insurmountable difficulties, Tucker told reporters he will step up production of the cars at his Chicago plant even if he is denied use of the blast furnace during the shipping season, which ends in October.

The SEC subpoena for corporation records, Tucker said, fitted in "strangely" with earlier opposition. Without the records, he said, the Chicago plant couldn't function.

Although Tucker said in full-page newspaper advertisements on Sunday that he could, if necessary, give names and facts regarding opponents of the Tucker Corporation, he declined to do so yesterday. He refused to say whether the leading opponent he mentioned in the ads was Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.), who heads a subcommittee that blasted Tucker's activities.

The new cars, three of which attracted a crowd across from the Statler Hotel yesterday, will probably sell for about $2485, F. O. B. Chicago, Tucker said. He hopes to be producing more than 400 a day by late fall.

Drivers Given Ticket 'Break'

Traffic tickets for stopping in a crosswalk were changed to warnings for two streetcar operators last week.

The two adjustments were among 121 granted last week by police as compared to 104 granted the previous week, police reported yesterday.

Both streetcar operators were given their tickets at the intersection of 14th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw., police said. Operator W. T. Dawson of 2617 S. Nash st., Arlington, explained he had overshot the sidewalk when he stopped, while Operator Fred Flynn of 27 N. Bedford st., Arlington, said he had stopped to avoid blocking the crosswalk.

The following persons were granted cancellations because of diplmatic immunity:

Paul Economou Gouras, counselor, Greek Embassy, parking in a no parking at any time zone; Thomas Mansy, Iraq Embassy, parking less than 40 feet from an intersection; Semi A. Ustun, Turkish Embassy, parking in a hack stand; Carlos Vidueriro, Argentine Embassy, parking in a no parking at any time zone; Pierre LeDoux, French Embassy, parking in a no parking at any time zone; N. S. Icarangal of 2164 Florida ave. nw., passing a red light.

Perry H. Fuller of 731 Howard rd. se., chauffeur for the Brazilian Ambassador, was given a cancellation on a ticket for parking in a no parking from 4 to 6:30 p. m. zone. Antonio Deleon of 2233 18th st. nw., who received a ticket for parking in a bus stop, was warned because of diplomatic courtesy.

Council Gets Charter Study

The Greenbelt Town Council last night delegated itself as a special five-man committee to study proposed revision of the town charter.

The action was taken after the council by a 3-to-2 vote rejected a proposal to name three Greenbelt citizens to the study committee along with council members.

The proposal was included in the original resolution introduced by Mrs. Elizabeth Harrington. It was deleted on motion of Councilman Alan D. Morrison.

Mayor Thomas J. Canning set the last four Thursday nights in July for meetings of the committee and said an open hearing will be held the first Thursday night in August.

Richter Heads Civic Group

Victor Richter, civil engineer, of the Woodmoor Citizens Association, was reelected president of the Allied Civic Group of Silver Spring last night at its annual dinner in Stonehouse Inn at Four Corners, Md.

Delegates from 20 citizens' associations affiliated with the group also elected Robert Sherwin, Forest Grove, vice president, and John Lemp, Seven Oaks, secretary-treasurer.

Speakers included Phillip Austensen, Washington Post reporter and first president of the group organized in 1936; Ralph Boyd, chairman of the County Civic Planning Committee; Blair Lee 3d, president of the Silver Spring Board of Trade, and Fred L. Lutes, president of Suburban National Bank.

Richter announced the group will continue to work on the following major goals: A bus terminal for Silver Spring, a transportation system equivalent to those in large cities, and establishment of more traffic control lights.

One on the Aisle—

Olney's God Is Out of This World

By Richard L. Coe

PEOPLE ABOUT THE TOWN: Ralph Clanton, to put it one way, is out of this world . . . What's more, Clanton finds it pays . . . Tonight, for instance, he'll be garbed as a Greek god out at Olney, where he's opening a week's spotlight-sharing opposite Haila Stoddard in "Amphitryon 38" . . . That's the story of Jupiter, who looks down from a cloud and decides that Alkmena, the wife of the soldier Amphitryon, is for him . . . Ralph has just completed a season as Octavius Caesar in Katharine Cornell's "Antony and Cleopatra." . . . Before that he was bewigged as de Guiche in Jose Ferrer's "Cyrano de Bergerac" and before that played Cassio to Paul Robeson's "Othello." And next week at Olney he'll be playing an eighteenth century grandee opposite Lillian Gish in Noel Coward's pistache, "The Marquise." . . . Off-stage, Clanton wears the clothes of this century, but that's just common courtesy; the way any cavalier of the past would behave out of deference to his contemporaries . . . making the picture of a visitor from any era but this one complete, Clanton's a partner in a Long Island antique firm and tints old engravings when he's not tracking down Empire escritoires . . . All this out-of-the-present-into-the past business started when California-born Clanton was studying at the famed Pasadena Playhouse, where fencing and the athletic rigors of classical stage training are a must . . . He learned the ropes so well that nowadays when producers want a guy who can dress up and not look like a souse at a fancy-dress party, tall, husky Clanton gets the job . . . And when he gets tired of reading scripts, what do you suppose he turns to? . . . A book-like Thorton Wilder's "The Ides of March." . . . So if you see a sports-clad god roaming the streets these days, don't mow him down with your Stanley Steamer.

EDWIN HULLINGER, Klingle street's former newspaperman, has come up with a new twist for short subjects, one of which has been completed . . . This is to be a series in color on "Makers of Destiny," picturing events of contemporary importance through the personalities who have something to do with them . . . First in the series will be devoted to Washington columnists and radio commentators, such men as Drew Pearson and Ernest Lindley, who are seen talking with governmental leaders at public and private functions . . . The activities of Secretary Marshall, Eisenhower, MacArthur, Churchill and Einstein will form other films . . . Hullinger hopes to contribute to the independent market with the series and doesn't deny they have a kinship to the "March of Time" and "This Is America" releases.

BILL McGUIRE and a slew of his Catholic University drama departments are bound for Wisconsin, where they'll make a summer theater colony bloom . . . It's a good chance for the capable C. U. students to put their workshop learning to work . . . Among the group are Dot Chernuck, Ionia Manley, Art Conescu, Bob O'Connor, Jack Egan, Vesta Hogan, Ed Ivory, George LaBuda, Gerre Grauman, Jack Keefe, Jim Brennan and Marian Reardon.

HORTON FOOTE is another of the town's wintertime stage folk off for the woods . . . Foote is taking some of his Productions, Inc., group to Kennebunkport, Me., which boasts two summer theaters . . . Along with Foote are Barbara Joyce, Patricia Coates, Angela Kennedy, Charles Sladen and Jerry Cruees. Coproducer Vincent Donoghue is packing up to join them.

DAVID P. HERREN, who's all of 10 years old, is the winner of Keith's "Fort Apache" contest, copping that Mobo-Bronco horse (type hobby) that stood in the lobby while the John Ford picture was on the screen . . . David's brothers and sisters at 1208 Congress st. se., will be getting a boot out of this one, too.

SOPHIA DELZA comes back to dance at American University Wednesday night, when her dance drama will be "Memories of the Future," a title that gets that way by telling of a girl who lost her memory . . . Miss Delza also will include a number of her briefer dance monologues.

IVY RANDALL tonight will be presenting her first full-scale dance recital since she reopened her classes after the war . . . The Chevy Chase Woman's Club at 8 o'clock is the place-time schedule . . . Among the 85 dancers will be Miss Randall's own daughter, 4-year-old Carolyn Dickerman, whose father, Lieut. Carroll Dickerman, was killed in Italy in 1944 . . . So it's an evening of triumph as well as work for Ivy Randall Dickerman.

SUMMERTIME FAVORITE—Haila Stoddard, whose "Dream Girl" opening out at Olney last summer is still a highlight, comes back to the summer theater tonight in S. N. Behrman's adaptation of that naughty French comedy about Greek gods, "Amphitryon 38." Ralph Clanton and Donald Murphy are featured

Contest to Find Ideal Father Ends at Midnight Wednesday

If you have an "ideal father" around the house, hurry up and enter him in The Washington Post's competition for the best father in town.

The contest closes Wednesday night at midnight, so be sure your letter is postmarked before then. Address it to The Ideal Father Editor, Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C.

Alvin V. Freeman, jr., 11 of 4932 1st st. nw., says his father, a supervisor in the Government Printing Office, has taught him the value of money. "What's more," says Alvin, "every Sunday he gets up before mother and me and makes pancakes. When they are ready, he wakes us up."

Joseph Brelow of 1120 Staples st. ne., who works in Lansburgh's alteration department, receives high praise from his daughter, Mrs. Yetta Pearl, who thanks him for encouraging her in a singing career. Mrs. Pearl of 1341 Saratoga ave. ne., recently won a $30 prize, she said.

Gerald Ramsey, 8, gives his dad a hand because "we both like horses and cowboys and football. We both like baseball and strawberry shortcake, too." Gerald's father, Lieut. W. N. Ramsey, USN, 8200 Long Branch Parkway, Silver Spring, Md., also wins thanks for reading Bible stories and The Washington Post's funnies to his son.

Winner of the Ideal Father Contest will be awarded a plaque on Father's Day, June 20, and treated with his family to a dinner and show by The Washington Post.

Bassie to Quit Commerce

GW Star Says 'No Comment' on Report He's a Pro

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

THE LAST SEEN OF Jersey Joe Walcott on the evening of December 5, 1947, he was back-pedaling in great haste around the Madison Square Garden ring. It was the fifteenth round, and he was in no mood to trade even one more punch with Joe Louis despite the fact he had outpunched Louis to that point.

POVICH

Jersey Joe was fighting on instructions from his corner. They told him he had Louis' title in his mitts, barring a knockout. And it seemed that way. Walcott had flabbergasted the capacity crowd by putting the champion down for counts in the first and fourth rounds. In 14 rounds, Walcott had not been off his feet, and he was exposing Louis as an easy target whom he could both outbox and outhit.

Referee Ruby Goldstein thought Walcott won the fight, and voted that way. The two judges balloted for Louis, and he kept his title. The fans booed the decision, but that had no effect. Louis was so disgusted with his own performance he wanted to leave the ring before the decision was announced. Walcott's handlers screamed at what they called robbery. Walcott said, simply enough, "I thought I win it easy."

IN THE POST-FIGHT debates it was contended the decision was good and just, "that nobody should get the title running away like Walcott did." That always seemed to be a curious piece of logic, giving no consideration that Walcott at that point was fighting the smart fight.

To say that Walcott was running away from Louis in those last two rounds hardly discredits him. Ball clubs don't make excuses when they give Ted Williams an intentional pass and make the next guy pop to end the inning. That's hailed as smart baseball and is not regarded in the light of "running away from the issue." Walcott's stratagem in keeping away from Louis was no less laudable than a decision to put Williams on base.

Babe Ruth, the greatest home run hitter in history, used to lay down many a sacrifice bunt, and nobody every accused him of running away from the test. Football teams freeze the ball to consume time in the final minutes, and don't say they lack guts. The intentional safety, usually a back-pedaling retreat just like Walcott's, is a football device that always called for more praise than censure, if it was a move to hold a lead.

WALCOTT APPARENTLY has one thing going for him in his Joe Louis fights that too many of Louis' opponents have lacked—Jersey Joe ain't scared. There was some disbelief when, before their first fight, Walcott declared that as Louis' sparring partner back in 1936, he had dumped the champion on the floor in a training-camp session. But that boast came alive dramatically in the first round last December.

It's a fact that Walcott was held in such low esteem before the fight that a Buffalo, N. Y., firm actually tried to rent the soles of Jersey Joe's ring shoes as advertising space for the moment when Louis would stiffen Walcott and leave him with his toes turned up. You would get 10 to 1, if you thought Walcott had a chance to lick Louis, and it was 5 to 1 that the fight would end with the champ knocking Walcott but.

It seemed that would happen in the first round when Louis walked out and threw one of his regular right-hand drop-shots at Walcott, and then an amazing thing happened. Walcott didn't drop. Not only that, but Walcott's handlers declared their man merely fell into a clinch and muttered to Louis: "Good punch, Joe—bet you don't do it again tonight."

A MORE AMAZING THING happened a minute later in the first round. That was when Walcott brought up a short right of his own against Louis chin, and the champion dropped. And in the fourth round it happened again, and Louis was on the floor from another Walcott right. All the big bombs that night were being landed by Walcott, until the ninth round.

Louis couldn't find Walcott for solid punching purposes until he backed him into the ropes in the ninth and then the champion started pitching, and with both a left and right he had Jersey Joe wobbling. But the next fellow to wobble was Louis. Walcott brought him up sharply with a short right uppercut, and was in charge for the rest of the round.

Never did any opponent show such contempt with Louis, until Walcott chose to stay away from him in the final round. He danced nimbly around the champion, pelted him with both hands, made Louis look like a fumbling oaf when he tried to solve the swaying style of Jersey Joe. Louis, a year younger than the 34-year-old Walcott, looked like the older man in the ring that night—older, and tired, and blessed when they gave the decision.

Observers Await Reaction To Virginia's $10 Fishing Fee

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

IT'S GOING TO BE interesting to see how many non-resident fishermen visit Virginia after July 1.

That's the date the license fee goes up to $10 and the two-day privilege formerly acorded for $1 is discontinued.

Making the rounds, you hear a lot of griping from residents of the District and Maryland. Undeniably, this consensus is that the $10 fee is too high.

No fishing license is required in the District of Columbia and Maryland charges non-residents only $5.50 a season. Also in the Free State a special license to D. C. and Virginia residents to fish only the Potomac River costs $1.75. Maryland extends to non-residents a three-day tourist license for $1.75, too.

Many local fishermen have said that Virginia would have been smarter to have issued a special trout stamp. Their contention is that the trout-stocking program is the principal reason for the increase and that all fishermen shouldn't be penalized.

They feel that trout fishemen realize this factor and willingly would pay an extra assessment. Most of them add that they won't fish any more in Virginia.

Incidentally, residents of Virginia are being taxed only an additional dollar for their licenses—from $2 to 3.

A lot of the outsiders think the move may be a boomerang to Virginians. They point out that the State will lose revenue from fishermen who would have spent money in Virginia and that neighboring States with reciprocal agreements will increase their fees.

Three nearby States that charge non-residents the fee that their home States charge outsiders are Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. After July 1, Virginians who might want to fish in those States will find themselves paying $10 for non-resident licenses.

One outspoken Virginian who professes to be heartily in favor of his State's action is Chauncey J. Hall, of Vienna.

Hall said he would be quite happy if nobody from outside the State came in to hunt or fish. He explained that he's seen too many abuses by D. C. residents who bought resident licenses by using a friend's Virginia address.

ANOTHER NEW LAW in Virginia became effective early this month. It permits the killing of deer any time during the year by landowners who find them damaging crops or fruit trees.

The property owner must call on the game warden and receive a written permit to kill the deer while they actually are damaging his crops. Deer killed under the provisions of this law are the property of the State and must be turned over to be given to public charitable institutions.

Hitherto the law had been in effect in nine counties, now it's State-wide.

TODAY'S TIP—Trout prospects are good on the South River, near Wolftown, Va. It's a long jaunt, about 100 miles. You can go through Culpepper and take Route 230.

Kramer, Riggs, Kovacs Win

Forest Hills, N. Y., June 14 (AP).—Jack Kramer of Los Angeles, carried his second seeding rating into the quarterfinals of the twenty-first annual National professional tennis championships today.

A handful of fans turned out to watch Kramer trim tenth-seeded Robert Stubbs of Scarsdale, N. Y., 6—1, 6—0, 6—2.

Fourth-seeded Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Calif., also reached the round of eight, running through Bob Harman of Los Angeles, 6—3, 6—2, 6—0.

Bobby Riggs of Altadena, Calif., started a quest for his third straight title by defeating Ernie Koslan of White Plains, N. Y., 6—1, 6—1, 6—2.

Nats Go West, Tonight It's The Browns

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Enroute to St. Louis, June 14.—The Nats picked up their belongings and headed West tonight where they hope to pick up a few victories.

Dispossessed of their fourth-place lodging by the Detroit Tigers, who walloped them four in a row ,the Griffs open their 21-game excursion against the Browns tomorrow night.

Pitching Goes Sour

Manager Joe Kuhel, who heretofore has been principally concerned with his club's lack of hitting, now has another worry. All of a sudden his pitching has gone sour.

Only one pitcher was able to go the route in the disastrous Detroit set, Early Wynn, and he was lambasted for 12 hits and nine runs. Walter Masterson blew a four-run lead, Ray Scarborough was driven out in the Saturday's game and Sid Hudson was chased for the ninth straight time in the first game of Sunday's double-header.

Bats Fail to Boom

Offensively, the Nats were pretty much of a bust against the Bengals. Newhouser stopped them with seven hits, Trout allowed the same number and Trucks gave only six.

The current journey will be the longest of the year for the Nats and what they do or fail to do will pretty much tell where, if any place, they are going this year.

They visit every park in the league except Boston's, closing out this swing against the Yankees July 4. This morning the Griffs are only a few percentage points above the sixth-place Red Cox and three lengths in front of the seventh-place Browns, who swept the three-game series in Sportsman's Park last month.

Marx Jewelers Win Opener, 18-3

The Marx Jewelers made a highly auspicious start in the opening of the Capital City Junior League last night, belting Costello Post, 18-3, at Turkey Thicket. Bill Witzel set down the losers with five hits, and a walk. He fanned seven. Bob Bickford and Ben Duvall slammed home runs during the 14-hit onslaught by Marx.

Heurich Loses, Pitcher Utz Breaks Arm

George Jarboe pitched Sunnybrook to an easy 13-4 triumph over the defending champion Heurich Brewers yesterday in an Industrial League game on the Ellipse.

Ernest (Lefty) Utz, who started on the mound for Heurich, was hit by a line drive off the bat of Jim Castiglia in the fifth inning and was taken to Emergency Hospital. He was treated for a fractured left elbow and released from the hospital.

Unlike Flat Racing, Harness Drivers' Weight No Factor

In flat racing, the average jockey is sidelined by overweight just when he's reaching his prime. In harness racing, the driver rides in a finely-balanced sulky and his weight and age are unimportant.

Top driver at Roosevelt Raceway is 240-pound Frank Safford, one of the greatest the sport has seen. Sep Palin, dean of present day driving artists, just passed 70. Other top men, like Fred Egan, Tom Berry, Henry Thomas and Ben White will never see 65 again.

Youth has its fling, too. Leading driver last year was Levi Harner, 38; third man was 28-year-old Del Cameron. And Bud Wathen, 12-year-old son of Wendel Wathen, prominent Maine owner-trainer, already has won his first race.

To counteract the weight of the driver, the shafts of the sulky are placed at a higher level. The racing sulky is so well-balanced, it may be pulled by the little finger.

Mrs. Stokes' 79 Wins Medal in Women's Golf

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

Firing a two over par 79, Mrs. Walter Stokes of Manor began the defense of her District Golf championship by winning the medal in yesterday's qualifying round at Woodmont Country Club.

Only a double bogey six on the seventh hole kept the Manor star from equalling women's par figures.

She parred all but five holes, and on those five she had the aforementioned double bogey, two bogeys and a pair of birdies.

Two Tie at 81

But Mrs. Stokes, despite having the only score below 80, was closely pressed by two rivals.

Miss Elizabeth Garber, playing unattached, shot a fine 37-44—81 and Mrs. L. G. Pray of Columbia Country Club matched that score with 39-42—81.

The 37 strokes with which Miss Garber negotiated the first half of her round was the lowest single nine-hole score of the day. But for her 44 on the incoming nine she might have caught Mrs. Stokes.

Other Scores

Others to score well in the qualifying round were Mrs. Betty Meckley, Kenwood, with 44, 40—84; Mrs. Rex Howard Kenwood, 41, 43—84; Mrs. A. B. Bower, Indian Spring, 41, 45—86; Mrs. Marie Walper, Prince Georges, 42, 45—87 and Mrs. J. P. Trouchaud, Kenwood, 44, 43—87.

Mrs. D. H. Henderson, Congressional, and Mrs. E. K. Harris, Kenwood had 88s; Mrs. M. H. Dinneen, Washington scored 89; Mrs. George Martin, Manor; Mrs. Ora Emge, Prince Georges and Mrs. C. L. Egenroad, Washington had 90s and Mrs. Richard Kreuzberg and Mrs. S. Crocker, both of Kenwood, shot 91s to complete the championship flight.

Match play in all four flights will begin today and will continue each day through Friday when the finals will be played.

Wapinsky, Staff Will Meet Today

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Catcher Joe Wapinsky of George Washington University returned from the NCAA District 3 tournament at Charlotte, N. C., yesterday and refused to comment on reports that he has been a professional for from two to five years.

The Charlotte (N. C.) News said yesterday that Wapinsky admitted he signed a contract with the Buffalo Club of the International League in 1946.

The Buffalo Club said Wapinsky signed in 1943 and was optioned to Hagerstown, Md., of the Interstate League in '43 and to Oil City, Pa., of the Middle Atlantic League in '46.

Wapinsky said here last night he would not comment until after he meets this morning with G. W. Athletic Director Max Farrington, Baseball Coach Arthur Zahn and Athletic Publicist Tom Coleman.

Scouts Smoke Out Joe

Wapinsky and G. W. Pitcher Phil King were named to the all-tournament team in Charlotte. Wapinsky winding up with a .378 average.

When scouts from several professional teams approached him, the Colonial catcher, according to the paper, told the scouts that if they wanated his contract they would have to deal with Buffalo of the International League as he was already a professional.

When first informed, Farrington said the report was "an astounding surprise." He said that if reports were true, Wapinsky would become ineligible, "and I suppose we'd have to forfeit all our baseball games."

G. W., which advanced to the finals of the Charlotte tourney before being walloped, 10-0, by North Carolina, had a 15-5 record. One of their tournament wins eliminated Alabama.

However, Alabama's Athletic Director Frank Thomas said in Tuscaloosa yesterday that the Wapinsky incident "was water over the dam, and unfortunate, but we will not protest."

The 22-year-old sophomore has played a year of baseball and football at GW and has two remaining years of eligibility. The 5-foot, 9 inch, 195-pound blocking back was being counted on heavily by John (Bo) Rowland, new GW grid coach.

Wapinsky will suffer no disciplinary action other than being declared ineligible for athletics, Farrington indicated.

Joe is an excellent student. He has a 3.04 average which is higher than B.

The 1944 Baseball Guide lists a "Joseph Wapinski" of the 1943 Hagerstown, Md., club with a .278 batting average. A "Wapinsky," played for Oil City in 1946 and batted .243, according to the 1947 Guide.

Wapinsky enrolled at G.W. in February, 1947.

Buffalo Says Oil City Owns Wapinsky

Buffalo, N. Y., June 14 (AP).—The International League Buffalo Bisons said tonight Joe Wapinsky, catcher for the George Washington University baseball nine, is not now under contract with the Buffalo club.

Joe Brown, secretary of the Bison club, said the St. Clair, Pa., catcher signed with the Bisons, May 29, 1943, and was optioned to Hagerstown, Md., in the Interstate League, July 21 that year. He was recalled by the Bisons the next September 5.

Brown said Wapinsky was placed on the national defense list on March 3, 1944. He was reinstated on the active list May 31, 1946.

Mack Fires Potter, Will Seek Waivers

Pittsburgh, June 14 (AP).—Connie Mack exploded one of his loudest verbal blasts in 62 years of baseball trials and tribulations today after cutting loose two veteran pitchers.

The 85-year-old owner-manager of the Philadelphia Athletics fired Nelson Potter, 36-year-old relief hurler, and disclosed today he would ask waivers on him. He gave Bill Dietrich, dean of American League pitchers at 38, his unconditional release subject to waiver by other American League Clubs.

Potter got the pink slip after losing yesterday's first game to the St. Louis Browns. Dietrich was released at his own request.

Quite frankly, Connie said he'd made "mistakes" on both men. While he was at it, the head man of the Athletics listed another "mistake"—selling Pitcher Russ Christopher.

Mack Describes Incident

Here for an exhibition game against the Pittsburgh Pirates, the mild-mannered Philadelphia leader fairly bristled as he explained his firing of Potter.

"Here is my story about what happened when Potter came in yesterday after losing that game for us:

"I said, 'were you doing your best out there?'

"I also said to him, 'I paid $20,000 for you and that was my mistake. I don't care how good any player ever was, has been or could be. All I care about is how good he is now.'

Mack went on to say, "I admit I made a lot of bad talk in what I had to say to both Dietrich and Potter but damn it all we're out to win and when you don't win you don't play and you don't stay with my ball club."

Dietrich Asks for Work

It all happened after Potter relieved Lefty Lou Brissie in the eighth inning of the first game against St. Louis with the bases loaded, none out and one run in. The A's led, 5 to 2.

Potter walked Joe Schultz and Paul Lehner socked a single to left, the tying run scoring on the blow and the winning run coming

Mr. Mack Just Got Excited, Says Potter

MOUNT MORRIS, Ill., June 14 (AP).—Pitcher Nelson Potter, fired by Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics, said today that "Mr. Mack just got excited about losing a ball game and flew off the handle."

Potter, arriving at his home after his dismissal in Philadelphia yesterday, said he did not exchange words with Mack when the venerable Athletic leader gave him a verbal lashing in the club house.

"It isn't true, as Mr. Mack inferred, that I wasn't trying my best," said Potter of his relief appearance in the first game of a double header against the St. Louis Browns.

"I told him I was doing the best I could, but, otherwise, I kept quiet. I have respect for his age.

"That's the only time anything like that happened. I won two games for him in the New York series and I saved one in Detroit. He thought I was doing all right then."

The pitcher said he was sure Mack "lost his temper," but that "I won't go back if Connie changes his mind."

"I took him at his word and am just as through with him as he is with me," Potter said.

$10,000 Refund

Phils Lose King in Fast 'Bum' Deal

Philadelphia, June 14 (AP).—The Philadelphia Phillies and the Brooklyn Dodgers today put in a bid for the season's wackiest baseball deal—with Pitcher Clyde King in the middle.

It went like this:

Last week the Dodgers put King on the waiver list.

The Phillies claimed him for the $10,000 waiver price with the intention of shipping the right-hander to their Toronto farm club.

But first the Phillies had to ask for waivers on King.

They did—and the Dodgers, suddenly in dire need of pitchers, reclaimed him today, giving the Phillies back their $10,000.

Baseball Divorce

Boston, June 14 (AP).—A pitched ball won Navy Veteran Leonard Klein, 21, an uncontested divorce today.

On the mound, Klein testified, was his wife, former Betty Jean Harrell, 21, of Jacksonville, Fla. He said the thrown sphere hit him squarely in the molars, bicuspids, etc. Klein pointed to a scar as evidence of cruel and abusive treatment.

Estelle Dislikes Rabbit Ball

Los Angeles, June 14 (AP).—Baseball pitchers and Miss Estelle Hester are opposed to the lively ball.

The pitchers don't like it because it goes too far when hit. That's Miss Hester's objection, too.

She was polishing her automobile across the street from Wrigley Field. Somebody socked a ball over the centerfield wall and Miss Hester became the ultimate point of contact.

When she woke up somebody had scored and she was en route to a receiving hospital.

in orf an error by Outfielder Ray Coleman on the same play. Mack waved Potter to the bench after another St. Louis bingle drove in a run.

Mack had his run-in with Dietrich earlier.

The bespectacled right-hander complained about his lack of pitching assignments and said that if he couldn't get his regular turn he'd prefer an unconditional release.

"You have it," retorted the A's manager.

Referring to Dietrich today, Mack said, "He cost me $35,000. I paid him $10,000 for signing and $12,500 each for last year and this year. I paid him in full when I let him go yesterday."

Hursey Fights Hudson Here at Stadium June 28

Cecil Hudson, San Jose, Calif., middleweight contender, has been signed to meet Smuggy Hursey in a 10-round bout June 28 at Griffith Stadium under the sponsorship of the Liberty Athletic Club.

A ringwise performer who has met and heaten many of the top men in his class, Hudson will be a definite favorite over Hursey, who lost split decisions to Harold Green and Anton Raadik in Madison Square Garden recently.

The California Negro scored a major upset in Chicago last September when he won a decision over Jake LaMotta. He has victories over Tommy Bell, Jimmy McDaniel, Ossie Harris and Fritzie Zivic to his credit.

In his only fight here, Hudson outpointed Ossie Harris at Uline Arena in January, 1946.

Lenczyk Shoots Record Golf

Columbus, Ohio, June 14 (AP).—Grace Lenczyk shot a record 72 today to win medalist honors in the fourth annual National Women's Collegiate Golf Tourney.

She broke the course and tournament records with rounds of 38, 34 over the 6455-yard Ohio State University Scarlet course. The former course and tourney record, a 73, was set in 1946 by Carol (Babe) Freese of Reed College, Portland, Oreg.

Redskins Sign Two More Rookies

The Redskins yesterday announced the signing of two newcomers, Tom Jones Parry and Ed Quirk. Parry, a 215-pound guard, played for the 1947 Washington State team and Quirk, a 230-pound Missouri University fullback was also a star shot-putter in college.

Judd Hurls No-Hitter

Syracuse, N. Y., June 14 (U.P.).—Oscar Judd, 38-year-old southpaw, tonight pitched a seven-inning no-hit, no-run game for Toronto as the Maple Leafs defeated Syracuse, 7 to 0, in the International League.

Frosty River Sandwiched, Jockey Says

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., June 14.—Annie's Dream, who had a rough trip in her previous race, did a little roughing on her own account today which helped her win the Evergreen Purse, featuring the Monday program.

Racing in the colors of H. N. Warren, of Alexandria, Va., Annie's Dream led J. E. Crider's Comedy Player to the wire by four lengths.

In third position in the field of six came Wayne Kendrick's Frosty River, the only horse in the race with an excuse. Annie's Dream bore in during the early running and Frosty River, caught between the mare and Comedy Player, was forced to be taken up repeatedly.

Jockey Jimmy Baird registered a foul claim against Apprentice R. D. Jones who piloted the winnera However, the stewards did not see it his way and lighted the "official" with a minimum of deliberation.

Track Heavy

Annie's Dream, in winning her fourth purse in ten starts this year, was a favorite and paid a $4.20 mutuel. She was clocked in 1:21 3/5, creditable time considering the track was heavy and lumpy as a result of rain here last night.

Except for allowing the mare to get temporarily out of control in the opening furlong, Jones put up a good ride. He conserved the mare's energy, saved much ground and coasted her into the wire.

$199.20 Daily Double

Jockey Freddie Kratz, leading rider at the session, had his innings in the fifth race, a purse affair. He was aboard J. N. Thomas' One Up, and brought the son of Top Man home a length in advance of Miss Virginia McKenney's Ariel Legend, with W. V. Rose's Bold Boy third. One Up returned a $4.20 and was clocked in 1:20 2/5 for the Charles Town course.

Apprentice J. Ulmer rode the first winner of his career on S. B. Webb's Day After to have a hand in producing a $199.20 daily double. His victory came in the first race and Apprentice Herbert McKinney booted N. L. Haymaker's Count Air home in the second.

McKinney, who has been riding in good form here, was shaken up when A. M. Hines' Miss Economy stumbled and unseated him soon after the start of the fourth race.

Laurel Raceway Demonstrates New Mobile Starting Gate

Laurel Raceway demonstrated its $15,000 McGee mobile starting gate before harness owners and drivers yesterday and everyone seemed satisfied—even the horses.

The automatic barrier, mounted on an automobile, was exhibited as Starting Judge Dave Hoyer opened his daily starting school for trainers and horses.

The schedule will continue each morning from 8:15 to noon until the $600,000 pari-mutuel harness track opens its inaugural 20-night trotting meet next Monday.

With Hoyer at the controls of the gate and Associate Judge Ted Ketcham of Alexandria, Minn., at the wheel, the rolling barrier got the horses away in a good style during the four-hour drills.

The "gate" consists of two wide metal "wings" that snap forward to let the harness fields get away.

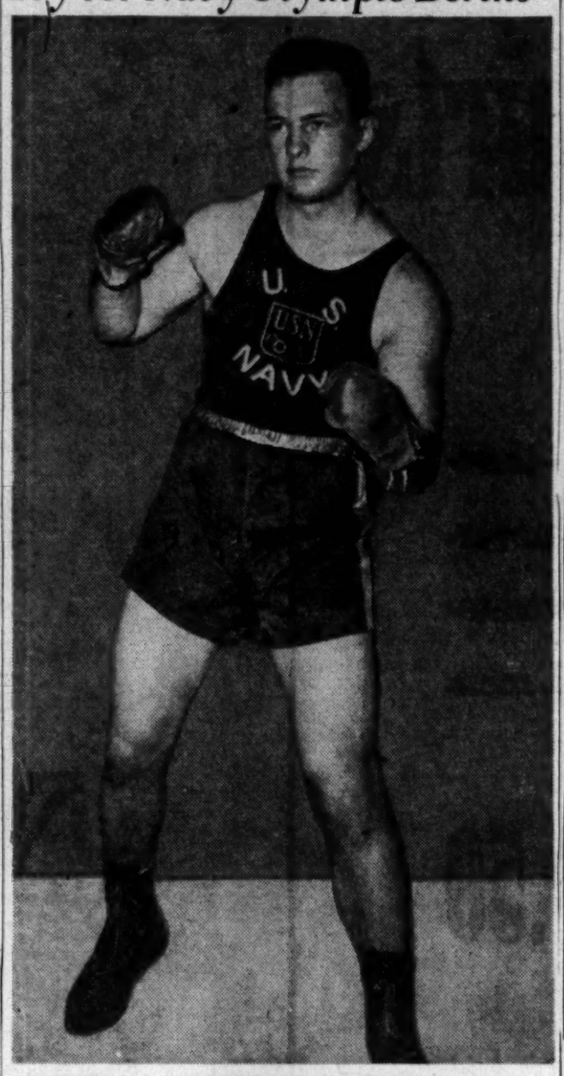
Quantico's Stellato, King Try for Navy Olympic Berths



SLUGGING LEATHERNECK—Charlie Norkus, heavyweight champion of the Third Naval District, will wear the Parris Island, S. C., Marine Base colors when he boxes at Uline Wednesday in the Navy Olympic trials. His opponent will be Keith King of Quantico

The Quantico Marines, champion boxing team of the Washington area, will have two entries, Frank Stellato and Keith King, in the Navy Olympic trials Wednesday at Uline Arena.

Navy championships will be decided in nine divisions with 24 fighters competing. The program is sponsored by the District Amateur Athletic Union and the United States Olympic Committee.

The Naval Relief Society will receive 25 per cent of the proceeds. The rest will go to the Olympic committee for use in paying expenses of the American team to the London games this summer.

Stellato, Golden Gloves featherweight champ of Washington, must bypass Jimmy Ithia and the winner of the John Kamber-Bobby Chabot fight to qualify for the United States Olympic finals in Boston June 28.

King, who won the novice Golden Gloves heavyweight title, faces Jack Woods. If he wins he fights the winner of the Charlie Norkus-Jim Jones bout.

Stellato has his work cut out for him against Ithia, who has won 20 out of 21 fights and is All-Navy champion.

Firemen Rally, Beat Silver Hill

Hal Krug's triple in the eighth inning sparked a three-run rally that gave the District of Columbia Fire Department a 9-6 triumph over Silver Hill in a D. C. Recreation League game yesterday on the Ellipse. The Firemen now lead the league with three victories and no defeats.

Quantico Wins, 13-5, Over Quarters K

Quantico defeated Quarters K, 13-5, in a Potomac River Naval Command contest yesterday at Bethesda. The victory was Quantico's 38th against 10 losses this season. The Marines were paced by Bob Knight and Ralph Russo who each blasted a home run.

Washington Honored for Pedestrian Protection

Awarded Plaque As Winner Over Other Cities in AAA's Contest

Washington yesterday won a plaque for beating the rest of the country in the American Automobile Association's ninth annual Pedestrian Protection Contest.

Commissioner Guy Mason received the award at a joint luncheon meeting of the D. C. Advisory Boad and Traffic Advisory Board, AAA, at Hotel Mayflower. It was presented by AAA Executive Vice President Russell E. Singer before some 100 guests.

Congressman J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.), chairman of the public service subcommittee of the District Committee, in an address read by Washington I. Cleveland, manager of the Washington office, paid tribute to the "many officials, organizations and individuals whose combined efforts brought about this outstanding achievement."

He noted that Washington has reduced its school age pedestrian fatalities from an all-time high of 19 in 1925 to only four in 1947, and commented:

"We adults could all learn a lesson in pedestrian safety from our children."

Pointing to the high ratio of elderly persons on traffic fatality rolls, Beall urged that "motorists as a class become aware of the abnormal danger surrounding elderly pedestrians" and be more careful "where these people are concerned."

GOP Agrees On Pay Bill

"present" on the this-or-nothing pay bill proposed by the leadership. There was talk last night that two minority reports, or statements, would be filed to the pay bill—one by the Democrats and the other by a Republican bloc on the committee.

Representative John Lyle (D., Tex.) summed up the feeling of several committee members when he said:

"I believe in representative government and I believe the House should be given an opportunity to pass on the question in a free and open debate. I don't believe any group of leaders should force their will on the Congress."

However, Lyle and his colleagues who agree with him will confine their objections to the manner in which the pay bill has been handled. They will not try to kill the leadership pay bill. As the outspoken Texan explained:

"We don't want the Federal workers to suffer—it's better for them to get something than nothing at all—and they would suffer from the high cost of living unless they were given a pay raise, even an inadequate raise.

On the Senate side, Senator Flanders (R., Vt.) will introduce an amendment to the Langer-Flanders-Baldwin bill to lower the pay raise amounts in it from $800 to $450 for postal employes and from $650 to $360 for classified employes.

The postal pay raise is the same in both bills—a flat $450 to each employe. The two bills conflict on the method of raising pay for classified employes—a conflict that could result in a better deal for these 825,000 Federal and District workers.

The House bill proposes a flat $360 increase—a raise that would be added to the present salaries. The Senate bill, to be amended by Flanders with the blessing of Senator Taft, the GOP leader, provides for a minimum increase of $270 for each classified employe. In addition, an average increase of $90 would be given each employe through revision of the Classification Act. Some employes would get the $90; some less, and others more. The total average increase would be $360.

Details on how that act would be revised were explained in this column last Sunday. An error in the column stated the average increase would be $880. It should have read $88. Civil Service estimates the average boost would be $88; Budget Bureau computes it at $91, so the Senate is accepting the $90 figure.

In any event it appears likely that if the House and Senate pass the bills as they are now written that the House conferees will accept the Classification Act revision. If that happens—and a stiff fight will be made for it—the final fight may well give classified employes an average increase of $450, the same amount postal employes would receive. The $450 figure is made up by $350 flat increase plus $90 additional through Classification Act overhauling.

Moreover, the Senate bill provides for an average increase of $5000 for Cabinet members and other Federal officals, and the $10,000 Classification Act salary ceiling would be lifted to $11,260 and up to $13,560 for a few professional and technical workers. House conferees would be inclined to go along with that provision, too.

Senate leaders hope to get action on the pay bill when the consent calendar is called later this week.

The Washington Post

FROM LITTLE ACORNS—Vicki Lovejoy, just home from Suburban Hospital, where she was born March 22, weighing a scant 26 ounces. Shown with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lovejoy, 1946 Capitol View ave., Silver Spring, Md., she now tips the scales at 5 pounds 5 ounces, still under average birth weight

Thirteen weeks old and weighing five pounds, Vicki Lovejoy yesterday was getting acquainted with her parents for the first time since she weighed in at 26 ounces in Suburban Hospital, Bethesda.

Conversely, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold L. Lovejoy of 1946 Capitol View ave., Silver Spring, Md., were getting acquainted with Vicki, at home, and the joys—and trials—of parenthood. For up till yesterday their contact with their first-born was as impersonal as a hospital nursery window.

Vicki, or more fully Myra Victoria Lovejoy, was given one chance in a thousand to survive at her birth on March 22. Doctors took charge immediately, with all their skills and resources, including the time-honored method of feeding the tiny—a medicine dropper.

Two weeks ago, Vicki had progressed far enough to be taken from her incubator. Yesterday her parents were plying her with 3 ounces of food every three hours, and physicians said she was as healthy and normal as any other baby.

"She's a normal baby now and looks just like a doll," her proud mother said. "We'll find but tonight how well she cries in her own home."

The child's father, a voice teacher, is particularly interested in the crying. Who knows. Perhaps she may some day become his prize pupil, speculated the mother.

Capitol Steps Mass of Color As Groups Mark Flag Day

The east steps of the Capitol last night were decks of colors as patriotic organizations joined with the Women's Relief Corps, Grand Army of the Republic, in annual Flag Day exercises.

Midst a fanfare of bugles, fluttering flags were marched down the broad steps by white-gowned women, green and khaki-clad Girl and Boy Scouts. Later, young choristers, in red, white and blue robes, and under direction of Clyde J. Holt of Calvary Baptist Church, blended their voices in song.

Detachments of soldiers, sailors and marines participated in the ceremonies at which the United States Navy Band provided musical background.

Master of ceremonies was James G. Yaden, president of the GAR Memorial Day Corp. Salute to the flag was led by Miss Bernice Ferris, patriotic instructor of the Women's Relief Corps. Col. Lawrence R. Dewey of the Army War College staff, delivered an address on the significance of the American flag.

In another observance, flags were presented to safety patrol boys of St. Francis Xavier School, 2700 O st. se., yesterday morning, by members of the Lieut. William H. Corkrean Post No. 226, Catholic War Veterans. The Rev. Dr. John Spence, director of education for the Washington Catholic diocese, represented Archbishop Patrick J. O'Boyle at the ceremonies.

Cancer Fund Is Given GWU, Now Seeking a 'Penicillin'

The American Cancer Society yesterday presented a check for $50,000 to George Washington University here for use in cancer research.

Almost incidentally, the presentation ceremony revealed that the university is working on a project to develop a "penicillin" to fight cancer.

Dr. Calvin T. Klopp, director of cancer activities at GWU's School of Medicine, said the money would be used for research by the university's Warwick Memorial Cancer Clinic.

He listed current or pending projects as:

1. A clinical research unit in which patients under modern medical care will be under constant scrutiny 24 hours a day.

2. A study on effects of nitrogen mustards (used in cancerlike condition of the blood and lymphatic system) on the body chemistry.

3. Research with radioactive isotopes to trace blood chemistry in healthy and in cancerous persons.

4. Microscopic studies of cells and the development of techniques to detect cancer by smears and washes in the stomach, lungs, uterus, kidneys and other organs.

5. Research in effects of cancer operations on animals.

6. Testing of drugs on animal cancers.

7. Efforts to develop a penicillin-like substance for treatment of cancer.

In connection with the "penicillin," Dr. Monroe J. Romansky, associate clinical professor of medicine at the university, disclosed that he has collected from all parts of the world some 400 types of mold and is prepared to test them for effectiveness against cancer.

Dr. Romansky has done experimental work on penicillin with oil and beeswax, the form now used in standard medical practice. His work made possible single daily injections rather than the seven or eight a day "shots" formerly required, with use of penicillin in aqueous solution.

At presentation ceremonies yesterday, Douglass Poteat, vice president of the American Cancer Society, handed over the $50,000 check to Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, G. W. U. president.

Fairmac Bids On Properties To Be Probed

McLean Gardens, Fairlington Deals To Be Included In Investigation

Senate investigators yesterday said they would ask for all bids received by Defense Homes Corporation or the War Assets Administration for properties bought last year by the Fairmac Corp.

These include the 3400-unit development at Fairlington, Va., McLean Gardens in the District, and a smaller development at Bremerton, Wash.

The Senate Investigating Subcommittee, headed by Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.), is making a preliminary inquiry to determine if a full-scale investigation of the sale of the properties is warranted.

Larson to Be Called

The subcommittee disclosed its first move would be to call Jess Larson, acting War Assets administrator, into executive session to lay before it all the facts concerning the sale.

War Assets, it was reported, eventually gave approval to the sale of the property, although actual negotiations were conducted by the Defense Homes Corp.

The committee is particularly interested in the fact that the negotiations on behalf of the Government were conducted in part by William A. Ziegler, then general manager of the Defense Homes Corp., who became general manager for the Fairmac Corp. within a month after the sale was consummated.

Organized By Texans

The Fairmac Corporation was formed by Leo Corrigan, a Dallas, Tex., real estate operator, and Leland Fikes, a Texas oil man.

They took possession of the properties last fall. Investigating Congressmen have been informed the corporation paid $2,000,000 down on the more than $40,000,000 property, and paid down another $2,000,000 from the previous year's rents collected by the Government, with Defense Homes Corporation holding the balance as a mortgage at two and a half per cent.

Charter Suit Taken Under Advisement

Montgomery County Circuit Court yesterday took under advisement a request to stop county citizens from voting on the proposed charter form of government this fall.

Eleven lawyers, seven supporting legality of the charter referendum and four contending it is invalid and unconstitutional, yesterday concluded final arguments in a court test of the charter brought by Hubert A. Schneider, Bethesda lawyer. He asks the court to restrain election officials from placing the issue on the Novemeber 2 ballot.

A second and final day of involved legal argument ended with a warning note by H. Warren Buckler, jr., Baltimore bond counsel, that if the charter is approved without settling the question of its legality, bond firms will not certify future county bond issues.

Opposing attorneys dissented vigorously over the legality of the charter, and further contended that Circuit Court is without purisdiction in the matter.

The charter, a bitter political issue for years, would replace the present five-man board of commissioners with a seven-member county council and a county manager form of government. Proponents claim it would bring "home rule" to Montgomery County, whose major laws must now be enacted by the Maryland General Assembly.

Specific point of conflict between the charter and the State constitution is the fact that under the charter an annual budget would be adopted in June each year. Schneider contends budget adoption and resultant appropriation of monies is a legislative act, and the proposed county council may perform legislative acts only during the month of May.

Police No Closer To Solution of Denekas Murder

Arlington police admitted yesterday they were "no closer" to a solution of the week-old bomb slaying of William A. Denekas, but said the case is "still very active."

Only acquaintance of the slain man to enter detective headquarters was Charles B. Dixon, 5946 N. 10th rd., Arlington. Police Chief Harry Woodyard said he had given Dixon a letter stating there were no charges pending against him "at this time."

He said Dixon had requested the letter to show his employers, the Capital Transit Co., so that he could continue his work as a streetcar motorman.

Denekas, 30-year-old electrician, was slain shortly after 11 a. m. on June 7 when he stepped on the starter of his car in front of his residence at 5837 N. 21st st., Arlington, and touched off a dynamite blast.

Wilson Takes Parisius' Commerce Dept. Post

Of Irish Veteran

Shillelagh Duel Looms Over Ouster

Two eloquent sons of the auld sod last night challenged each other to a duel, to be fought in the Senate, with shillelaghs.

Principals whose "Irish is up" in the cause of honor, are Morris A. Bealle, dismissed as national judge advocate of Irish War Veterans, and George L. Cassiday, national commander, who did the ousting.

Bealle, it seems, was bounced because he published a book which lampooned Washington bigwigs, and so, Cassiday said, "spoiled his usefulness as key legislative representative" of the group.

Calls Him "Shanty Irish"

Which inspired Bealle to state publicly that Cassiday is "a shanty Irishman crazy with power."

Cassiday, whose family comes from County Antrim, cooly replied that Bealle, after all, hails from County Kerry, "where they're all known for flare-ups and inconsistency of ideas."

And if Bealle dares to show up at a hearing before the Senate Armed Services Committee when the Irish War Veterans plan to testify this week, Cassiday added: "I'll flail that madman into sensibility, I will."

Informed of this pronunciamento, Bealle roared, "I'm busy, but never too busy for a good fight. I'll be there with two good shillalaghs, my mitts, and I'll teach him a lesson or two."

May Seek Injunction

Cassiday, a real estate consultant and broker, of 303 17th st. se., is 56, 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighs in at 175; Bealle, a writer, of 230 Peabody st. ne., is 57, 6 feet tall, weighs in at 170.

Bealle revealed he is also contemplating more peaceful measures to fight his ouster. He will consult his attorney as to chances of getting an injunction to restrain Cassiday from ousting procedure, Bealle said. Also he may campaign for national commander to unseat Cassiday at the next convention, he said.

Cassiday, who doesn't think Bealle has "the chances of a snowball in hell" to defeat him, in battle or elections, said the board of directors has backed his ouster action and may eject Bealle from membership "if his destructive tactics continue."

FCC Plans To Regulate Radio-Phones

The Federal Communications Commission proposes to place radio-telephone service on a regular basis. Heretofore, FCC has treated the service as purely experimental.

FCC's proposal, an outgrowth of hearings held in December, 1947, is made in recognition of improved equipment and increased use of radio-telephony since the war's end.

Those affected will have until July 12 to file petitions if they are dissatisfied with the proposal.

Under the proposed rules, eight frequencies, on four two-way channels, would be assigned to taxicabs. Heretofore, only two crowded frequencies have been granted cabs here and in other communities.

Users would be divided into three general classes. Taxis, intercity buses and trucks, urban transit vehicles, and railroads would be included in a land transportation group. Domestic public mobile radio-telephone users would constitute the second, and industrial, miscellaneous users the third class.

3 Indicted For Murder In Beating

Youths Accused Of Victim's Death 11 Months After Sidewalk Set-to

The youths were charged with fatally beating Hamilton S. Eustace, 66-year-old farmer, of Calverton, Va., on the sidewalk in the 1500 block of 9th st. nw. The attack took place on June 17, 1947. Mr. Eustace lived until May 2 of this year.

Indicted were Charles P. Pierson, 19, of 507 O st. nw.; Elmore Lawson, jr., 17, of 1542 8th st. nw., and Willie E. Burke, 16, of 931 Rhode Island ave. nw.

37 Indictments Found

A total of 37 indictments was returned before Justice David A. Pine of District Court.

Anthony J. Forte, 36, a salesman, formerly of the Willard Hotel, was charged with false pretenses in accepting $7000 as a down payment for $85,000 worth of construction equipment. The Medico Electric Motor Co., Inc., of Pittston, Pa., paid the money, it was said, on Forte's representation that he had the right to sell the equipment.

Lloyd W. Owens, 31, of 611 K st. nw., and James E. Williams, 32, of the same address, were charged with concealing two youths who escaped from the National Training School. In addition, Williams was charged with an unnatural act with ont youth.

Edgar C. McFarland, 49, of Derwood, Md., was charged with perjury in getting a divorce here. He stated he was a resident of the District, it was said, when he lived in Maryland.

William A. Foster, 23, no known address, was charged with bigamy and with perjury in getting a marriage license here March 22. He falsely told the Marriage License Bureau he was not married, it was charged.

The grand jury refused to indict Gordon R. Curtis, 21, of 449½ Tennessee ave. ne., on a charge of seduction brought by the parents of a 17-year-old girl.

Montgomery Budget Fight Due Tonight

A public hearing on Montgomery County's proposed $6,251,633 budgett at 8 o'clock tonight in the Circuit Court room in Rockville is expected to draw a record crowd from all parts of the county.

Representatives of county school and civic groups and school officials themselves have promised they will appear at the hearing to fight for funds for higher teacher pay, the spotlight budget issue, and other school needs.

The county school board last week warned that if its "rock bottom" budget request of $3,430,000, a one-million-dollar increase over last year, is not approved, schools will stop hiring new teachers and eliminate 19 kindergartens.

In a final prehearing development yesterday, Assistant School Supt. E. M. Douglass suggested county and school officials "effect a compromise."

County Supervisor I. G. McNayr, who proposed to lop $544,000 from the school fund request, defended his recommendation accusing school officials of putting on "a pressure campaign" and using "lobbying methods" by wining and dining county officials and paying for radio announcements."

Coroner's Jury Frees Officer in Fatal Shooting

Slaying of Drunk Wielding Knife At Policeman Held Justifiable

A coroner's jury here yesterday exonerated Patrolman Clinton F. Brown in the fatal shooting of his prisoner, John Jackson, 29, arrested for intoxication.

The jury of six men deliberated less than a half hour to render a verdict of "justifiable homicide" in the shooting which occurred in the rear of the Second Police Precinct station, 5th st. and New York ave. nw., early Sunday morning.

Brown, in his own defense, testified he was afraid Jackson was going to knife him in the scuffle that started at the door of the patrol wagon on arrival at the stationhouse. His version was corroborated by a fellow officer, Pvt. Chester H. Harmon, who testified he saw the prisoner lunge at Brown with a pocket knife.

Harmon testified Brown did not shoot until after the prisoner's unsuccessful attack, nor until Jackson had disregarded Brown's command to drop the knife. Jackson, Harmon said, ran swifty 10 to 15 feet after the fatal shot. A second shot, he said riccocheted off the pavement.

Jackson was arrested on a routine call to pick up a drunken man at a 7th st. nw. residence. He was taken to Freedman's Hospital after the shooting, but died within the hour. Evidence presented to the coroner's jury included Brown's badge, scarred as by a knife thrust, and the pocket knife reported found on the pavement near where Jackson fell.

In another hearing yesterday, the same jury cleared Benjamin Johnson, 28, of 1118 1st st. nw., of blame in the death of Percy Lee Bryant, 21, of 1543 8th st. nw. Bryant was fatally slashed by a knife in an altercation early Sunday at a 9th st. restaurant.

Witnesses testified Bryant provoked a fight with Johnson and had slashed his face with a broken whiskey bottle before Johnson slashed back in self defense. The jury's verdict termed the death "justifiable homicide."

Of Poet Benet

The widow of poet Stephen Vincent Benet stands to receive a trust fund of more than $400,000 from the estate of Lawrence V. Benet, 85, who died here May 21.

Mr. Benet's will was filed for probate yesterday in District Court. His estate was valued at $470,000. Mr. Benet was an uncle of the poet, and a famous man in his own right as an inventor of the Hotchkiss machine gun. He resided at 2101 Connecticut ave. nw.

Except for minor bequests to friends and relatives, Mr. Benet put the rest in a trust fund for Rosemary Carr Benet, the poet's widow. Upon her death, the estate will go to her children.

William Rose Benet receives $10,000 and Laura Benet, a niece, receives $5000. Under the will, Richard P. Dunn, 3901 Fordham rd. nw., will receive Mr. Benet's watch, fob, seal, a horseshoe and $1000.

5 Indicted As 'Numbers' Participants

An alleged numbers operator who reportedly took "numbers collections" from a police undercover man in the belief the officer was a numbers writer, was among five persons indicted on gambling charges yesterday.

The indictments were returned by the regular grand jury, while the special grand jury which is probing the over-all aspects of gambling here is scheduled to resume its investigation today.

Indicted yesterday, all on charges of operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips, were Andrew P. Gordon, 29, of 4653 Hayes st. ne.; Annie Robinson, 39, and John I. Robinson, 43, of 611 Q st. nw.; Andrew Burr, 22, of 418 Elm st. nw., and Arthur H. McGant, 41, of 2715 13th st. ne.

Police said that Pvt. Theodore R. Thomas, on March 22, saw 15 men enter the residence at 4653 Hayes st. ne., during a period of two hours, and the action was repeated for several days.

Thomas, on March 31, said police, "turned in $5.34 and some used numbers slips at the Hayes st. address, and on April 1 made another "turn-in" of $4.42 and numbers slips. Police raided the place the following day and arrested Gordon and four others. The four others were later freed.

When arrested, said police, Gordon had $1625.04 and an adding machine and numbers slips were seized in the raid. All others indicted yesterday on gambling charges were seized in arrasts in which police said they made numbers plays with marked money. All have been released in $1500 bond.

Annapolis Dinner Set For Management Group

The Washington chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management will hold its annual dinner meeting Thursday at 6:30 p. m. in the Annapolis Hotel, instead of the Lafayette Hotel, as originally planned.

Safe, $600 Stolen Near District Jail

A 400-pound safe containing $600 was stolen early yesterday from the Tommy Tucker Tavern, 126 9th st. se., a short distance from the District Jail.

Albert S. Tucker, proprietor, told police the theft was discovered about 5:30 a. m. by an employe, who found the front door jimmied.

Also missing were a television set, valued at $300, cigars, cigarettes and meats, valued at another $300, Tucker said. Police found marks where the safe apparently had been rolled across the sidewalk to a waiting vehicle.

Same Kline, proprietor of the Kline Paper Stocks Co., 1315 1st st. se. reported the safe there was ripped open early yesterday and $108 in cash stolen. He told police entrance was gained through a back window.

An envelope, containing $110 in cash, was stolen from an unlocked safe in the House office of Representative John W. Byrnes (R., Wis.) sometime last week, police reported yesterday.

Lutherans Open Sessions Today

A three-day meeting of the Southeastern District of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, will get under way today at Christ Lutheran Church, 5101 16th st. nw.

The Rev. O. A. Sauer of Richmond, district president, will speak at 9:30 a. m. Delegates and pastors will vote on committee reports. Dr. Arthur Brunn, synod vice president, will address an open convention meeting at 8:15 p. m.

Roll Back Communism, Ciechanowski Urges

The Unted States "will have to roll back Soviet communism to the prewar western boundary of Russia, if it aims at the ultimate establishment of a really successful world," Jan Ciechanowski, former Ambassador from Poland, told graduates of Georgetown University yesterday.

The diplomat, speaking at the university's 149th annual commencement, declared "an American foreign policy firmly determined to insure American security and leadership cannot merely aim at checking and containing communism and Soviet expansion."

Communism, he said, will have to be stopped not in western Europe "but on the eastern, prewar boundaries of Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Poland and Romania."

Ciechanowski and Charles J. Milton, New Jersey attorney and chairman of the alumni drive to raise funds for a gymnasium, received honorary degrees at the evening ceremony held on the college lawn.

One thousand and thirty-seven degrees were awarded to the university's largest graduating class. Two-thirds of the graduates were veterans.

Ciechanowski said he saw no means except those possibly just short of war that "could immediately reestablish a normal world on sound principles."

"The trust of nations was shaken by the fate of Allied Poland and of other countries now behind the 'iron curtain.' Their confidence in the far-sightedness and firmness of American policy was weakened by the Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam agreements, by persistent appeasement of Russia and by premature American disarmament.

"Failure to isolate the Soviets by taking the necessary measures to reform the veto-ridden, now almost sterile and inoperative United Nations, is interpreted as a sign of weakness on the part of the United States by countries of western Europe."

Three women were among 15 graduates to receive doctor of philosophy degrees, the first to be earned by women at the university.

Lieut. Comdr. Helen Marie Coen, WAVE, killed in a plane crash May 9, was posthumously awarded a master of arts degree.

Twelve graduates of the university 50 years ago sat on the platform with members of the faculty and with the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, who presided at the commencement. The "jubilarians were given testimonials.

Suit Asks $20,000 For Cold Chickens

Cold chicken dinners resulted in a $20,000 damage suit filled yesterday in District Court.

The suit was brought by Tex's Grill, Inc., 1361 H st. ne., against Leo Weingarten, 219 H st. ne., who, the suit said, was to deliver the chicken dinners.

The grill company said that last February it decided to start delivering fried chicken by radio-controlled jeep to the homes of customers.

To get the fowl there hot from the pan the company contracted with Weingarten to install generators in the jeeps for radio, heating and other equipment it was said.

The company said it paid $4600 for an advertising campaign, bought 30,000 chickens. But on the first day, the Weingarten jeeps broke down the suit adds because the genators and most of 1700 orders couldn't be filled.

The grill comany claimed it suffered loss of good will plus the chickens.

Sign Removal Asked

A group of Connecticut ave. merchants has asked the District to remove "closed" signs on streets near the Dupont Circle underpass excavation.

The request was made at a meeting yesterday between a committee of the Connecticut Avenue Association and Alvin Basford, District traffic department safety engineer. The merchants asked the department to allow 20 to 30 minutes parking in the area for shoppers.

The merchants said trade has fallen off from 50 to 70 per cent since the underpass construction started.

False Alarm Costs $125

Alfred Carson, 36, of 28 Quincy pl. nw., was fined $125 yesterday for pulling a alse alarm June 5 at 6th and S sts. nw. He told Municipal Judge Nadine L. Gallagher he pulled the alarm in an effort to get police aid after he was robbed.

Measles Epidemic Wanes

The District's "mild" measles epidemic is beginning to lose its momentum, Dr. James G. Cumming, director of the Health Department's Preventable Disease Bureau, said yesterday.

The number of cases last week totalled 102, compared with 139 the previous week, he said. This was still slightly above the 84 cases considered normal for the second week in June, Cumming said.

Fever Victim Recovering

A spotted fever victim in Montgomery County, the third this year, yesterday was reported "almost recovered" after contracting the disease on May 26. The victim was identified as William Stang, jr., 7, of Rockville, Md.

Arlington Youth

Rites Set For Victim Of Collision

Funeral services for Joseph Haslett, 16, of Arlington, killed early yesterday in an auto accident, will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Ives funeral home, 2847 Wilson blvd.

Haslett

He died in a two-car collision at 10th and N. Highland sts., Arlington, shortly after midnight yesterday.

Two occupants of the other car, Mrs. Dorothy H. Potts, 19, of 1216 N. Nelson st. and Miss Marjorie Griggs, 20, of 814 N. Stafford st., Arlington, were listed in "fair" condition at Arlington Hospital last night.

Driver of the car in which Haslett was fatally injured was Joe Davis, 15, of 4318 N. 18th st., Arlington. The other car's operator was Francis Dutton, 21, of Cottage City, Md. Both were free in $1000 bond pending a preliminary hearing in Arlington County Court June 28.

Born in Alexandria, young Haslett had attended Arlington's Walter Reed Elementary School, and was a junior at the Randolph Macon Academy in Front Royal, Va., at the time of his death. He lived at 5934 N. 16th st.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Eura Haslett of the N. 16th st. address, who is employed in the office of the general counsel for the Atomic energy Commission. Also surviving are his sister, Miss Annah Lee Haslett of the N. 16th st. address, and three grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Haslett of Alexandria and Mrs. Beulah L. Reid of Washington.

The Arlington youth will be buried in Mount Comfort Cemetery, Alexandria.

33 to Graduate Today From Devitt School

Diplomas will be presented to 33 graduates of Devitt School, 2935 Upton st. nw., at commencement exercises at 8:30 p. m. today in the Shoreham Hotel.

Invocation will be pronounced by the Rev. Clifford Homer Richmond, pastor of Chevy Chase Methodist Church. John A. Reilly, president of the Second National Bank, will deliver the address.

1100 Rural Women Enrolled In Maryland U. 'Short Course'

The Washington Post

FROM THE FARMS—More than 1000 Maryland farm women converged on the University of Maryland yesterday for the Second Annual Rural Women's Short Course. Shown arriving from Cumberland, Md., are, from left, Mrs. Elmer Seward, Miss Mary Judy, Mrs. O. C. Judy, Mrs. V. J. Linder and Mrs. Thomas Boyle

More than 1100 Maryland women converged on the University of Maryland yesterday to register for the school's twenty-second rural women's short course, which begins today.

By train, bus and private car, the baggage-laden women came from every corner of the State, took over the university's dormitories and prepared to live the next five days as regular "college students."

Classes during the week will include such practical subjects as foods and nutrition, home management and furnishing, clothing, family living and landscape gardening, public speaking and personality development, journalism, modern crafts, parliamentary law and everyday English.

"Dean" of this year's short course is Mrs. Cornelia Flack of Lansdowne, Pa., who is attending her twenty-first short course. Mrs. Flack, who missed only the first session 22 years ago, began attending the short courses from Anne Arundel County.

Most of the students are rural homemakers, but a new group this year is a contingent of 10 wives of GI students at the university.

The weeks' program opened last night, with a vesper service conducted by Dr. Ralph Stockman, pastor of Christ Church, New York City. Classwork will begin at 9:15 a. m. today.

Judge Laws Sets Date for Hearing On Racial Issue

District Court Justice Bolitha J. Laws has set June 23 for court hearing on action taken by the American Association of University Women to oust its District Chapter for refusing to admit a Negro to membership.

Judge Laws set the date after counsel for both the local chapter and its parent body agreed to postponement of a court airing of the matter which had been scheduled for today. Delay in deposition-taking was given as the reason for postponement.

The National Association is seeking to expel the local chapter from both the association and its joint clubhouse here for refusing to admit Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, local Negro leader, to membership. The chapter was granted a preliminary injunction to stay the ouster pending court decision.

Friedman Funeral Rites To Be Today

Simon Friedman, 72, long-established merchant tailor of Washington, died following a heart attack last night at his home, 4214 14th st. nw.

Emigrating from Radom, Poland, Mr. Friedman conducted his business continuously at 407 7th st. nw., for the past 35 years and was widely known to two generations of Washingtonians.

Mr. Friedman

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Friedman, five daughters, Mrs. Ida Haimovicz, Miss Gertrude Friedman, Mrs. Julius M. Sauber, Mrs. Louis L. Cohan and Mrs. Shirley Povich, and by three sons, Sol Friedman, Isaac W. Friedman and Morris Friedman, all of Washington.

He leaves also 11 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Mr. Friedman was a member of the Ohev Sholom Congregation and a devout Hebrew scholar.

Funeral services will be conducted today at the family home at 4 p. m. with Rabbi Harry Kauffman officiating. Interment will be at the District of Columbia Lodge Cemetery.

Funeral Rites Wednesday for E. E. Bailey, Jr.

The District License Bureau at Municipal Center will be closed all day Wednesday because of the funeral of the late License Superintendent Edward E. Bailey, jr., who died of a heart attack while golfing Sunday.

The Commissioners yesterday passed a resolution expressing "heartfelt sympathy" to Bailey's widow.

"Mr. Bailey rendered 28 years of outstanding service in the District Government," the city heads said. "His ability and sterling integrity assured the Commissioners and the License Bureau of efficient, loyal and unselfish effort. His loss will be keenly felt, and his memory will be cherished by his associates and his many friends."

Funeral services will be held at Hyattsville Methodist Church Wednesday at 11 a. m. Interment will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Osbert Edward Jones

Funeral services for Osbert Edward Jones, 69, builder, who died Sunday at his home, 2833 Northampton st. nw., will be held at 11 a. m. Wednesday at the Reuben Pumphrey funeral home, Bethesda. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Jones, who came to this country in 1907 from England, engaged in business here as a plastering contractor before he became a builder. He was a Mason and member of the Episcopal Chapel of the Redeemer, Glen Echo, Md.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Alice Sutton Jones and four children, Osbert Sutton Jones, Willard Ross Jones, Mrs. Winifred Lord and Mrs. Alice Gwendolyn May. A third son, Lieut. Albert Edward Jones, was killed in action in the Pacific in 1945.

Giles Henry Vaden 3d

Mrs. Atherton, Noted Author, 90, Succumbs

San Francisco, June 14 (AP).—Novelist Gertrude Atherton, 90, died in Stanford Hospital here this afternoon after several weeks' illness.

The noted author, one of the most prolific writers of her time, suffered a slight stroke on May 27.

Her first novel, "The Doomswoman," was published in 1892. Since then, almost up to her death, she had averaged a book a year.

Perhaps her best known work was "Black Oxen," published in 1923, which dealt with the subject of artificial rejuvenation.

In 1943 she was allotted a special niche in the Library of Congress authors' gallery. After receiving some of her manuscripts and "Memorabilia," Joseph Auslander of the library staff commented that she was the first living woman to have extensive representation of her work in manuscript form.

Mrs. Atherton was born in San Francisco, October 30, 1857, the daughter of Thomas L. and Gertrude Franklin Horn. On her mother's side she was descended from John Franklin, a brother of Benjamin Franklin.

She eloped at 18 with her mother's suitor, George Russell Atherton, scion of an aristocratic and conservative family on the San Francisco peninsula.

She lived here in her later years with a daughter, Mrs. Atherton Russell.

5300 Census Approved by Falls Church

The Falls Church Council last night approved census figures which give the town a population of more than 5300, and asked the Fairfax Circuit Court to make the town a second class city.

Town Clerk Claude M. Wells told the council he would send the petition to Fairfax Circuit Judge Paul Brown today. The judge will then establish official census figures, and set the effective date for the change.

The council voted to pay each of the eight enumerators who took the census $50 apiece, and gave a vote of thanks to retired U. S. Census Bureau members William G. Copley for directing the census.

In another action, the council set up a five-man committee to study a proposal by Gustav C. Hertz of 1011 Fowler st. to sell the town 10 acres of land adjoining the Washington and Old Dominion Railroad tracks near Shreve rd. for use as a town property yard and a recreation site.

Town officials pointed out that property currently is being stored in the overcrowded yard of the town hall with some property even located in the back yard of Town Attorney Larue Van Meter.

The council voted to permit the newly formed Falls Church Community Park to take over the function and some $4000 in funds of the park committee, which has been working to set up a town recreation area.

As the group approved the routine administrative transfer, 15-year-old James Beard of 200 Grove ave., who was present at the meeting, protested that the park group should be placed under the town recreation commission as is the Teen Canteen, a youth recreation center, of which he is a member. No action was taken on his complaint.

Miss Mary Imogene Howell

Miss Mary Imogene Howell, 74, secretary to three Senators and a Representative from Montana for 33 years prior to her retirement in 1946, died Sunday at Doctors Hospital.

A native of Virginia City, Mont., Miss Howell was the daughter of the late Horatio S. Howell, who was commandant of the Columbia Falls, Mont., Soldiers' Home. She moved to Washington in 1913, as secretary to Montana's late Senator Thomas Walsh, who served 26 years in the Senate, until his death in March, 1933. Following Senator Walsh's death, Miss Howell became secretary to John E. Erickson, who was appointed March 13, 1933, to fill Senator Walsh's unexpired term. On November 6, 1934, Miss Howell became secretary to Senator James E. Murray (D., Mont.) who was elected to fill Senator Walsh's unexpired term until 1937. After his reelection to the Senate, Miss Howell was Senator Murray's secretary until her retirement in 1946. She had also served a few months as secretary to the late Representative Francis O'Connor of Montana, who died in office in January, 1945.

Miss Howell had lived for the past 19 years with her life-long friend and former classmate, Miss Clara G. Bullard, at the Embassy Apartments, 1613 Harvard st. nw.

She was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church, 821 16th st. nw., and she was active in the Montana State Society here until several years ago.

Miss Howell is survived by cousins who live in Wilmington, Del.

Funeral services will be held today at 2 p. m., at St. John's Episcopal Church, 821 16th st. nw. Burial will be in Helena, Mont., where her parents are buried.

C. O. Webb Dies at Son's Graduation

Charlottesville, Va., June 14 (Spl.)—A Washington attorney fell dead today a few hours before his son's graduation at the University of Virginia's School of Engineering here.

Clarence O. Webb, 61, of 3625 16th st. nw., whose son William A. Webb was to be graduated at 5:30 p. m., collapsed at 2 p. m., while mowing the lawn of the house where his son lived near the University.

Dr. R. G. Magruder, Charlottesville coroner, said Mr. Owen died following a heart attack. His body was removed to Preddy funeral home in Charlottesville.

A principal assistant to the Chief Counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau for more than 20 years, Mr. Owen had spent the weekend at Charlottesville with his wife and daughter Mrs. Rolla H. Taylor of Arlington.

Area Police To Attend Rites For Caldwell

Every Greater Washington Police Department will be represented at funeral services for Charles F. Caldwell, slain Prince Georges County officer, at 1 p. m. Wednesday at Fort Lincoln Cemetery chapel.

Maryland State police will man Prince Georges County police station, while the entire county police force attends in a body. Maryland State, District of Columbia, Montgomery County and near-by Virginia County forces all plan to send representatives.

Original plans to hold the services at Gasch's funeral home, Hyattsville, where Caldwell's body will lie in state until time for the services, were changed yesterday to the cemetery chapel because of the anticipated volume of traffic expected. Burial will follow in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Slain On Duty

Caldwell was slain Saturday night and Police Pvt. Wallace L. Baker seriously wounded in a fight that occurred when the two officers went to the home of Thomas Hall, 55, in Deanwood Park, Md., to investigate a stabbing. Hall's wife, Mabel, struck during the fight with a baseball bat, also was killed.

Police have charged Hall and his daughter, Janie Hall, 20, also of Deanwood Park, both with murder in connection with the officer slaying. A. C. Bailey, 20, held as a witness in the death of Mrs. Hall, has been released under $500 bond, pending grand jury action.

Baker last night was reported somewhat improved at Prince Georges General Hospital.

Meanwhile, more than $600 had been contributed to a "Caldwell fund," to aid the slain officer's family, including a penny brought to Hyattsville police substation by a small boy.

Named to a committee to administer the fund were: T. Howard Duckett, Prince Georges County banker, chairman; William A. Carson, president of the Prince Georges County Commissioners; State Senator L. Harold Sothoron; Major Ralph W. Brown, County police superintendent, and Irvin I. Main, Louis Lebowitz, George T. Burroughs and Don O'Reilly.

Fund to Aid Children

Plans call for establishing an educational fund for the slaim officer's two children, Charles Jay, 10, and Gary Allen, 3.

Prince Georges County Detectives John W. Siddall and Earl J. Huber last night said they had recovered the gun of Private Baker, which had been missing since the shooting. The detectives said James Ridgley, address not given, told them he found the gun in the weeds where Baker dropped it after he had been shot and beaten.

Mrs. Verna H. Rucker

Mrs. Verna Hodges Rucker, 73, died unexpectedly yesterday at her home, 1725 North Queens la., Arlington. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Widow of H. Smith Rucker, Arlington attorney and one-time Commonwealth's Attorney of Buena Vista, Va., Mrs. Rucker was born and reared in Richmond. She moved to Arlington with her husband and two children in 1923. She was a member of Clarendon Baptist Church.

Survivors include a son, H. Smith Rucker, Arlington attorney and member of the county Democratic Executive Committee, a daughter, Miss Georgie M. Rucker, both of the Queens la. address; and two sisters, Mrs. W. B. Crockett, 4620 Lee hwy., Arlington, and Mrs. Eula Parker of Marion, Va.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 3 p. m. in the First Baptist Church at Buena Vista, with burial in the family plot there.

Mr. Koushnareff is assistant chief of the transportation branch, Department of Commerce.

Dr. Kronstein Rites Today; Plastics Expert

Funeral services for Dr. Abraham Kronstein, 81, pioneer in the field of plastic research who died Sunday, will be held at 2 p. m. today at the Danzansky funeral home, 3501 14th st. nw. Burial will be in Friendship Lodge Cemetery.

Dr. Kronstein died at George Washington University Hospital after an illness of two weeks.

A native of Germany, he began his work as a chemist with the Ciba Co., Basel, Switzerland, and later was connected with the College of Technology at Karlsruhe, Germany.

He was active in the varnish and paint industry and for about 20 years was president of the Elektra Varnish Factory in Karlsruhe. Dr. Kronstein came to the United States 8 years ago and recently became a citizen.

Dr. Kronstein received his doctor's degree from Heidelberg University in 1893 and was recently awarded an honorary Doctor of Philosophy degree from the same university. At Heidelberg he was a student and assistant to Victor Mayer, chemist.

Known for his pioneer work in the development of Polystyrene, one of the first plastics, he also helped introduce China wood oil as a practical raw material for coatings. One of the constants in the characteristics of oils which he discovered is known in chemical literature as the "Kronstein number."

Dr. Kronstein lived at 3518 Connecticut ave. nw., where he also had a laboratory and continued with his scientific work until his last illness. He was a member of the American Chemical Society.

He is survived by two sons, Dr. Heinrich Kronstein of Georgetown University and Dr. Max Kronstein of New York University, a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Kate Kronstein of Washington, and three grandchildren, Marianne, Karl, and Werner Kronstein of New York and Washington.

Robert T. George

Vienna, Ga., June 14 (AP).—Robert T. George, 96-year-old father of United States Senator Walter F. George (D., Ga.) died at a hospital here today.

A retired farmer and contractor, Mr. George had been in ill health for some time. Although he was critically ill in April, he had recovered sufficiently to return here from a hospital in Macon, Ga.

About 25 years ago, Mr. George moved to Lakeland, Fla., where he was a citrus grower. Eight years ago he retired and made his home with his son in Vienna, Ga., and his daughter, Mrs. J. N. King of Cordele, Ga. Senator George was in Washington at the time of his father's death, occupied with the closing rush of Senate business.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 4 p. m. at Cordele, Ga.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of his happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Debutantes Dance On Moonlight Cruise

As the SS Potomac cruised in moonlit waters last evening, sunburnt debutantes in their gayest cottons danced with their favorite escorts. There were pails of popcorn and pretzels in the salon, and tables covered with bright colored cloths. Jack Corey's orchestra played, while a crescent moon swung overhead.

The hosts and hostesses for this gay event were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Evans Burbank, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Ramsey Diggs, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gill, Mr. and Mrs. John William Herron, Mr. and Mrs. H. Cecil Kilpatrick, Judge and Mrs. J. Edgar Murdock and Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Dudley Nicolson.

And the honorees were their daughters, Miss Elizabeth Burbank, Miss Alice Muse Digs, Miss Juliet Gill, Miss Dore Martin, Miss Ann Kilpatrick, Miss Elizabeth Murdock and Miss Dudley Nicolson.

Among the many supper parties which preceded the evening cruise were those given by Mr. and Mrs. Nicolson, Mr. and Mrs. Gill and Mr. and Mrs. Herron.

Mr. and Mrs. Gill entertained in honor of Miss Katherine Hooker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gay Hooker, jr., of Georgetown. Miss Hooker made her debut last winter in Boston at a ball given by her aunt, Mrs. T. J. Jefferson Coolidge, jr.

Guests at the supper party in her honor last evening included Miss Alberta Legare, Miss Elizabeth White of New York, Miss Lucy Hoffman, Miss Ellen Bacon, Miss Ann Kilpatrick, Miss Frances Sternhagen, Miss Sarah Sutherland, Miss Helen Willard, Miss Amy Willard, Miss Mary Rapley and Miss Patricia Marbury. And their escorts—E. I. Wight of St. Louis, Mo.; Charles Sherin, Roy Brown, Francis Addison, Chauncey Parker 3d, John Nevius, Edgar Prochnik, Cecil Kilpatrick, jr., Duer McLanahan, David Carpenter, Robert Hooker, Peter Gilsey, John Stirling and Ted Rolphe.

John W. Gill headed the floor committee of 24 boys, assisted by Cecil Kilpatrick, jr. The S. S. Potomac left the pier at 9 o'clock and returned at 12:30. As a happy finale to the evening's fun, an "at home" party with scrambled eggs and coffee was given by Archibald McGlasson, jr., at the apartment of his parents, Capt. and Mrs. Archibald McGlasson, on Ashmead pl.

Secretary's Gold Hair, Mrs. Whitney's Sun Tan Draw Admiring Comments

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

THINGS WE'VE LIKED LATELY: Secretary of the Air Force W. Stuart Symington's new sunstruck hair—sheer Betty Grable gold! . . . Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's newly sunstruck epidermis—smooth as Jamaican rum. Add Mrs. CVW to Washington's snuff snuffers—tiny antique gold box and deliciously de luxe contents gifted by former British Ambassador Lord Inverchapel.

The way the stork calls "en serie" at the French Embassy. Former Minister and Mme. Francis Lacoste boasted three girls. The young, popular Jean-Claude Wincklers welcomed their fourth son last week. . . . Galo Plaza's presumed election to Ecuador's Presidency. Handsomest and undoubtedly only Latin-American head-of-state who has owned a raccoon coat, Bearcat Stutz, sold apples on a Manhattan street corner, shimmied in the old Plaza Grill in true Scott Fitzgerald tradition. Scores of Plaza (Galo) pals are planning planing Quitoward, hoping to cash in on his kudos.

The 2000 first-class articles of clothing collected, cleaned, dispatched to Britain from Washington this past six weeks. Mrs. R. W. Urquhart, wife of the departing British Minister headed the drive, now Lady Balfour is taking over. This is the place where evening dresses, slip-covers as well as more utilitarian woolies are in high demand.

The Vanya Negropontes, son-in-law and beautiful daughter of Mme. Alexandre Cretzianu, newly arrived after a London stopover, an earlier exit from Romania with King Michael's entourage. Like many refugees, they'll leave for Canada soon, farm for a living.

The friend of gregarious Mrs. Frederick Witt, who quipped cozily "Washington is everybody's home town." . . . Somewhat look alikes, Mrs. Edward Burling, jr. and Mrs. James "Scotty" Reston, both tinily trig brunettes who dress with fresh individuality.

Senator Alben Barkley's enjoyment in the dime-a-dozen rumors of romance with this-and-that charmer . . . Speaker of the House Martin's latest haircut. Just like the jobs economical moms do after clapping a bowl over sonny's skull.

Mrs. John Nicholas Brown's handsome tan-against-white dinner evening dresses, all stark whitely effective . . . Mrs. Walter Lippmann, who goes in for French poodles in a big way, wearing a fetching afternoon dress printed with pussycats. Poodles are smart, do they notice?

Mrs. Joseph Davies' spring headgear, wonderfully be-puffed hair-do which, we are told, she creates herself . . . The craze for shawls—nothing new to Mrs. Nicholas Longworth who has always worn 'em. . . . Those colored stockings—blue, pink, green—heavily invested in by this department but never unwrapped.

The return, if only temporarily, of the Turner McBains. Jane, daughter of San Francisco's outstanding lawyer, is missed in her old Washington haunts. . . . Mrs. Ralph Flanders' Baby Crossley station wagon, painted a cool beige. . . . The piper, in kilt and full regalia, who stomped up and across the lawn at Joan Patterson's wedding to John Simonds. . . . The new magazine called cryptically Column . . . the New Yorker profile of Mrs. Roosevelt in the opinion of this department, the first intelligently sympathetic evaluation of our former First Lady.

Manila Women To Be Honored

Mrs. Ramos, wife of the Minister Counselor at the Philippine Embassy, will be hostess at a tea from 5 to 7 p. m. today in honor of a group of women who are visiting here from Manila.

Those to be honored include Mrs. Trinidad Legarda, president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs in the Philippines; Judge Natividad Almeda-Lopez, Mrs. Concepcion Martelino and Miss Sylvia Lim, all of whom were delegates to the recent general meeting of the federation in Portland, Ore. Sharing honors with them will be Miss Concepcion Aguila of Manila, who received her PhD. at Georgetown yesterday.

Nazis Seek East-West War, Miss Schultz Says

The American way of life is faced with three dangers—Nazism and communism, war between east and west, and failure to really work at preserving our freedoms intact. So declared Sigrid Schultz, author of "Germany Will Try It Again," in a luncheon address yesterday before members of the Woman's National Democratic Club.

"One thing emerges after two years of peace," she explained. "It is that Hitler's great military defeat didn't destroy nazism.

"If our Nazi enemies in Germany succeed in precipitating a war between Russia and the west there is no reason to assume that we will destroy communism," she continued.

The author said that the Germans are doing their best to provoke an east-west war in the hopes of weakening all racial strains except their own.

"The American public has a moral duty to make the Germans understand that we expect them to work and contribute their share toward European recovery," she asserted. "The Germans are not doing all they can. In fact, they are offering passive resistance in order to obtain more and more concessions."

No last-minute stir in the kitchen. Prepare this menu in the morning, then you're fresh and cool at dinner. Canned soup, the one hot dish, heats while you arrange the rest of the meal. And Blue Plate Coffee ends your dinner most enjoyably—a blend of finest Latin American coffees, vacuum-sealed.

Blue Plate Mayonnaise
Made by the Wesson Oil People using finest salad oil
JELLIED VEAL
Fresh, fresh flavor of Blue Plate Mayonnaise makes this specially tempting
1 lb. veal (from shoulder, leg or breast)
1 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. unflavored gelatin
2 tbsps. cold water
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
2 tbsps. chopped pickle
2 tbsps. lemon juice
3 tbsps. Blue Plate Mayonnaise
Salt, pepper to taste
Cut veal into small cubes. Simmer with salt and 1½ cups water in covered pan until tender. Drain liquid. (Add water to make 1 cupful, if necessary.) Soften gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water; melt over hot water. Add to broth and stir well. Add remaining ingredients. When beginning to thicken, stir well and pour into oiled molds. Chill. Garnish with Blue Plate Mayonnaise. Serves 4.

Blue Plate Peanut Butter
Smooth—to the bottom of the jar! Does not separate
PEANUT BUTTER CRISPIES
Delicate and flaky with nourishing Blue Plate Peanut Butter
1 cup sifted flour
2 tsps. baking powder
1 cup Blue Plate Peanut Butter
½ cup water
Sift dry ingredients. Cut in Blue Plate Peanut Butter, using two knives or pastry blender. Blend in water, and press into ball. Roll thin on floured board. Use a sharp knife and cut into strips. Bake in 425°F oven about 7 minutes, or until beginning to brown. Cool; store in waxed paper. (Mothers—Blue Plate Peanut Butter adds vitamins, and it's a wonderful, inexpensive protein food.)

Mary Haworth's Mail

Widowed 23 Years Ago, Left With Many Debts And Two Small Sons, Woman Achieves Business Success But Thinks She Failed as a Mother

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Twenty-three years ago my husband died, leaving me a great many debts, no money and two sons then two and four years of age.

I pulled myself up by my bootstraps, as the saying goes; but looking back, I realize that I knew very little about child psychology. I tried to shield my children from hardships, and I gave them money and gifts not in keeping with our circumstances.

We were a closely knit trio, but I have been told that my boys were first-rate "apron-stringers." So much for the past. Now for the present.

Sons Still Cause
Her Much Anxiety

MY ELDER son's marriage ended in divorce, which has caused me a good many heartaches, as I feel that I failed in some way to prepare him for life. However, the immediate problem is the younger boy, Jeff, who is in the armed forces and has been married for a year.

Jeff's wife doesn't want him to re-enlist, as the loneliness of a life of that sort makes her unhappy. At present they are living in another city but want to come here. I have a large home and a business of my own and could give them a boost; but is there danger in doing that?

Is it better for them to start from scratch and work out their own life, rather than cling, as probably would be the case if they came here? I know they would have hard sledding on their own, as Jeff enlisted when very young and knows no trade. What financial help, if any, should I give them? Please tell me what you think is best for their happiness in the circumstances. E. B.

Is She Badgered
By Unjust Critic?

DEAR E. B.: It strikes me that somebody close to you is being unduly critical of your maternal performance, and maybe you have a second husband who seeks, for jealous selfish reasons, to drive a wedge between you and your sons.

If the boys haven't turned out admirably, don't blame yourself. The gist of your story and your manner of speaking reflect credit on you, as a person invested with sturdy emotional balance, better than average social competence and judicious mind, open to reason; all of which suggests that you've probably done as well with your sons as anyone could.

The fact that their father left you with many debts and no money when he died 23 years ago suggests that he couldn't cope with life; and perhaps the boys inherit his ineffectual temperament, hence tend to cling to protective situations and to reject relationships or courses of action which would require them to be self-reliant, productive, contributive characters.

Now, about Jeff: It isn't clear whether he and his wife want to move in on you and be taken care of, or are thinking rather of returning to his home town to work for security in surroundings familiar to him.

Be Neither Soft
Nor Pessimistic

THERE is nothing unmanly per se about a soldier's wish to resume civilian life where he left off, i. e., by seeking employment and a place to call home in the town where he grew up, or from which he was uprooted by Army duty. Indeed, most soldiers make a bee-line, as soon as discharged, back to the place where they came from—if only for a short stay,—to get their bearings. So don't jump to the conclusion that Jeff's intent is parasitical.

As for how much help, if any, to give him: At 25, the most he should expect or receive is secondary aid to his own efforts to help himself. In brief, it is his inalienable obligation to "scratch" for himself and wife now that he's married; and if he is worth helping he will take the initiative in that.

Use your influence in lining up housing possibilities and job opportunities, give him a cash stake, as much as you can spare, as loan or gift, in lump sum or via installments, to start him off; but make it plain that, by and large, he and his wife are due to take care of each other now, and therefore must plan and apply themselves accordingly.

Salad Facts

Roll large leaves of lettuce, after crisping in cold water and draining well, and cut in thin ribbons with a sharp knife; use as a bed for lobster or chicken salad.

Crisply cooked bits of bacon may be added to a French dressing and used over a green salad. Just before tossing the greens and the dressing add some crumbled Roquefort cheese if desired.

Mold cucumbers in mint jelly, surround with watercress and olives and serve with slices of cold lamb for a hot weather meal.

Capers make an excellent addition to potato salad; they should be mixed in with the salad dressing.

Baby's Food

When preparing food for baby, keep stirring the food until cool after removing from the stove. This will prevent the skin from forming on the top and full nourishment will be retained.

Doll's Clothespins

Use a set of doll's clothespins for the new baby's laundry. Lou will find they will hold the material more securely than the large pins and are much easier on these very fine garments.

Clean Ash Trays

Ash trays should be emptied and washed each night before closing up the house. Many housewives neglect this and the room starts with an unpleasant musty smell from the soiled trays.

EVER wonder how important it is for an engine to be able to breathe easily? Then just consider . . .

1. An efficient engine wants to "inhale" about 1,450 cubic feet of air with every gallon of gas. That's volume!

2. An eight-cylinder engine "inhales" as many as 240 times (or more) per second. That's frequency!

Now you know why "free-breathing" engine design is so important.

In the great new Packard Eights, "free-breathing" design involves new streamlined valve design . . . improved carburetion . . . higher compression ratios. It's a design born of Packard's wartime experience . . . building precision power for all the famed PT boats, and for America's fastest planes!

And what does all this mean to the motorist? It means "safety-sprint" acceleration. Extra smoothness. And above all—a gain of up to 10% in fuel economy!

Come in—learn how Packard's "free-breathing" engine design lets you burn more sky . . . less gasoline!

Ask Anne: About Wall Panel For Pictures

Do you know any store that sells sheet cork, suitable for using as a wall panel in our son's room? He likes to draw and paint. With such a panel he could thumb-tack his pictures to the wall, changing them when he liked, and not harm the wall of his room. A. H. M.

It seems that sheet cork is in short supply, but either fiber board or beaver board could be used in the same way. Fiber board is ½ inch thick and comes in sheets 4x8 feet. Beaver board is three sixteenths of an inch thick and comes in 4x6-foot sheets as well as the 4x8-foot sheets. Both materials can be purchased at building supply stores.

I am interested in buying foam rubber, suitable for cushions and chaise longue pads, to be upholstered. Is foam rubber of this sort available and, if so, has it been proved satisfactory and comfortable? Is the price prohibitive? A. H. M.

Several Washington department stores carry foam rubber for upholstering in their drapery departments. It has proven quite satisfactory for the purpose you wish. It sells for approximately $1.75 to $2 a square foot depending upon the size of the piece you buy. It comes in several sizes: 15x17 inches, 15x60 inches, 35x64 inches, and so forth.

Should a rug pad be put under summer fibre rugs? Also, is it necessary to wax the floor under rugs? If rug pad is not used, how about newspaper to catch the dirt? S. S.

Rug pads are not usually used under summer rugs. Neither is it necessary to wax the floor under the rug. It might cause the rugs to slip. I would surely advise using several layers of newspaper under the rug to catch the dirt which shifts through and thus protect the floor.

I recently bought a gingham dress with a full skirt cut on the bias. My friends warn me that when the dress is washed, the front and back skirt seams will stretch, making the hem line uneven. Is there any way to prevent this? K. D. F.

The bias seams can be prevented from stretching if before you wash it, you stitch cotton tape to the seam on the wrong side. If you have ever noticed, this method is used around armholes and on the seams of better ready-made cotton dresses to help them hold their shape. Use the narrow cotton woven tape which comes on a spool and is sold where threads and sewing accessories are sold.

Can you tell me what will remove mildew from a pastel plastic shower curtain? I have just a little around the lower edges and am afraid to use a chlorine bleach because of the color-removing properties. J. M. S.

It is quite possible that this mildew can be removed by laying the curtain on a flat surface and thoroughly washing with soap and water. Sprinkling the stained area with a mild kitchen abrasive as you wash will also help you to hasten its removal from the surface. If the fungus growth has penetrated the plastic, however, nothing will remove it except a bleach, but as you suggest, this probably would remove the color also.

I am sewing together a rug I have braided. I used wool, cut on the bias and folded, but when I make my oval rug it curls and seems more "S" than oval. Also, it will not lie flat. I cannot pin it to the floor as I live in a small apartment. I would appreciate any suggestion you may have. C. S.

The best and surest way to sew a braided rug together so it will lie flat when finished is to place it on the floor or a large table top, lay the braids in place and sew them together as they lay upon the flat surface. If necessary, you can run one hand under the braids as you sew to make it easier but always work with the major part of the rug flat, not heaped up in your lap. If a rug is not flat at every stage of the sewing process no amount of pinning, patting or shaping after it is finished will completely flatten it. Another way to insure a flat finished rug is to have the braid of uniform thickness and not too tightly braided. Some rug makers place the finished rug between the springs and mattress of a double bed for a few days to give it the final shaping.

Can you give me any information on how to clean and polish brass? Also, is there something we could coat it with to keep it shining? R. I. S.

A good cleaner for brass can be made by dissolving as much salt in vinegar as it will take up. If you wish, this solution can be made into a paste by adding flour. Rub the vinegar-salt solution on with a soft cloth and when the brass is bright and shiny, remove all polish by rinsing thoroughly with water. Buff dry with a soft cloth. There are also brass polishing solutions on the market which are very effective. Follow the directions which come with the product you buy.

To prevent the cleaned brass from tarnishing, first go over it with a liberal wiping of benzine (inflammable, so use accordingly). When thoroughly clean and dry, give the article a coat of clear lacquer which is especially made for this purpose. In order to get a good application of lacquer on the polished brass, it is absolutely necessary that all traces of oil be removed from the polished surface with the benzine before lacquering. To do this, wear gloves during the process to prevent the bare fingers from touching the polished brass.

I recently spilled a small amount of merthiolate on a good woolen skirt. The cleaners said they could not remove the spot and did not when they cleaned it. Can I remove it? M. J. W.

Since cleaners who are trained in spot removal were not able to remove the spot, I'm afraid that no home method would be successful.

I have a badly stained gray rayon bengaline spread. The stains did not disappear when professionally dry-cleaned. Since the spread is of little use in its present condition, would you advise my attempting to launder in an automatic washer, using mild soap flakes? C. P. K.

Since you say the spread is not usable as it is, if you have reason to believe that the stains will come out by washing, it's surely worth a try. Be sure to use lukewarm water for the washing. However, if you do not know what the stains are and cannot be sure they will be removed by washing, I would suggest you consider having the spread dyed a darker color. Bengaline is usually made up of two fibers, such as rayon and cotton, so this should be kept in mind if you plan to dye it.

American Group Fired Upon From Red's Korea Zone

Seoul, Tuesday, June 15 (AP).—The United States Army reported today a party of Americans were fired upon from across the Russian occupation boundary Monday. Their Korean interpreter was wounded.

The Army said the group—three American civilians and two Koreans—was inspecting irrigation facilities near the 38th parallel, which divides the American (southern) and Soviet occupation zones.

The incident was near the spot where Karl S. Smith of Huntington, W. Va., was wounded by North Korean constabularymen May 25. Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, United State occupation commander, demanded that the Russians apologize but they have not yet replied.

"Illegal Fraud" Irks Investigator (and Bill)

Our morning contemporary recently ran a headline which said:

Illegal Election Frauds Charged by Investigator

Any edition now, I expect somebody to be charged with a legal election fraud.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Isn't it possible to give our local statues a periodic cleaning to keep them free of the green rust that seems peculiar to bronze?

It seems a pity to permit these memorials to become so unsightly.

W. R. McCallum
4336 Halley ter. se.

Dear Mac:

Organize a cleaning crew, complete with buckets and scrub brushes; tip off our city editor so that he can assign a photographer, and take matters into your own hands.

One story in the newspapers, one scene in the newsreels and I'll bet a regular cleaning routine will be promptly established.

Start on any statue except Kosciuszko's. I want to forget that guy for a while. Bill

COALS TO NEWCASTLE

The local Princeton Club has gone to great pains to insult members of the local Yale Club.

Object: a good attendance at tomorrow's Princeton-Yale whingding at the Bethesda Country Club ($6.50 at the door, and that includes a fine roast beef dinner—advt.)

The Princetons announce that, starting at 1 p. m. they will offer instructions to "the Mice of Yale" in various sporting events, and that prizes will be offered to the champions in the different events.

As an afterthought, the announcement adds that the prizes will probably be of scant interest to the Yales, inasmuch as many Princeton men will be entered in the competition.

Attorney Milton W. King, a Tiger partisan, says that the athletic events in which lessons will be offered to the Yales will include golf, tennis, horseshoe pitching, softball, swimming and elbow bending.

If I'm any judge, the Princetons are wasting their time in at least one respect. I've never known a Yale man who needed instruction in elbow bending.

GIVE-AWAYS

HOT WEATHER NOTES

Lieut. Col. W. W. Bouterse, divisional commander of the National Capital division of the Salvation Army, presided Sunday at the dedication of the Army's new Social Service Center at 1st and F sts. nw.

It was a hot afternoon, and midway through the ceremonies little beads of perspiration began to make their appearance on many a brow.

Holding up one of the large cardboard programs which had been distributed to the gathering, Col. Bouterse observed:

"We couldn't afford to have this new building air-conditioned, but we did the next best thing; we supplied you with large programs. I think you'll find them very efficient as a makeshift cooling system."

There was a chuckle of appreciation from the audience—followed by a steady flutter of programs which made everybody else as comfortable as I had been all along.

You see—I had been seated on the platform, right in front of the trombone player.

Last week the Latin Quarter celebrated its sixth anniversary. Lou Walters, proprietor of the club which is one of the largest in New York, started his career in Boston. He opened his first Latin Quarter there, with a great deal of trepidation and very little cash. The Boston critics who reviewed that opening described the place as having color and charm, because of the checkered tablecloths—Walters selected them because it would cut his laundry bill—and because of the unique lighting—Walters placed wax candles into the necks of empty liquor bottles, only because he couldn't afford to buy lamps.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Bell Rings Education Bill's End

By Drew Pearson

Congressman Edward McCowen, Ohio Republican, who has fathered the Federal-aid-to-education bill in the House, moved, in a closed-door meeting recently, to call a special session of the Education and Labor Committee in order to report the bill out of committee.

Ed O. McCowen

He started to speak but before he finished his motion, the bells rang out the notice that Congress had convened at 10 a.m. Technically committees are not supposed to meet while the House is in session, although it is accepted practice to wind up the pending business before adjourning.

But big Max Schwabe, Missouri Republican, didn't give McCowen a chance.

"Mr. Chairman, the House is now in session," he shouted, jumping to his feet. "It is illegal for the committee to sit while the House is in session. I move that we adjourn."

As the meeting broke up, New York's Congressman Ralph Gwinn rushed over to Schwabe, slapped him on the back and congratulated him for his parliamentary maneuver. What Schwabe did was to kill any chance of bringing the education bill to a test vote, since the committee has only one final meeting day before Congress is supposed to adjourn.

Afterward, Speaker Joe Martin breathed a sigh of relief. For Schwabe's action in bottling up the education bill gets Joe and others off the hook. They can continue to blame the Education and Labor Committee.

Note—Last week this column reported Representative Kelley, Pennsylvania Democrat, as opposed to the education bill because it did not aid church schools. Mr. Kelley now points out that he has introduced a bill giving five million dollars aid to nonpublic schools, but that he is for the education bill in any event. Also, Representative Buck, New York Republican, who was described as being for the education bill if he had the courage to vote against House GOP leaders, now emphatically proclaims that he would be against the bill under any and all circumstances.

Taft vs. Speaker Martin

Senator Taft called at Speaker Martin's office last week with a long list of bills that should be given a hearing before Congress adjourns. He pointed out that it would be bad politics to leave any of these important bills in mid-air.

"We can't make it by June 19," Taft pleaded.

But Martin, now a definite candidate for the GOP nomination against Taft, was unimpressed.

"We can make it over here," he shrugged, referring to the House side of the Capitol, "If you aren't ready to quit on time, that's your concern."

Martin suggested longer hours and harder work, added that nothing on the list was important enough to bring Congress back anyhow.

Note—Afterward, Martin admitted to Republican Congressmen at a private dinner-meeting that the Senate was at a disadvantage because it couldn't control filibusters. If it was necessary for Congress to return, however, he said, he preferred to wait until both political conventions are over. Taft has suggested calling Congress back between the conventions.

Real Estate Lobby

GOP friends of the real estate lobby tried a smart, last-minute maneuver to try to block the housing bill.

Noticing that only four or five Democratic members of the House Banking and Currency Committee were present, GOP Congressman Clarence Kilburn of Malone, N. Y., quickly moved to report out the Wolcott bill minus public housing, slum clearance, and other humanitarian features of the original Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill.

"I object," declared Democrat Wright Patman of Texas. "Some of our colleagues are not present. We should have time to run them up so that they can vote on this."

"It's now 20 minutes to 2 o'clock," ruled Wolcott from the chair. "You can have until 2 o'clock to produce absent members. We vote then."

Representative Boggs of Louisiana and Mike Monroney of Oklahoma jumped into action, rounded up Democratic colleagues and all 11 were on hand to help defeat the Kilburn motion, 14 to 13, with the support of three Republicans—Hull of Wisconsin; Stratton of Illinois, and Scott of Pennsylvania.

GOP Congressman Frank Sundstrom of East Orange, N. J., then moved that loans to farm housing be deleted. This put Scott, a city man from Philadelphia, on the spot.

But Scott fooled his GOP colleagues by voting "present," thus defeating the motion by a 13-to-13 tie vote. Again, Republicans Hull and Stratton, both with many farm voters, voted with the Democrats. However, the desperate Republicans didn't give up. Representative John Kunkel of Harrisburg, Pa., demanded a reconsideration of the vote, still hoping Scott would switch back to the Republicans.

"Gentleman's motion is out of order," hotly contended Boggs of Louisiana.

NEW Scientific Treatments Help You to GROW THICKER HAIR

R. W. FARRELL, Trichologist

Upon Nature's innate system of growth is based Hair Experts' specialized system . . . a plan that results in thicker hair NATURALLY grown and nurtured to full strength and virility with the aid or modern scientific formulae.

First, the scalp is thoroughly and professionally cleansed of its dandruff and other disorders, through special, gentle but effective germicides which penetrate below the skin surface to attack the source of the infection and then reopen clogged passages.

When the basic cause of the scalp trouble is routed, Hair Experts begin the rejuvenating treatments. After energizing the papilla to action, and then creating a fertile "field" for that growth, Hair Experts special formulae (scientifically created by and for them) stimulate the sub-scalp hair growth to normal, natural length, strength and thickness. Then sluggish blood circulation is normalized to flood the hair follicles with life-giving "food" for hair growth. Come in IMMEDIATELY for a free private scalp examination. Relax under our pleasant, professional treatments and care that helps revitalize hair to virile activity.
